ROCK HALL

Miss Edith Wheat and Charles Jacob were married and are residing at the home of Frank Jacob.

An aged colored woman, Rachel Frisby, died Saturday of tumor. She was buried Monday.

Two colored men were soliciting alms several days ago saying they wished money enough to go to Baltimore on the ferry. They stopped at Charles Coleman's, who was at work in Wesley Chapel Cemetery, and when Mr. Coleman went home he missed a revolver, flash light and food. Going to the ferry he accused the men and threatened to get the sheriff, so they ran off. After Mr. Coleman left one of them offered a revolver for sale.

Mr. and Mrs. Edgar Judefind were recent hosts to Mr. and Mrs. Biedler, of Washington, and at present are entertaining Mrs. Florence Bachman and daughter, Mrs. Jessie Brown and two children, of Baltimore. The party spent Monday with Miss Luella Miller, of Swan Creek.

Mr. and Mrs. Romie Scoone had as guests for a couple of days their son, Harrison, and friends, Milton Meekins, Jr., Reuben Curl, Wm. Hemmeter Daniel J. Will and others, of Baltimore, who spent the time most pleasantly catching fish. They used the ferry for the transfer of themselves and cars.

Twin-Six Cartoonist

Twelve Cylinder Packard Draws Crowd

Alton Packard, Master Cartoonist and Humorist Extraordinary, is not a car but a cartoonist. In fact, he may be said to be a car-tune-ist, for the musical part of his program is as tuneful as the cartooning is clever. The Louisville Courier-Journal says of his work, "'Vanity Fair,' by Alton Packard, was undoubtedly the very best entertainment feature of the splendid Chautauqua program."

This platform favorite will appear here on the opening night of the coming Chautauqua. His program will be superlatively fine in all its features. He calls it a "Comedy Musical and Cartoon Review," and it is both comical and musical.

Packard says, "I first practised cartooning on the school teacher, who in turn practised teaching and jiujitsu on us boys. We kept that teacher as busy as a one-armed fiddler. I drew cartoons of the teacher and the teacher drew blisters on me. Almost daily I was invited to the wood-shed where I was warmly applauded. My cartoons and jokes always got a hand and teacher was a hard-handed applauder."

This boy grown to manhood has developed his natural tendencies to the point where he is perhaps the best-known platform cartoonist in the country.

His "Review" will be preluded by the Del Mar Ladies' Quartet in an instrumental and vocal program of unusual merit and popularity.

Look in the Glass

Look in the glass and learn if you can look yourself square in the eye. If you have a family, but no insurance, we think you will not like the reflection.

Why is insurance like Aladdin's Lamp? Because it acts immediately when the rub comes.

"Widow—Is that the wolf at the door? Daughter—No; it is the man with the life insurance money. Widow — Thank God. Daughter — And the Insurance Agent."
