ORGANIZATION MOST ESSENTIAL.

In every political contest a striking illustration of the efficacy of party organization is shown; we see the more harmonious and compact party triumphant. With a fixed purpose to win the coming important election every Democrat in Maryland, especially in the close counties like Caroline, should give early thought to the coming contest. A solid front of Democratic ballots should be the only answer to those who seek to draw away the attention of the vigilant in order that the enemy's hosts may ride through our party lines and give us battle from within as well as from without. Organize!

"Without organization," says the Westminster Advocate, a veteran Democratic journal, "nothing can be accomplished, not only in the field of politics, but in any other direction of human endeavor. Without organization there would be no spread of Methodism, or Catholicism, or Presbyterianism or other religious creed, and no spreading of christianity or morality. There would be no theological seminaries for the instruction of christian teachers, and the great schools and universities under sectarian direction would not be in existence, and these, as a rule, are the most useful and most proficient, for christianity and good morals are taught along with the usual branches of secular education. And the educated man, whose religious training has been neglected, is as apt to be a detriment to society as a benefit.

Organization is essential in all fields of human endeavor. Without it there can be no success. It is singular that there can be found intelligent people who write and act upon a different principle, yet there are newspapers today constantly depreciating political organization. They are those who pride themselves upon being "independent," allied to no party and supporting no principle. They usually have a hobby and will act with any party for the time-being that embraces that hobby in their creed. That hobby may be good for the general welfare, but coupled with it in the party's platform may be evils far outweighing the promised good. And as these journals have no settled principles, they are ever changing their hobbies, which are ridden for popular applause and pecuniary gain regardless of the public good."

EDITORIAL NOTES.

At the coming election, next November, the people will have to elect three members of the Court of Appeals, two associates judges of the Supreme Bench of Baltimore city and two associate judges of circuits courts. These vacancies, now filled by gubernatorial appointment, were occasioned by death, resignation or promotion. During the past ten years there have been seven changes in the Court of Appeals, so that only one of the original court remains, namely, the present chief judge, John M. Robinson, lately promoted by appointment of the Governor to succeed Judge Alvey. It is noteworthy, in connection with the second judicial circuit, that Chief Judge Robinson and his associates in the circuit, Judges Wickes and Stump, have been continuously on the bench ever since they were first elected under the constitution of 1867, and Judge Robinson was a judge prior to that time. The second circuit is the only one of the eight, including Baltimore city, in which there have been no changes of the Judges during the past 26 years.

Fourteen State Senators are to be elected next fall to represent Allegany, Caroline, Cecil, Charles, Dorchester, Garrett, Harford, Montgomery, Prince George's, Queen Anne's, St. Mary's, Talbot and Worcester counties and the Second legislative district of Baltimore city. The Senator from Queen Anne's is to fill out the unexpired term of the Hon. John B. Brown, resigned. Members of the House of Delegates are to be chosen in all the counties and in Baltimore city. There will be a great many important matters of legislation before the next General Asssemby, but especial prominence is already promised to the question of taxation and reassessment.

The Baltimore News has been waging relentless war on policy gambling in the Monumental City. As might have been expected suits for libel were brought against the News. A verdict in one of these cases was returned on Saturday last in favor of the paper, and policy gambling received its death blow. The News is to be congratulated.

The Snow Hill Messenger says the Worcester Democracy is enthusiastic over Col. John Walter Smith giving his consent to again serve them as State Senator. There is no doubt about his ability to secure the unanimous nomination and an election, and there never has been a doubt.

New Jersey will make tramps work on the public road, and an exchange remarks of the poetic justice of this order, for the knights of the road are much interested in good highways, as are everybody else.

The Easton Ledger very appropriately refers to Hon. Wm. Finkney White's speech on Gladstone as what one "Grand Old Man" says of another "Grand Old Man."

About two hundred Marylanders, who were in the Confederate Army, were in Richmond Wednesday to attend the reinterment of the remains of Jefferson Davis.

Cotton Dress Goods.

No one pretends to tell their full story here, No need to tell it,

Think of all that's best and brightest in such stuffs. Let Fancy help Fact and idealize Cotton loveliness — weave, color, daintiness.

Then look at these sorts.

Beyonds your dreams.

From 5c Challis to Silk-and-Cotton Ginghams at 60c, and exquisite Velour Russé at 75c.

Simply a succession of weave of price wonders.

Upwards of thirteen hundred feet of shelf room given over to these goods alone! More than a QUARTER OF A MILE!

Year by year the near-home weavers are getting closer and closer to the best from abroad. Maybe some of them are getting ahead. No matter; we reach for the best wherever it can be had.

And many an extra interesting lot comes this way.

You know the 12½c Ginghams at 8c. They were the talk of the town till the 25c Silk-stripe Ginghams came at 10c. Doubled the talk. You hear of nothing really like either of them anywhere else.

Now one of the newest Velour Russé—elegant in every way, 42 in. and meant to be 65c, may go at 50c.

A step away are the delicate English Dotted Swiss (printed) at 25c from 35c.

And so it goes. Where the sunshine of Fashion and favor strike warmest is exactly where you are like to find the most tempting price surpise.

The beauty of the Women's Sail Cloth Suits is not alone their natty neatness and winsome whiteness and Etonese elegance. They'll stand grief; they'll stand washing—enjoy it. No need to pick the path for them. $5.

Duck Suits begin at $4.

Serge Suits, $6, $8.50, $9 and up.

Measure the $8.50 Suits by any around town at $12, or the $12 Suits by the $18 ones in other stores.

Women's Bathing Suits.

Cuter in cut and prettier in combinations than you've ever known. Making, finishing better, too—wherever they could be bettered. There's as much for comfort in the fit and set of a Bathing Suit as in the fit and set of Dress—almost more.

We've seen to it that nothing is slighted.

Begin at $2 — girls or women's.

Floor Linens have the floor. Arguments all on one side. The whole Carpet contingent calls for them. It's a question of Carpet protection—with the freest of free trade on the Linen side.

Floor widths, 53 to 180 in.
Stair widths, 14 to 36 in.

Rooms measured and estimates made without charge.

Whether you go to Chicago or not you'll be interested in a World's Fair Guide.

Sixty-five big pages, lavishly illustrated, carefully and fully told. And with a bouncing great map—table top size—of the city of Chicago and the World's Fair buildings and grounds. Ten cents, by mail 12c.

JOHN WANAMAKER.

MEN'S SUITS Medium prices, neat patterns and good styles. Anywhere from $10 to $15 or $20 you can find something which will last all Summer, give good wear and look well as long as you have it. Two more lots of our own make of $10 Suits just in stock from the workrooms, and if you can get as good a suit anywhere for the money we don't know where it is. Many of the $15 and $16 Suits are also of our make, which means that the goods is sponged, garments sewed throughout with silk, and you are sure to get satisfaction in any one of them you buy. Don't forget our Furnishing Department or summer furnishing, neglige shirts, underwear, ties, etc. Prices right, popular styles and plenty of them.
