AGENTS WANTED FOR THE GREAT WAR STORY

SURRY OF Eagle's Nest

BY John Esten Cooke.

This thrilling historic story, which has been out of print, and for which there has been such a great demand is now issued as a SUBSCRIPTION BOOK, with many magnificent illustrations. There has never been a more popular book throughout the Southern States than "SURRY OF EAGLE'S NEST." Many years have passed since the thrilling scenes herein recounted of the deeds of valor of the Confederate Soldier, yet the interest, by those who fought with Ashby, Stuart, Johnston, Beauregard, Jackson and Lee, in the cause for which they so desperately and bravely battled, will never grow less. This thrilling story pictures not alone joy and sorrow, and a love sweetly told, but is filled with historic incidents of the great contest between the South and the North. Here is a book for the old Ex-Confederate, to recall to him the vivid scenes of the greatest Civil War ever known, to call back his own campaigns, and tell him of the mighty Chieftains, dear to the memory of every one who wore the Gray.

"Surry of Eagle's Nest" will find a welcome in every Southern home. That it may be within the reach of every one, it is published at the LOW PRICE OF $2, though a LARGE, HANDSOME VOLUME, BEAUTIFULLY ILLUSTRATED AND ELEGANTLY BOUND.

SOLD ONLY BY SUBSCRIPTION.

As the demand for this OLD FAVORITE BOOK which has been out of print so long, will be large, and applications for agencies very numerous, all who desire to act as Agents should write for terms and quickly secure choice of territory.

Pianos----Organs.

The improved method of fastening strings of Pianos, invented by us, is one of the most important improvements ever made, making the instrument more richly musical in tone, more durable, and less liable to get out of tune.

Both the Mason & Hamlin Organs and Pianos excel chiefly in that which is the chief excellence in any musical instrument, quality of tone. Other things, though important, are much less so than this. An instrument without musical tones cannot be good. Illustrated catalogues of new styles, introduced this season, sent free.

A CHILD PREACHER.

Jimmie Cook, 13 Years Old, Preaches to an Atlanta Congregation.

A child preacher, 13 years old and two years in the pulpit. Berean church, out near the Elsas & May factory, was crowded to hear the child preacher, Jimmie Cook, a little fellow whose home is at Clem, Carroll county. It was not known until late in the afternoon that the little fellow would preach, but the word spread quickly in the neighborhood [illegible] before he opened his service every [illegible] Berean church was filled. [illegible] is a sure enough boy preacher in stature as well as in years. He weighs but little more than a half hundred pounds, and is so small that his head and shoulders were barely visible when standing behind the pulpit. He has a bright, intelligent face, is quiet and self possessed, and in speaking uses very good language and gestures. His words flow freely, and during the whole of his sermon, which lasted about thirty minutes, until he was exhausted and out of breath, he never hesitated for language to express his thoughts.

In the pulpit he appeared to be as much at ease and as thoroughly at home as a man who had spent the better portion of his life preaching. His style of speaking is natural, and his voice, though childish, has a fullness which makes his words effective and interesting. He wore a flannel shirt, a short jeans jacket, and a pair of jeans trousers, reaching half way down the tops of a pair of rough, muddy boots. His round little face was bright and clean, and his light, sandy hair neatly combed, giving him the appearance of a typical country lad, fresh from the hands of a kind and careful mother.

The child preacher announced [illegible] in a clear voice, the [illegible] Hebrews and third verse [illegible] "how shall we escape if we neglect so great salvation, which at first began to be spoken by the Lord, and was confirmed unto us by them that heard him." His sermon was a remarkable effort for a boy of the speaker's age. He stuck to his text all the way through, quoting Scripture fluently, and evincing a wonderful degree of elocutionary power. At times he walked from side to side of the platform, as his words were spoken, gesticulating with one hand and with the other toying with a long watch chain which hung from his vest, perfectly at ease, a if conscious of a power over his hearers. The little fellow's countenance farly glowed as he became warmed up to his subject, appealing to sinners to turn from their evil ways and accept the salvation of the Gospel. He, in a simple yet really beautiful and touching manner, admonished parents to train their children according to the teaching of the Bible, and warned them of the consequences of disobeying the commands of the Lord.

At the conclusion of his sermon the child preacher pronounced the ecclesiastic benediction and dismissed the congregation. A small collection had been taken up, and while this was being turned over to the little fellow the crowd gathered about him, shaking his hand and thanking him for his wonderful talk. He gave them all his little hand, and answered pleasantly and rapidly all the questions asked by the admiring crowd. During his talk he never once alluded to himself, but Mr. J. L. Nelson, at whose house in Edgewood he stopped, said that he was the sole support of an invalid father and sister.

