Laura Wright
vs.
Noah Wright.
In the Circuit Court for Caroline County.
In Equity.

The object of this suit is to procure a decree divorcing the plaintiff, Laura Wright, from the defendant, her husband, Noah Wright, a vinculo matrimonii.

The bill states:

That on or about the twenty-seventh day of March, 1901, she was married to the defendant, Noah Wright, at Ridgely, Maryland, by Rev. J. W. Walters, a minister of the gospel, of the African M. E. Church.

That after her said marriage to the defendant, they lived together in Philadelphia and in Caroline county, Maryland as husband and wife until about th day of , 1904, when the defen ant left and abandoned your orat rix without just cause or reason.

That your oratrix is informed an believes that the defendant, since he abandoned your oratrix, has lived and now living in the city of Philadelphia, State of Pennsylvania.

That said abandonment has continued uninterruptedly for more than three years and is deliberate and final, and beyond any reasonable hope or expectation of reconciliation.

It is thereupon, this 30th day of October, 1911, ordered by the Circuit Court for Caroline County, in Equity, that the plaintiff, by causing a copy of this order to be inserted in some newspaper published in Caroline county once in each of four successive weeks before the 4th day of December, next, give notice to the said absent defendant of the object and substance of this bill, warning him to appear in this court, in person or by solicitor, on or before the 21st day of December next, to show cause, if any he has, why a decree ought not to be passed as prayed.

PRAISE WHERE PRAISE IS DUE.

I have been most successful with my Incubator Chickens this year, having raised 100 per cent. of Chickens hatched. In former years I was only able to raise about 40 to 50 per cent.; then I fed them on home products, but this year I am feeding Bolgiano's "Square Deal" Foods entirely, and attribute my success to your nicely balanced foods. My hatches were made with one of your Buckeye Incubators. I tell you this because I believe in giving praise where praise is due. TO THE DEMOCRATIC VOTERS OF THE STATE OF MARYLAND.

The investigation by the Grand Jury of the ballot boxes and ballots in the recent primaries in Baltimore City, has at length proceeded to the point where it is possible to summarize results.

The investigation has shown an unfortunate condition in the City which has resulted in many prosecutions against both Democratic and Republican election officials. Just as many Republican as Democratic judges and clerks of election have been presented. Every polling place was manned and every count of the ballots therein in the recent primaries was conducted by two Democratic judges and two Republican judges, and by one Democratic clerk and one Republican clerk. The returns were made up, signed, sworn to and certified by Republicans as well as Democrats. The officials of both parties equally participated therein.

In the investigation of Republican ballot boxes, miscounts of Republican ballots and falsifications of Republican returns have been discovered These grave offenses against the ballot cannot justly be laid to the door of either party. The Democratic party of Baltimore City is composed approximately of 65,000 affiliated voters. There have been, up to this writing, 118 election officials, who are Democrats, indicted.

Can it be said that the misconduct of these few officials is to be ascribed to the large individual and organic membership of the Democratic party of the City, composed of thousands upon thousands of just and honest men, who are not only law-abiding citizens, but unquestionably constitute the intelligent and responsible citizenship of Baltimore? Neither party can, upon either moral or legal grounds, be held accountable for the misdoings of a comparatively few of its individual members. It is not a matter of party responsibility at all.

If, however, it is to be considered a matter of party responsibility, then no one can deny that both parties must equally share that responsibility. The Republicans are no more free from the burden than the Democrats; but, on the contrary, are fully and equally subject to it.

Assuming then, for the argument, that both the Democratic and Republican party are to be charged with this accountability, how do the two parties respectively stand before the people of this State in the coming election? What has the Democratic party to offset the debit which the supposed responsibility for the misconduct of some of its members, according to the assumption which has been made, imposes upon it, and what has the Republican party to offset its debit for the like misconduct of its officials?

The real issue of the pending election is which party will afford the people a better administration of the State Government?

Which party will give a superior administration, preserving the public peace and order, fostering the interests of the people, directing the powers of the State Government to their highest welfare, and securing for the present and future, the greatest good to the greatest number?

