DEMOCRATIC TICKET.

FOR CONGRESS:

JOHN WALTER SMITH,
OF WORCESTER COUNTY.

PSEUDO PROTECTION.

Protection of home industries is one of the cardinal principles of the pseudo revenue bill of 1897. In that respect it is only a half-way measure, reckoned from the standpoint of a consistent protectionist. It is no protection whatever to the farmers to put an import tax on the articles they export, and they are, under the operations of the Dingley law, compelled to sell a large proportion of their surplus products in wheat pits and cotton exchanges—international markets—and outside competition makes the price, under ordinary conditions, on a free-trade basis; but they are compelled to buy everything at protective prices. "An export bounty on agricultural staples," says an advocate of equitable protection, "would as effectually raise the home prices of the entire production of these staples as a protective tariff is effectual in artificially enhancing the home price of imported and of home manufactures." This plea for justice and equity in the protective system is unanswerable yet timely, as agricultural products make up three-fourths of the exports of this country. It is, at the same time, a sharp arraignment of the protective system as a whole. Why should the price of any commodity be artificially raised for the sole purpose of "protecting" monopolistic manufacturing concerns? The result would be the same to the people—the consumers—they would have to pay the bounty on agricultural products, as they now pay the bounty government allows manufacturers to exact from them on their goods. The time for bounty-giving ought to be passed when a protected manufacture is more largely exported from this country than from any of the great manufacturing nations of the world. It is the proud boast of the prosperity-howling newspapers that our manufactures of steel and other metals are in fair shape to outstrip the world. Could they do this if to the price quoted foreign buyers were added the 40 or 50 per cent. import tax which they are authorized to charge home buyers? Not by a long sight! They have met other manufacturers upon equal terms in an unprotected market and carried off the lion's share of trade. Protection may have been fit work for national legislature when our manufacturing industries were in an experimental stage, but in this day of America's acknowledged greatness it discounts the business enterprise of our people, the genius and skill of our workmen and travesties our independence and limitless resources. The past achievements of trade are but an earnest of that to come usward if it is properly sought—if the markets of the world are opened to us untrammeled by restrictions of protective tariffs, and stimulated, as is alone needful, by healthy competition. Equitable protection would be bad enough, but when one-fourth of our products and a handful of producers are "protected," and the remaining three-fourths of our products and almost all the millions of our people are "unprotected," it is robbery on a large scale, with government's sanction. If protection must be equity must be its ruling feature; but much better will it be for the nation if we cast away protection as a baby device unsuited to a grown-up, vigorous and business-seeking nation.

PULL TOGETHER FOR WATER WORKS.

The need of water works in Denton grows more and more imperative all the time, as the insurance companies doing business here grow more cautious about their risks. The press and the business men should make a compact for unremitting efforts for this attainable project until it is attained. The advantages of water works, outside of protection from fire, have been given time and again by the JOURNAL, and appeal not less now than ever to the comfort-loving householder; but the cold facts will not allow us to lose sight of the main object, preservation of our property interests. Insurance rates on property in the business part of the town have reached a most burdensome figure, oftentimes as high as six per cent., and in the residence portions the rate has been increased within the past five years one hundred per cent. Water works, and nothing but water works, will bring us relief in this respect, for it has been demonstrated on several occasions that Denton has as skilful and determined fire-fighters, and as good fire apparatus and water supply as can be found in any of the peninsula towns. Therefore, let the property-owners, the business men and everybody make a long pull, a strong pull and a pull altogether for water works, and we will get them.

There is a rumor current that the one Democratic member of the peace commission intends to resign. The reason is not given, but it is presumed that sufficient cause exists. Perhaps he objected to playing pawn for President McKinley in a cut-out game of diplomacy.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

If the suggestions of the Czar of Russia are to be carried out—and it is to be earnestly hoped they will be—the profession of arms will become obsolete, and war's alarms wil be heard no more. The ruler of the greatest military country in the world, who has 2,500,000 soldiers at his beck, says the maintenance of great armies and armaments are intolerable burdens upon the people, from which the nations should by all means be willing to free themselves. A war of the present day is brief but terrible, as illustrated in our recent short conflict with Spain, and there are many reasons to urge that the United States, now also a great military and naval power, should follow and endorse the proposal of the Russian. Would not guaranteed peace be better than the expenditure of hundreds of millions more for greater navies and larger armies—with impoverished taxpayers?

