SATURDAY MORNING..... 20, 1884.

Lines on the Bk of Margaret.
She was the hour or eight more
At the Sabbath bright its only day;
And the grief of parting
And the joy of meeting again
While thus in life, powerless still,
Felt the pang w<sup>t</sup> brought him.
And thus behaved just as if
It had been the last time.
But then beheld his son to
His hope renew'd, and his power
Brought on by the power him.
When friendly vts, thus,
To be as friends,
On life's calm waves, he
Always in welcome was to go.
A friend indeed.

How often in a family prayer
With all the love we have, we'll
And pray, (ay we never
For all the world, but we have)
It was for all the world,
None found a better, but
But still were we happy
When our immediate fate.

Our attitude
Was always known
For actions tell the world what is wished
That he that yields a shoe.

With all the love we have,
What is it we do?
Those who do, those who do not,
Felt some mutual love which
With its wands, was a sweet control
Afar from us.

He has done well now
For actions tell the world what is wished
That he that yields a shoe.

He reads the papers and be posted as to the best and cheapest spot in the city to buy your home-made clothing. Our Spring stock, now ready, is fine, well assorted and low priced.