What can the Republican party say? It can point to the administration of Governor Lowndes, an excellent gentleman and citizen, but whose administration was officially a failure from every public standpoint, marked by a series of grave evils which admittedly continued during the four years of his term of office, and a serious and continuing menace to the people of the State. This was true of both the Executive and Legislative Departments of the State Government, which at that time, were under Republican control. The Executive Department, through the inferior class of officials upon whom it necessarily had to rely, failed to perform its very first function, namely to keep the peace of the State. Turbulence and disorder, especially upon the part of the unruly elements of the negro population of Maryland, existed from one end of the State to the other. It is unnecessary to describe the details of this unfortunate condition because it is too well remembered of the State, particularly Justices of the Peace, School Commissioners and Supervisors of Elections were men in great measure, illiterate and incompetent, not only unfit, but largely disqualified for the duties they were appointed to perform.

The Legislative branch of the Government, as conducted by the Republicans, during the period mentioned, was if anything, worse. The sessions of the General Assembly of 1896 and 1898, controlled by the Republican party, were notoriously weak and unsatisfactory, unproductive of measures for the benefit of the people, regardless of the advancement of the State and controlled as with a rod of iron by the bosses of the Republican party.

The people hailed the overthrow of the Republicans in 1900 as a great deliverance of both State and City.

What have the Republicans done more recently in Maryland? Have they given any aid or encouragement to the progressive measures which the Democratic party has inaugurated in this State? The influence of the Republican party was exerted against the adoption of a law providing for the nomination of candidates for office by the direct vote of the people. And the votes which were ultimately cast against the Public Utilities Act were Republican votes. No piece of constructive legislation has been introduced by the Republicans in the General Assembly of Maryland for the last ten years. Every step of the progress that has been made has been taken by the Democratic party, always without help and often over the opposition of Republican members of the General Assembly.

The Primary Election Law of 1910, requiring nominations by the people, has been defiantly trampled under the heel by the Republican party; and the only Republican candidates upon the State and City tickets nominated under its provisions were candidates for the House of Delegates in the Fourth Legislative District of Baltimore City.

The fiat of one man named the whole roll of Republican candidates; and the great and crying evil which the Primary Election Law was passed to overthrow, has been more firmly established and more slavishly followed by the Republican party of Maryland, as if in willful defiance of the progressive spirit of the present day than ever before in the annals of the State. The man must be blind who does not see the glaring difference between the Democratic and Republican parties of Maryland upon this issue. Plainly the Republican party stands for boss rule; the Democratic party for the rule of the people.

What, on the other hand, has the Democratic party to submit with respect to the question of good government and administration It points to an array of statutes and policies adopted and inducted by it, which show as plainly and conclusively as anything could, the great services which the party has rendered to the people of the State. Assuming as stated above, for the sake of the argument, that the Democratic party must share half the responsibility for the offenses against the ballot disclosed by the investigations of the Baltimore Grand Jury, the Democratic party offsets that responsibility with a record of unsurpassed administration in behalf of the people; a record of absolute good faith and honesty; a record which has redeemed every pledge according to its strictest letter and of one great beneficent act after another in the interest of the people and for the advancement of the State.

Every voter who wants to cast his ballot for the good of his State in the coming election is asked to review and consider the splendid performance of the Democratic party, since it has been charged with the government of the State. The State Roads System, the Reassessment of 1910, the Public Service Commission Law; the Corrupt Practices Act; the Direct Primary Election Law; the Pure Food Law; the Militia Act; the new Incorporation Law; the new State Banking Law; the Automobile Law; the law for the State Care of the Poor Insane; the Repeal of the Gas Monopoly Laws; measures for the benefit of Education and Agriculture; the organization of the State Cabinet for the improvement of the various departments; the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad settlement; the Increased Franchise Tax on Foreign Corporations; the finances of the State conducted with skill and honesty, etc.

To every voter who is looking for good government and who wants to continue it in this State, these measures speak for themselves; for if a party which has achieved such a record is not entitled to a continuation of public confidence, it is inconceivable upon what foundation any party may hope for it.

MURRAY VANDIVER,
Chairman Democratic State Central Committee.

Down To Fine Points.

Claus A. Spreckles, the sugar refiner, was talking in New York about economics in the sugar trade.

"We work very economically," Mr. Spreckles said, "but we haven't got things down to such a fine point as some folks would have you believe. We are not quite so economical, in fact, as the lady with the pet cat.