The Philadelphia Times raphsodizes over the entry of the oyster and the reed bird on the city bill of fare, and nature's bountifulness in general, thusly: "Our nation, it may be repeated, has been gifted with a most generous measure of bounty. Between the two oceans and from the lakes to the gulf the light of the fructifying sun is reflected in the glad smile of growing harvests, and the orchard trees that seem more than willing to bend beneath their luscious loads. But as if this was not enough; as if our people had been so given less than their deservings, this pair of nature's tastiest masterpieces, the homely oyster and its feathered comrade of the moment, are added to crown the mighty feast."

Famous orators of the United States are to be invited to participate in the great Peace Jubilee to be held in Chicago in October. Among others the committee on invitations and speakers have extended invitations to the following to take part: Ex-President Cleveland, Ex- President Harrison, Secretary Alger, Senator Thurston, Senator Wolcott, Henry Watterson, Gen. Fitzhugh Lee, Gen. Joseph Wheeler, Senator Daniel, Archbishop Ireland, Secretary Wilson, Ex-Secretary of State Olney.

Recent developments in the case of Captain Alfred Dreyfus, undergoing imprisonment on Devil's Island, for divulging army and state secrets, are likely to vindicate that young officer. Colonel Henry, who was attached to the War Department when Dreyfus was convicted, confessed the forgery of a letter which was the chief factor in the conviction, and then committed suicide. Dreyfus will probably be retried, and acquitted.

Philadelphia is preparing to celebrate the triumph of American arms in the late war with Spain with a grand peace jubilee. Doubtless a large number of people do heartily rejoice that some loved one has returned from the war, and the proposed civic function will not be to them simply a big show.

Mr. William C. F. Waller is now local editor and business manager of the Dover Delawarean. Mr. William Saulsbury, editor and owner, is preparing to take a little rest from the arduous labors of newspaper editorship and general management.

Are some of our town authorities somnambulists? Weeds grow high on the sides of some of the pavements and sidewalks, and proper sanitary regulations about many places are not observed.

The Rev. Sam Jones thinks that people will never too good to fight. Should the Reverend Sam continue his rounds to stir them up during these hot days the probabilities are that they will not.—Ex.

About eight thousand people were present Monday at a reunion of Heptasophs at Pen-Mar, where the annual address was delivered by Olin Bryan, Esq., of Baltimore.

The esteemed Washington Post asks: "Do pensions paralyze patriotism?" Whether they do or not, some of the so-called patriots paralyze pensions.—News.

OUR STANDARD-BEARER.

From the Baltimore Herald.

The convention at Ocean City was made up of the very best element of the Shore Democracy, and a more representative gathering has never collected in the First district. Every county was represented by the ablest and most influential members of the party, all of whom evinced a deep interest in the proceedings. There were present farmers, lawyers, merchants and bankers, all men of intelligence and all very much in earnest. Some of them differed radically as to the financial policy of the Government, and entered decided objections to the incorporation in the platform of the party any plank that did not correspond with their views. But, notwithstanding this difference of opinion, there was absolutely no bitterness manifested. They presented their case in an argumentative way, and the replies were made in the same spirit.

Easton Correspondence Baltimore Sun.

The nomination of John Walter Smith for Congress at the Ocean City convention is heartily endorsed by the Democrats of Talbot county. They remember that when Charles H. Gibson was nominated for Congress the first time at a convention held in Cambridge, when Thomas J. Keating and Philip W. Downes were candidates against him, Colonel Smith, who was a delegate from Worcester in that convention, made the nomination of Mr. Gibson. The recollection of this was warm in the minds of people like Dr. Rose, Mr. Wooters, Mr. Elliott and others, who took Talbot's vote to Colonel Smith. It is a satisfactory nomination here; so would have been Applegarth's, Ellegood's, Hopper's or Vickers'.

From the Snow Hill Messenger.

