THE "SMART" REPUBLICAN EDITOR.

The Union editor masticates again this week a lot of the stuff he had in his paper last week and the week before. We refer to the matter of his prodigious effusions on county finances but very briefly, to show how he has attempted to cover up the facts by a multiplicity of figures that he has seduced into taking unwarranted liberties with the truth. We made the statement last week that the taxable basis in 1888 was $4,250,656. This we take from the files of the JOURNAL, as published by the county treasurer, and we vouch for its correctness. At the same time we stated that the taxable basis in 1892 was $4,466,267. We took the county statement published in the Union, for our authority, and we presumed it to be correct. If it is not, we shall lay our mistake, if we have made one, at the door of the publishers of the Union. If the basis was $4,428,716, as the Union now states, instead of $4,466,267, as it then published officially, then the tax rate for school purposes would have been nearly the same to produce $10,000 in 1888 and $11,000 in 1892. The present board of county commissioners have been peculiarly fortunate in not having to assume the responsibility of levying upon the taxpayers for the entire amount of money expended by them. Had such been the case their expenditure in 1892 of $46,244 (as published in the Union, and, of course, correct,) would have required a levy of 122 cents on the $100—7 cents more than the levy of 1888 and 12 cents more than the levy of 1889, '90 and '91, under Democratic administration. In 1893 their expenditure of upwards of $43,000 would have required a levy of 114 cents on the $100, 4 cents more than the levies of the last three years of Democratic control, and but one cent less than the highest figure of the Democratic boards. And if the thousand or two dollars of road accounts that were purposely held back, for the making of political capital, until the levy was closed had been paid, as they should have been, the rate would have run up close to 120 on the $100.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

Mayor Carter Harrison, of Chicago, to whom credit is due, in a large measure, for the great success of the World's Fair, was shot down and killed by a crank of the Guiteau order last Saturday evening. Calling at the mayor's house the the assassin waited at the door and sent three ballots into the body of the victim. The crank made haste to put himself under the protection of the police. Had he not done this infuriated citizens would have hanged him. Mr. Harrison lived but twenty minutes. His death threw over the last days of the great exposition a cloud of gloom little in accord with the program marked out by the formerly enthusiastic and jubilant officials at Jackson Park.

The Denton Union, which essays to speak for two parties this year, positively refuses to say which of these parties will receive Mr. Bernard's vote next Tuesday, although repeatedly asked the question. By keeping his mouth shut on this subject the editor doubtless hopes to secure many votes for the Prohibition-Republican candidate which he would certainly not get were his real position known.

Mark your ballot in the space to the right of the Democratic emblem and put no other marks on it, and you will vote the whole Democratic ticket.

Take this lesson to yourself! See that every Democrat in your neighborhood who is entitled to vote reaches the polls next Tuesday.

Mark your ticket in the space at the right of the Democratic emblem —Jackson and liberty—and mark it only in that place.

THOMAS ALEXANDER SMITH

Was born near Greenwood, Del., on September 3, 1850. One year later his parents removed to the Lee farm, near Whiteleysburg, and five years thereafter to Caroline county to the farm where Mr. Charles F. Smith now lives. Mr. Smith's early schooling was at Long's, after which for about two years he attended the Denton Academy. Subsequently he taught school in Delaware, at Ridgely, Lockhaven, Pa., and in Michigan. While still a very young man, he returned to Ridgely and again taught the village school with success. He afterward embarked with his brother, T. W. Smith, in the mercantile business, and was appointed agent of the Delaware & Chesapeake railway. He has manifested the greatest interest in the development of the town of Ridgely, and has helped along every good work to that end. He was and is a conspicuous advocate of the building of the Greensborough and Federalsburg railroad, which he thinks, with a great majority of his fellow-citizens, would rapidly develop central and southern Caroline and add thousands of dollars to the county's wealth. For many years he has been a consistent member of the Methodist Episcopal Church, but all religious societies within the range of his wide acquaince receive his helping hand. His energy and thoroughness in business are proverbial. His great interest in the cause of education led the Governor to select him as one of Caroline's school commissioners, and his presence in the board has been felt for good throughout the county. He is one of Caroline's best business men, and his name is a synonym of integrity. He is a ready and fluent speaker, and the State Senate will contain no man who will more faithfully and efficiently represent his constituents. He is an unswerving Democrat who has never before been a candidate, and will maintain the good record of his able predecessors in the Senate of Maryland.

GEORGE ALEXANDER DEAKYNE

Was born near New Castle, Delaware, in 1857. When a lad he went to Cecil county, where he resided several years. He came to Caroline in 1880, and for some time was a clerk in the store of Mr. J. H. Vangesel in this place. Subsequently he was appointed Deputy Clerk of the Circuit Court by Col. Gadd and in 1889 was chosen treasurer of the county by a very large majority. Mr. Deakyne's efficiency in the office where he now is is spoken of and acknowledged by all men who have business in that important office. Any taxpayer who takes the trouble to examine the books and accounts in the office of the county commissioners, and the vast number of important papers, can but conclude that Mr. Deakyne is the best officer the board has ever had, and this is said without disparagement to any of his predecessors. For clerical work Mr. Deakyne has very few equals and no superiors in Caroline county. His excellent book-keeping has only to be seen to be commended. His systematizing of the different papers pertaining to the public service is most admirable, and any business man will appreciate the great saving of time which Mr. Deakyne's methods have wrought. He is quick and accurate, very obliging and, therefore, popular with everybody. Mr. Deakyne will be reelected, the republicans not being able to find any one to place on their ticket against him.

PHILADELPHIA Monday, Oct. 30th, 1893

Fur Trimmings. Never a time when so near to "everybody" was wanting them. And, singularly enough, the usual word is, "If you'll leave your order, please, we'll have it for you in a few days." See if you hear any such talk here. See if just the kind you want in just the quantity you ask for isn't ready and waiting for you—from 30c upward.

Fur Head Scarfs have two special characteristics—largest assortment, smallest prices. For instance:

Genuine Hudson Bay Neck Scarfs, patent head and claws, $5.

All the Fur Capes were made to our special order. They are copies of the richest styles Paris furriers produced for this season.

At $12.50.
Genuine French Coney Capes, 24 in. long, full sweep and large collar, handsomely lined with good satin.

At $15.
Electric Seal Capes, full sweep and large collar of genuine marten, handsomely lined with good satin.

At $16.
Genuine Black Astrakhan Capes, 24 in. long, with large collar, full sweep good satin lining.

At $25.
Monkey Capes, 24 in. long, full sweep collar of Electric Seal, lined with extra good satin.

Mink, Seal, Marten, Persian and the other favorite Furs are also in profusion.

Self-colored Dress Goods—the modestly beautiful stuffs that women of quiet tastes can wear as freely as any of the plain weaves.

It takes real art to bring out these monotint pictures so exquisitely. Whether in flowers or figures, in dots or spots or splashes—no matter what the design, there's a grace and elegance to the work that lifts the old familiar weaves into a light of loveliness.

These self-cslored sorts have three long counters solely to themselves. Probably more than a thousand styles and colors—75c to $3 the yard. And the best of it is that quality for quality, prices are 10 to 25 per cent under those of last season.

Here are a few of the very newest.

At 75c a yard.
38 in. All-wool French Epingline, 41 colorings.

At 75c a yard.