"A lady who owned a tortoise shell cat called her grocer up one morning and gave her usual economical order—an order for dried beans, hominy, yesterday's bread and so forth—and she concluded with a request for one cent's worth of cat's meat.

"The grocer sighed, for this order would have to be delivered three miles away. But as he was entering the items in his order book the lady called him up again.

"'Mr. Sands,' she said, 'oh, Mr. Sands!'

"'Yes, madam.'

"'Mr. Sands, I want to cancel that order for cat's meat. The cat's just caught a bird.'"—Washington Star.

Emigrants leaving Germany for other parts of the world are fewer in numbers than formerly. In 1882 their number was above 200,000, while that of last year was but 25,000 in round numbers. Of this 25,000 the emigrants coming to the United States were 23,000.

"The Maryland Campaign."

(An editorial from the Wilmington, (Del.) Every Evening of October 13.)

"While the grand jury of Baltimore City kept on with its interesting work of recounting the votes at the recent primaries in that city and indicting Democratic and Republican election officers in equal numbers, for rascally frauds in the count, the campaign committees of both parties are working hard in carrying on the great contest that will come to an end on Tuesday, November 7. In this respect they seem to be undisturbed by the sensational developments that appear from day to day in Baltimore.

The chief argument of the Republican campaign speakers is that the primary election frauds in Baltimore have damned the Democratic party throughout the State and deprived it of all claim upon the confidence and votes of the people. To read the reports of Republican meetings, without any other means of enlightenment, one would suppose that all political virtue was concentrated in the Republican organization, while the Democratic party stood for nothing but political rascality and corruption. Yet the facts are that rascality was practiced by Republicans at the Baltimore primaries, as well as by Democrats, and that each Democratic election official indicted by the grand jury has an indicted Republican election official to keep disreputable company with him.

In these circumstances it is difficult to conceive what the Republican campaign managers expect to gain politically by harping so vigorously upon the primary frauds in Baltimore, and especially in holding them up as a warning to the people against electing the Democratic ticket in November. For this argument applies with equal force as an arraignment of the Republican party. If accepted at its face value, it must leave the people of Maryland "between the devil and the deep sea" in respect of the decision they make at the election between the two leading political parties. And there is not the remotest probability that they will seek political salvation by a resort to any of the "small fry" organizations that have tickets in the field.

There is this to be said, however, in respect of the Democratic party and to the discredit of the Republican purity campaign: The Democratic candidates and the Democratic organization are not defending the primary election frauds committed by the agents of the so-called corrupt Democratic machine in Baltimore. The grand jury that is making such a rigid and just investigation and righteously indicting Democratic rascals and Republican rascals with strict impartiality, is composed of a majority of Democrats. Democratic leaders and Democratic State candidates voice their approval of this good work and demand the summary punishment of the election thieves. On the other hand, the Republican organization proceeds on the impudent assumption that the frauds in the Baltimore primaries were committed only by Democrats and are defended by the Democratic party, entirely ignoring the frauds by Republicans, as indicated by the indictment of Republicans who served as officers at the primary elections. Also, the Democratic party has practically repudiated the offensive Democratic machine of Baltimore City and its leaders, while the Republican party is apparently subservient to the dictation of the Republican machine of Baltimore, which dictated the Republican State ticket and most of the local party nominations.

With such conditions prevailing, it is not surprising to read of the vigorous, animated campaign which the Democratic organization is conducting throughout the State, especially in the counties. The meetings are largely attended, and much enthusiasm prevails. Despite the serious handicap of the conditions in Baltimore, it is certain that the Democratic party will be successful at the November election.

FACTS KNOWN.

Political Situation Up To Date.