When this question presented itself to the Democracy of the First district some months ago, with a unanimity unparalleled in the political history of the Shore, the name of one man was uppermost in the thoughts of the people, and at once they made known their desires that the Honorable John Walter Smith, the indefatigable Democratic leader of Worcester county, must be the standard bearer in the campaign of 1898. The Democracy of this district have named the man without Boss dictation and without opposition, and it is the opinion of most people that he will be elected by a substantial majority.

From the Chestertown Transcript.

"There is not a man in the first congressional district which the Republicans could elect this year," is the summing up of the congressional situation by a prominent Kent county Republican several days ago. Continuing he said, "the fact that Col. John Walter Smith was the father of the free school-book-bill will win voters to him from among the people who most felt the need of thi great relief. Even the colored people will be drawn to the originator of this timely move in behalf of the poor. Then too, he is a fighter and has money." This struck us as pretty strong Democratic argument.

From the Centreville Observer.

The nominee is a broad-minded, unselfish gentleman, possessing all the qualifications necessary in the make-up of a successful congressman, and in the event of his election, which is well-nigh assured, will again place this district in a position to secure needed legislation because of the ability of its representative. Queen Anne's will give Colonel Smith a large majority.

From the Cambridge Democrat and News.

On all sides now it is regarded as certain that the fight will be between Mr. Smith and Col. Wilbur F. Jackson, and every public man that we have talked with, whose opinion is worth considering, does not hesitate to say that Smith will win. But let the Republicans know what to expect next year.

WANAMAKER'S

PHILADELPHIA, Monday, August 29, 1898.

Wanamaker's is always thronged.

Home folks take it for granted, but visitors—especially merchant visitors—look on in wonder. Crowds on hot days; crowds even on rainy days—crowds of pleasant people whose very elbowing is good-natured.

The store is made a pleasant, attractive thoroughfare—with rest-places for people and their parcels. It is a place to come to. It is a store that does things—that even in August takes in and shows more bright good goods than one runs across anywhere else, even in the months when all hope to be busy.

This very activity keeps the store different and in advance. And makes it the logical exchange place where prudent people and especially critical people turn for supplies. There's newness always; there's right economy—very decided economy in this store that never wastes time through do-nothing dullness.

Cotton dress goods.

Economy, even to buy for next year's uses—saying nothing of this season's stored-up warmness. Why, the mercury floated in the 80s on October days last year.

Organdies, foreign cloth, American printing, 10c.

Organdies, our French-printed 35c daintiness, 12½c.

Fancy Figured Swisses, 37½c that were 75c.

Genuine Irish Dimities—figures and stripes, plain navy blue and red. The full season's price 25c. These, 15c.

Some staple dress goods for autumn wear are on show. Conditions of ownership let us name lower prices than we believe will be charged for the next lots that come.

Diagonal Cheviot, an all-wool melange, in four grays. 46 in., 50c.

Two-toned Granite Cloth; seven color plays. Just like the $1 lots of a year ago. 42 in., 50c.

Fancy brocade silk-mixed Suitings—seven color combinations 44 in., 65c.

Bayadere-stripe Covert Cloth, 45 in., 50c. Four shades.

48 in. Serge, navy, brown, myrtle, garnet, gray and cadet blue. 50c.

And these always-good Black fabrics are worth a look—

All-wool Serge—
42 in., 50c — 50 in., 75c
44 in., 60c — 52 in., $1

All-wool Cheviot—
42 in., 50c — 48 in., $1.25
50 in., at 75c, 85c and $1.

Women's stylish tan Shoes, $1.75.

It's this way: The owners of some splendid footwear couldn't count profit until the last shoe of the season was coined into cash. So they asked us for a bid; parleyed a bit; and accepted.

But that isn't the worst of it. These fine Shoes came, and they've made our regular lines look mighty dear—so dear that we've marked down twelve styles of our own good fresh stock to the bargain price of the lot we bought.

Result—

$2.40, $2.90 and $3 shoes at $1.75.

They are made from the world's three finest tannings of kidskin, and the shoemaking is worthy of the leathers.

Button and lace—and the care of making is shown in the silk-worked eyelets of the lace shoes, while the front stay is either of vesting or fine kidskin inlaid.

Some have welted and stitched soles; the others, daintily turned soles. All sizes when the selling starts.
