MR. TILDEN AND GEN. HANCOCK .- The Hart-Mr. John Kelly's recent utterances, says: "Mr. Tilden had great power in 1880, and took good care to upset many plans of the Hancock paign." The New York Sun, which may be regarded as Mr. Tilden's organ, if he has one, pronounces this statement untrue, and adds: Tilden and his friends did everything in their power to promote the success of Gen. Hancock in 1880. They did nothing to upset the plans of that campaign. They worked for Hancock; they talked for Hancock, and they voted for Hancock like true men. It was not their fault that he was not elected. Mr. Tilden has never been unfaithfal to his party or to its candidates." The Sun certainly comes much nearer the truth than either
