The Importance of Pure ed

Beginning October 1st, Maryland will have in effect as just a seed law as any State in the Union. All honest dealers favor it, and it will protect the farmers. It is the seed inspector's intentions to enforce this law, and he will be greatly benefited if farmers will get acquainted with the law and know its provisions, especially those wherein they are protected. Among its provisions of interest to farmers is the requirement that every package of seed containing ten pounds or more must bear a tag giving the per cent of purity, the germination percent, with date made, and contain a statement as to the presence of certain noxious weeds. I have a quotation of crimson seed from a Baltimore firm on my desk testing 97 per cent pure. Too many, no doubt, that seems high purity, but you must consider that 99½ per cent pure clover can contain 70,000 weed seeds per bushel. Three per cent of impurities, if weed seeds will put about 2 weed plants on every square foot of your field. It is to protect the grower from getting weed seed with his farm seeds that the law has been enacted. It is impossible for seedmen to guarantee their seed to grow under all conditions, nevertheless a seedman or dealer who will not put a live guarantee back of his seed should be passed by. In buying seed every farmer should demand, because good seed houses will give it, not only the ticket giving the information the law requires, but in addition, a guarantee that after the seed have been taken home and a test made, if in any way they are not satisfactory the seed can be returned, and not only the full price returned but, in addition, transportation charges both ways. In buying seed, as well as other commodities, watch the guarantee. If it fails to promise full and complete satisfaction pass it by. To assist the farmers in the matter of seeds the county agent will be glad to get the seed analyed to make a complete test of any sample of seed brought to him. When it costs nothing to know what you put in the ground for seed, why take chances?

This is the kind you'll be writing later on.

Being a native of Kent county, Maryland, I naturally feel an interest in the Kent county boys and girls. It affords me pleasure to recommend to these boys and girls the Beacom Business Colleges of Wilmington. This school does more for its students and graduates than any other school that I know of. Its courses are thorough, practical and conducted by men who appreciate the high responsibilities resting with such schools I attribute my success in a large degree to the opportunities the training received at the B. B. C. afforded me.

Fight Off Cholera

NOW WITH

Cal-Sino Hog Restorative

THE PREVENTIVE treatment of Hog Cholera with Cal-Sino Hog Restorative Powder is easier, safer and more satisfactory than trying to cure the disease itself after it attacks your hogs for all too often sudden violent attacks occur which leave no time for treatment and so always cause speedy death.

A warm spell of weather is apt to bring an outbreak of Cholera at any time. To insure against loss and to get the most weight it pays to give a regular course of Cal-Sino. It costs only about 10c to 20c per hog per month, depending upon size, to fortify against disease and to make them fleshier, for Cal-Sino helps to get all the real body-building flesh-making material out of the food—and that's what counts.

If you once try it, you'll use it always. Ask your neighbors and the dealers. Don't put it off—delay may cause you loss.

TELEPHONE, CALL OR WRITE FOR SOME TO-DAY

MR. WILBUR S. JENNINGS, Brownsville, Md., writes:—
"We lost 22 out of 26 hogs before we started to use Cal-Sino Hog Restorative, and we have the 4 yet. I am quite sure we would have lost them all if we had not fed Cal-Sino; so it just saved us $60 to $70, and it would have saved at least $260.00 for us if we could have had it in time."
