Arabian Horse Powder.

THIS Powder gives to a Horse a good appetite, loosens his hide and gives him a beautiful coat, makes him lively, as well as improving his general appearance: at the same time curing the Bots, Grubs and all other internal diseases that they are subject to.

The All-Healing Oil, is a certain cure for sprains, burns, galls and sores of all kinds for Horses, Cattle or Man. It has been known to cure extreme cases of Rheumatism. Being composed of the most potent remedial agents applicable to the above purposes, it enjoys a reputation for facility of action, scarcely equalled. It needs nothing but a trial to convince the most skeptical of its peculiar and beneficial effects.

CERTIFICATES.

FAIRFAX COUNTY, Va., Feb. 8, 1852.

Mr. J. N. HARPER—Dear Sir:—I am so much pleased with the paper of Amin Beyer Horse Powder, and Bottle of All-Healing Oil, which I purchased of you, that I think it ought to be circulated throughout the country, so that all persons who have horses may be benefitted by it. It certainly is one of the best articles I have ever used.—Yours, etc. WILLIAM FERGUSON.

WOODLAWN FARM.

FRIEND HARPER:—In compliance with your request I have used the package of Amin Beyer Horse Powder and All Healing Oil, which you sent me, and find that it comes up fully to your recommendation. I would advise all persons who have horses, to make use of the article, it will doubly pay them for the expense.

WM. L. DORLAND.

ROSE HILL FARM—Dear Sir:—I have seen Mr. Powers' horse, and do assure you that I think the change produced was entirely owing to the use of Amin Beyer Horse Powder. You will oblige me by sending four papers by my boy, also two bottles of the All Healing Oil. Yours, etc.,

J. R. RICHARDS, M. D.

UPPER MARLBORO', Dec. 18, 1852.

J. N. HARPER—Dear Sir: Your favor is received, and in reply I would inform you that I have used your Horse Powder with my own horses, and have been informed by several Planters, who have had occasion to use it, that their opinion of its excellent and almost magical efficacy concurs with mine, which is, that no man who owns a horse should be without it.

In haste, EDWARD L. SHEEHY, M. D.

☞ The above is for sale wholesale or retail at J. N. HARPER'S, corner of Prince and Fairfax-sts., Alexandria, Va. A liberal discount made to country merchants.

Classical, Mathematical and Military School.

RUMFORD ACADEMY,

KING WILLIAM, VIRGINIA.

THIS School is about two miles from Sharon Church, on the stage road between Richmond and Tappahannock. So healthful is the location, that but few cases of serious sickness have occurred in the School since its establishment in 1804. No expense is spared in providing for the physical comforts of the Pupils.—Treated in every respect as young gentlemen, they are required to conduct themselves as such.

The subscriber, who has been engaged eight years in guiding and instructing youth, will be aided by competent assistants.

The usual English course, including Chemistry and Philosophy, an extensive course of Mathematics, and the Latin, Greek and French Languages, will be taught. Tactics will be taught if a Drill Class can be formed.

A recess of one week will be given at Easter.

TERMS:

For Board and Tuition, with every necessary except Lights and Stationery, from 15th of January to 1st of July, $84 00

Payable one-half the 1st of May, the other half the 1st of July.

RECOMMENDATIONS.

This is to certify, that JOHN H. PITTS, Principal of the Rumford Academy, graduated at this Institution with the highest honors of his class, in July, 1844, and since that period has been constantly and most successfully discharging the duties of a Teacher in Fleetwood Academy. During Mr. Pitt's connection with this institution, he discharged for a year the duties of an Assistant Professor, and to our entire satisfaction.

I cheerfully recommend the Rumford Academy, under the charge of Mr. Pitts, to the public, believing that he will give the fullest satisfaction to all who may patronize him.

FRS. H. SMITH, Supt. V. M. I.

V. M. Institute, Oct. 4, 1848.

The high stand that Pupils instructed by Mr. Pitts have maintained at College, assures us that his mode of instruction is thorough and successful. This fact, together with his admirable discipline, as shown by the unusually correct deportment of his pupils, warrants us in recommending his School most highly.

WM. BOULWARE, King & Queen.
CORBIN BRANTON, King William.
R. M. T. HUNTER, Essex.
J. B. CHRISTIAN, New Kent.

November 10, 1850.

When the foregoing was given, these gentlemen were visitors of William and Mary College, the Virginia Military Institute, and the University of Virginia.

Residing near Rumford Academy, we are well acquainted with the manner in which the School is conducted.—The discipline is mild and parental, but firm and vigilant—its efficacy is seen in the conduct of the students, to whose irreproachable and gentlemanly deportment it gives us pleasure to testify. We cordially recommend the school as one of higher moral tone than any similar institution we have ever known.

Valuable Property in Indiana in Exchange for Servants.

THE following descriced property, in the rich and flourishing town of Lafayette, State of Indiana, will be exchanged for good servants—to wit:

A NEW COTTAGE BUILT FRAME HOUSE, containing seven rooms, and a corner lot 50 feet front, by 162 feet deep, to an alley 30 feet wide. Also, an acre of very rich ground adjoining the town, with a good frame house on it—this place is used as a market garden, and yields a genteel support to its present occupant.

I am engaged to return to California, otherwise I would not dispose of this property, which must, in the nature of events, be within the course of three years worth 3,000 dollars. I now offer it for 1500 dollars. Apply by letter or otherwise to my agent, CHARLES E. THOMAS, Esq., at Messrs. Latham & Co.'s Banking House, Washington, D. C. Title indisputable.

The Flying Ship.

WHEN Mr. PORTER issued his prospectus or proposition to construct machinery for ærial navigation, and offered shares therein for cash in advance, it was supposed or suspected by most people—probably nine-tenths of those who read his prospectus—to be a mere trick to raise money, but without any serious intention to proceed in the construction of said machine or areoport. But the proposition having received the confidence of a sufficient number to obtain the sum required in said prospectus, Mr. Porter did proceed in good faith in the work of constructing the said areoport; and notwithstanding that he encountered a series of adversities which much retarded the work, and nearly doubled the estimated expense thereof, he had brought the areoport nearly to completion when interrupted by the inclemency of winter weather. An unlucky oversight, which required a laborious portion of the work to be wrought over again, only prevented the completion of the areoport in November. He now believes that his areoport may be put in full operation in two or three weeks of mild, calm, and pleasant weather. But, in consequence of delay and the expense of the safe-keeping of the machinery, (some part of which being 160 feet long, is rather difficult of storage,) he finds it expedient to sell a larger number of shares than he had heretofore intended to do; and in consideration of the forward state of the work, and having thus far discovered nothing to shake his confidence in the ultimate success thereof, he reasonably expects the public to entertain more confidence, and attach more value to the said shares, than at or prior to the commencement. Mr. Porter's proposition was and is, to construct two aeroports—the first to be 160 feet long, propelled by steam-engines, and capable of carrying six persons, and travel forty miles per hour; and the other to be 700 feet long, capable of carrying 150 persons, and travel ninety miles per hour. The large aeroport is estimated to cost $15,000, in 3,000 shares at five dollars each. And he rationally estimates that at that speed the aeroport will make the trip to either California or to Europe and back once a week; and that if 150 passengers shall pay $200 per passage each way, the proceeds would be $60,000 per week, which would be twenty dollars per week on each $5 share.—Though Mr. Porter does not really exp