On Monday night last the Grand Jury of Baltimore finished recounting the ballots in that City for the past Primary Election, and the result shows that the discrepancies for the Democratic ticket, as concerning Messrs. Gorman and Lee were trivial, in fact the only serious discrepancies were found in the count as between Hughes and McNulty, the local candidates for Sheriff in the City, and that McNulty gained only about 500 votes, leaving Hughes the nominee of the party, a long way ahead in the general result. In the presentments made by the Grand Jury, only 9 per cent. of the Democratic officials were indicted against 8 3-10 per cent. of the Republican officials in proportion, whereas, in fact, as has been said before in each polling place there was an equal number of Republicans to the Democrats in the judges and clerks. It is a further fact, that considering that this was the first vote on an entirely now obtuse Primary Law which even the brightest lawyers have not been able to interpret in entire to their satisfaction, the differences are comparatively small, and it seems that it is an absolute fallacy, to charge the great Democratic party of Baltimore, consisting of 65,000 white men, in all conditions of society and property worth, with being wrong doers because a few of its members have made what might largely be called careless clerical errors. As against this, the Republican officials in the Republican ballot boxes have made the most significant and glaring errors. In the Third precinct of the Twenty-first ward every Republican candidate for the Legislature and every State Central Committeeman of that party taking part in the primaries, with one single exception, gained on the recount. In the Twenty-second ward, Third precinct, adjoining, every Republican candidate for the Legislature, with two exceptions, lost by the Grand Jury count, and every single one of the Republican State Central Committee candidates lost on the Grand Jury count in the same ward and precinct.

Basing the assumption on these facts, the errors, wrong doings, or what might be called frauds in the Baltimore City election, cannot be charged up to either the Democratic or Republican party in this State. It is simply a local condition and a battle between local men of either party for the supremacy over their fellow members in their own parties and has no bearing at all upon either party in its application to the State candidates. Of course such a condition as has arisen is to be very much regretted, but as an object lesson it should be fruitful in notice to the people of this State, that those who are property owners and taxpayers hereafter must take a deeper interest in all matters pertaining to the details of elections. While the Republicans have had the advantage of what may be considered a blatant and garrulous Grand Jury foreman, to tell the people without warrant or license and against the sanctity of his oath that he was going to through his Grand Jury, to smash the rank and file of the Democratic party, which he called the Democratic ring. It should be ever remembered that the peerless young statesman, Arthur P. Gorman, the standard bearer of the Democratic party, and its candidate for Governor, at this time was the first man in the State to insist that these election irregularities should be probed to the bottom, and it is to him alone, whether he is elected or not, that Maryland hereafter will have purer and more representative elections. Those of the people who have been crying for purer elections should at once join hands with Mr. Gorman and see that he is put in the Executive Chair by their votes on November 7th, because without question, he will make good in every particular.

We have no such guarantee from Mr. Goldsborough, he is a creature of a close political machine in nomination and his whole record and that of his party in the State of Maryland has been absolutely and continually against pure and honest elections and progressiveness in every shape for the grand old State of Maryland. Long may she live and progress. Her best and highest destinies can only be achieved through and under Democratic government administered by her white people.

STRONG FOR BALTIMORE.

Washington Wants To See the Convention Held There.

(From the Washington Post.)

Baltimore is making a strong fight for the Democratic National Convention next year, and Washington hopes that Baltimore will win.

The Chesapeake city offers all the inducements that could be desired. She is centrally located, and has ample railroad and hotel accommodations, a big auditorium, and a hospitable people. The fame of Baltimore as a centre of good living is world-wide. And it is nearer Paradise—Washington—than any other large city. If Washington had a large auditorium, there would be little use for Baltimore to ask Democrats or Republicans to foregather there. But as matters stand, there is no good reason why the Democrats in national convention should not assemble at Baltimore.

The choice of Baltimore as the convention city may hinge largely upon the State election in November. A setback to the Democratic ticket in Maryland would certainly be a setback to the movement for the national convention, since Democrats everywhere would regard such action as an invitation to remain away from Baltimore. A Democratic victory, on the other hand, would tend to draw the national convention to Baltimore. It would prove to Democrats that the party in Maryland is active and determined to swing the State for the Democratic nominee for President. The atmosphere of Baltimore in that event would be electric with enthusiasm, and the national Democracy would feel the effect of local optimism while deliberating upon the country-wide campaign.

The business men of Baltimore are very anxious to secure the nafional convention, and they are exercising commendable energy and skill in their preliminary campaign. No doubt they are taking into account the coming State election and its effects upon their plans. They must be aware that the chances of getting the national convention will be dashed if the voters of Maryland fail to elect the Democratic ticket. It is not to be expected that Democrats from other States will be in favor of holding their national convention in a State that has just been captured by the enemy.
