penned and fed upon slop-mush, made of corn meal, and occasionally, corn and milk. Although your committee had no means of ascertaining their precise weight, they judge them to be from 300 to 350 lbs. each, and consequently, award the first premium for hogs to Mr. E. Clap, of Anne Arundel county.

JACOB POE, SAM'L BROWN.
R. C. TILGHMAN,

SHEEP.

The committee for awarding premiums on sheep, and for the greatest number of lambs, respectfully report,

That having with care and diligence examined the objects to which their attention had been directed, they have adjudged the premium for the best merino ram, over one year old, to Samuel Brown, jr. esq. of Elkridge.

The premium for the best ram of any other breed than merino, they assign to the Hon. Edward Lloyd, of Talbot county.

For the premium for the best pair of merino ewes, a number of pens of sheep deserving high commendation, were exhibited by Dr. E. G. Stockett, Mr. J. W. M'Culloh, Dr. Thomas, and Mr. S. Brown, jr. and the committee found it somewhat difficult to decide upon their relative merits, but conceiving the fineness of the wool in this valuable animal to be the most essential point, they have found themselves obliged to be chiefly governed thereby, in adjudging the premium to Dr. Stockett, of Elkridge.

For the premium for a pair of ewes of any other breed than merino, a pair were exhibited by James Piper, esq. of the Bakewell and Merino cross; of which one ewe was extremely handsome in point of form, and of a good size; but the other ewe not being remarkable, the committee do not find themselves permitted by the rules of the society, to award a premium in this case, which was assigned for the best pair.

Mr. Harrison, of Anne Arundel county, exhibited a ram of the common breed, which struck the particular notice of the committee, for its fine figure and size, and conceiving it to be of importance to the agricultural interest to encourage the growth and exhibition of the best species of country sheep, and also that they are objects which the society is much disposed to encourage, the committee take the liberty to recommend, that the premium which they have not been able to appropriate to its original object, be adjudged to Mr. Harrison.

The premium for the greatest number of lambs in proportion to the number of ewes, (not less than 20,) is awarded to Mr. Thomas B. Stabler, of Montgomery county, whose flock of 22 ewes has brought, this spring, 27 lambs; all of which were living and in fine order, up to within a few days of the present exhibition.

The committee cannot close their report without paying the well merited tribute of praise to Mr. Barney of Delaware, for the exhibition with which he has again favored the society, of a number of excellent sheep of the Bakewell breed. And the committee take leave to add, their commendation of the skill and despatch (say 13 minutes) with which the shearing of a sheep in their presence was performed this morning, by Richard Topham, [an unawarded premium was, in this case, given to Mr. Topham, with the unanimous approbation of the society,] and to suggest to the consideration of the trustees, whether a premium should not, at the next exhibition, be offered for such peculiar expertness.

THOMAS TONGUE, J. G. PROUD, H. CARROLL, THOMAS HOOD, F. TILGHMAN, V. MAXCY, WOOL.

The committee on wool, report—that they have awarded to Caleb Stabler, of Montgomery county, the premium of 50 cents per lb. for fleece of one year's growth of washed wool, weighing 6 1-2 lbs.

To Joseph L. Smith, of Frederick county, they have awarded the premium plate of ten dollars for the greatest average weight of wool for a flock of sheep, of 23 in number.

For the first premium there were but two competitors, the successful candidate exhibiting a fine fleece of Merino wool, which, under the instructions by which they were governed, the committee felt themselves bound to give preference to over the one offered by Mr. Smith, of Frederick county, whose fleece being of an inferior quality, could not be considered equal in value. But as it is a superior wool for coarse manufactures, the committee would suggest the propriety of awarding, hereafter premiums on fine and coarse wool.

The second premium was contended for by five competitors—but the extraordinary yield of Mr. Smith's flock of Frieseland sheep over that of the full and mixed Merino, gave him an easy victory.

The following list shows the average weight of each flock:

	fleeces.	pounds	average.
Joseph L. Smith,	23	204½	8lbs.	14 oz.
John Sullivan,	27	172¾	6	6
James Carroll,	35	222	6	5½
Roger Brooke,	25	151	6	0¾
John Ensor,	20	72	3	10

These 20 fleeces were washed, and from ewes that have raised lambs this spring.