Jimmie was asked how he came to begin preaching. "I was in the cottonfield one day," he said, "and all at once I was impressed with the feeling that I ought to go out and tell the people about God. I put down my basket and went home and began preaching. God called me."

He said he didn't know exactly how he happened to come to Atlanta. He has been preaching around in the country for [illegible] years. Atlanta Constitution.

A Woman Held in the Air.

When the high wind struck the city it raised the snow about the capitol to such an extent as to completely hide the big edifice from people passing on the opposite side of the street. Street car horses were unable to pull the cars along for a time, and the scene was indeed a wild one. Several people were blown off their feet. One woman attempted to cross at Hawk street on Washington avenue. The wind lifted her off her feet, held her in the air an instant, then carried her feet upward, and let her drop on the pavement. There was a curious expression about the mouth as she touched the ice covered pavement, and it took half a minute for her to realize that the middle of the street was no place for her. —Albany Journal.

Bald Headed Congressmen.

There are a great many more men in the house with smooth heads than smooth faces. Their hair seems naturally to train down. Some of the baldest heads have the shaggiest faces. More men have long, flowing beards than usual. Some members, like Holman, who retain the old time prejudice against a hairy upper lip, have their faces shaved clean, except the chin, and there have a respectable beard. Holman has his beard cut to a point after the French style, but without the mustache the effect is lost.—Washington Letter.

Chance for Sugar Cane in Florida.

Claus Spreckels is in Florida and says that what astonishes him most is the richness of the black muck lands in certain localities and their peculiar adaptability to sugar growing. This land, so long under water and formed almost wholly of decayed vegetable matter, he regards as capable of producing five or six tons of sugar to the acre.—New York Evening Sun.

Court circles are shocked because the queen in her speech to parliament last month referred to the Emperor William as the "Emperor of Germany" instead as the "German Emperor," which is his correct title. The queen herself, who is most particular upon such points, is more shocked than any one else.

"Still Living in the Dark Ages"

—people who, through ignorance, dose themselves with the violent cathartics that injure the digestive organs, afford but partial or temporary relief, and leave the bowels more costive than before. The refinements of medical science have overcome all these evils, in the form of Dr. Pierce's Pellets, which are "gentle penuaders," sure in action, and aid Dame Nature to reassert her authority. When she is aided, not opposed, all is well.

The Belles of the World.

Miss Bisland chatted entertainingly about many other interesting features of her hasty around the-world trip. The most beautiful women are from Singapore. They have long hair, bronzed skin, with a peach bloom on it. The men wear their hair long. It is wonderfuly black and glossy and wavy. I have seen men whose hair dragged on the ground. Many can show a suite which reaches as low as their knees. It is sometimes difficult to distinguish the sexes. Especially is this true when you cannot see the faces. The men wear old-fashioned band combs to keep their hair from their foreheads, and tie the rest in a knot. The women wear their hair in the same fashion. The methods of clothing do not differ greatly, the men wearing a skirt and a blouse-like jacket, which greatly resembles female apparel. Then the men are delicately made. Were it not for the full beards they inevitably wear, men might be easily mistaken for women.—Atlanta Constitution.

Physicians say that there is no remedy for consumption. In some cases this may be correct. We know however of many cures made by Dr. Bull's Cough Syrup, and we will guarantee relief.

Marvelous Phenomena.

At Rome, in 1222, it rained mixed with blood; for three days when the heavy clouds drifted [illegible] looked as if the sun was swimming in a sea of fire. Four years later, [illegible] a snow fell in Syria, which presently melted and flowed in carmine ri[illegible] of blood, or some fluid much resembling it in every particular. Many of the old writers record a three-day shower of blood-red rain in the Island of Rhodes and throughout Southern Italy in 1236. A monk, writing in 1251, tells of a loaf being cut, out of which blood flowed a freely as from a fresh wound.

In 1348 there were many great tempests. Several towns and thousands of people were swallowed up and the courses of rivers changed or stopped. Some chasms in the earth sent forth poisonous fluids, as red as carmine ink, as at Villach, in Austria. Ponderous hailstones fell in many parts of Germany the same year, some of them weighing from twenty to seventy pounds. At Lamech it rained flesh, dust, comets and meteors; firebrands and coruscations were in the air; mock suns, with fiery tails, sailed through the skies. Soon after these terrible scenes at Lamech it began at Cataya, near the sea, and went sweeping throughout southern Europe. An igneous vapor or sulphurous fire broke from the earth at Crahery, Asia, and utterly consumed men, beasts, houses and trees, so infecting the air that a great pleague followed. Young serpents and millions of venomous insects fell from the clouds.

In 1361 Burgundy experienced the novelty of a shower of blood red rain, which ensanguined everything it touched; and in 1568 the Antiura reapers found all wheat heads to be as red as blood. In 1588 bread put in the oven at Nurenburg was taken out covered with [illegible] bloody sweat. Wurtemberg had a shower of brimstone and ashes in 1634. In 1695 Limerick and Tipperary, Ireland, had many showers of a soft, fatty substance resembling butter. It was of a dark yellow color and always fell at night. The people gathered it and used it as an ointment, reporting many astonishing cures.—St. Louis Republic.

They Pay $500, or Cure.

For many years the manufacturers of Dr. Sage's Catarrh Remedy, who are thoroughly responsible, financially, have offered in good faith, through nearly every newspaper in the land, a standing reward of $500 for a case of nasal catarrh, no matter how bad, or of how long standing, which they cannot cure. The remedy is sold by druggists at only 50 cents. It is mild, soothing, cleansing, deodorizing, antiseptic and healing.

She Didn't Like Church Organs.

A novel case has just ended in the common pleas court at New Philadelphia, O. The Centenary Methodist Episcopal church purchased an organ a short time ago on payments of Professor Ortt, and it seems on account of this the congregation became sadly divided. The testimony showed that there was one pious old lady particularly, known all over the neighborhood as "Aunt Eliza," who looked upon the organ as the creation of the devil. She attended services regularly, but the minute the organ began playing the old lady would walk out of the church and sit upon the steps until the music ended, and she would return for the sermon, at the close of which, when the music began for the closing hymn, the old lady would resume her seat on the church step and then return for the benediction.

The organ being the cause of so much trouble, the trustees were at their wits' ends how to get rid of it. One rainy morning Professor Ortt, having occasion to pass the church, was amazed to see the organ sitting out in the corner of the field. There was no shelter over it, and the neighboring chickens found it a pleasant place to roost. The professor brought suit at once against the trustees to the tune of $500. The testimony developed the fact that the trustees had thoughtlessly set the organ out in the weather merely to please old pious "Aunt Eliza." The case was hotly contested and a verdict rendered in favor of Professor Ortt for the amount of the purchase price of the organ.—Chicago Tribune.

Curious Feat of the Wind.

J. R. Love spent Sunday at his farm, near Christiana, and it was there that the incident occurred during the high wind on Wednesday night, February 12.

Mr. James J. Hodge is a tenant on Mr. Love's farm and lives with his four children, one a grownup daughter, in a little two-room frame house, 32x17 feet in size. He says that near midnight he heard the house creaking like it was about to fall to pieces, then there was a jar and all was still. The children cried out in alarm, and he jumped out of bed to find that the house had been lifted from its foundations by the wind, carried about five feet beyond them and deposited flat upon the ground.

The house was not injured and not an article in it was broken. A lamp that was placed on the mantelpiece was not thrown down.

The next day the neighbors gathered and raised the house and placed the foundation stones under it where it stood, and the family is still living there as heretofore.

The house is a well built little structure, ceiled with pine planks.—Nashville American.

He Saved Her Life.

Miss Susannah Warfield, by her will filed at Westminster, left $100 to Mr. Julius A. Hood, formerly Baltimore and Ohio telegraph operator at Sykesville, now at Mount Airy switch. This money was left to Mr. Hood to show her appreciation of his bravery when he once saved her life at Sykesville. It was about seven years ago. Miss Warfield was going to Baltimore and had to cross both tracks to get to the platform. She was in the middle of the east bound track and the passenger train was coming along. Mr. Hood was in his office a short distance away and saw the danger. The train was then only about 100 yards away, and she could not hear it. Mr. Hood ran and caught her and carried her off the track. The engine came so close to her that it touched her dress. It was a very narrow escape, and Miss Warfield often expressed her high appreciation of Mr. Hood's bravery.—Baltimore American.

Epoch.

The transition from long, lingering and painful sickness to robust health marks an epoch in the life of the individual. Such a remarkable event is treasured in the memory and the agency whereby the good health has been attained is gratefully blessed. Hence it is that so much is heard in praise of Electric Bitters. So many feel they owe their restoration to health, to the use of the Great Alterative and Tonic. If you are troubled with any disease of Kidneys, Liver or Stomach, of long or short standing you will surely find relief by use of Electric Bitters. Sold at 50c. and $1 per bottle at Wm. Thomas's drugstore.
