Del-Mar-Va Sportsmen's Association to Dedicate Range

The Del-Mar-Va Sportsman's Association, Inc., will dedicate their range just outside of Sudlersville to one of the founders of the club, the late William T. Roe, of Sudlersville, on Sunday, Oct. 11, at 2 p.m.

A memorial bronze plaque, 24x14 [illegible]be dedicated along with the [illegible]range to Mr. Roe who did so [illegible]ganize the group in 1950. [illegible] 112 members from [illegible]astern Shore.

[illegible]remony will be [illegible] three Ameri[illegible]hich Mr. Roe [illegible] life—Kent [illegible]sville; Jeff [illegible] the Salis[illegible] the Sudlers[illegible] Company will [illegible]e helped organize [illegible]pany.

[illegible]ete program has not been [illegible]ced, but State Senator Ed[illegible] Turner, Queen Anne's, has been invited to make a short address.

Mr. Roe was an active sportsman and civic leader and known up and down the Peninsula. A veteran of service in World War II, he helped organize the Jeff Davis Post in Centreville and organizer and was first commander of the Kent-Queen Anne's Post in Sudlersville. He was with the Treasury Department, Alcohol Tax Unit, in later life and was a member of the Treasury Department Pistol Team, qualified as an expert.

He died on Nov. 23, 1952, in Sudlersville.

The club, which he helped form, now has a club house and the Shore's finest pistol and rifle ranges. They also have shotgun, trap ranges and archery ranges. The first president was George Shaw, Dover; and Randolph Collier, Sudlersville, served two terms; with James Donavon, Dover, taking over this year.

The club is sponsoring four Junior N.R.A. Rifle clubs and held a successful registered pistol shoot in August. Turkey shoots will be held once a month beginning Oct. 18 and trap shoots will be held once a month beginning Oct. 3. A spring and fall registered pistol shoot is slated for next year.

Members of the organization are taking an active interest in conservation and propagation of games in both Delaware and Maryland, helping the game departments of both states to write sportsmen laws and enforce them.

Queenstown Has County's Only Living Helicopter Pilot

First Lt. George Aldridge, Jr., has the distinction of being Queen Anne's county's only living helicopter pilot.

Lt. Aldridge, son of Mr. and Mrs. George Aldridge, of town, has just completed nine weeks schooling in the Air Force Helicopter Pilots School at Gary Air Force Base, Texas, and the Army Helicopter Tatic School at Fort Sill, Oklahoma. He is a member o fthe Army and is not in the Air Force.

The 29-year-old World War II veteran of five campaigns in Europe and five in Korea is visiting his parents and friends in the county before his next assignment in Austria as a "whirly-bird" pilot.

The "infuriated egg-beaters," as the planes are called by their pilots, are what is known in Army termonology as a rotary wing aircraft. There is no wings on the ship—the engine drives the propellers which give the aircraft lift.

They will make a top-speed of 100-mile-an-hour, but 70 is about average. They have reached 22,000 feet, but that is abnormal. The largest the Army has now are called "Flying Bananas" and can carry 20 fully-equipped infantrymen.

The new 'copter pilot was commissioned in 1948 and became a first lieutenant in 1950. He spent a year in Korea and wears the Silver Star, the Distinguished Flying Cross, six Air Medals, the U.S. Presidential Unit Citation, the Belgian Fouraguere, and the Combat Infantryman's Badge besides ribbons for service in World War II in Euroe.

His wife and small son will follow him to Austria in about two months.

Former Queenstown Resident Author of New Book

A children's book, "Elsa's Lullaby" by Elizabeth Bjork Hill, a former resident of Queenstown, has just been published by the Augustana Book Concern of Rock Island, Ill. The story has as its setting the home of a Swedish-American family and is centered about a traditional Swedish lullaby.

Mrs. Hill is also the author of "A Purple Pig for Pedro" and about 40 children's short stories. Her husband the Rev. Perry O. Hill, served as pastor of the Queenstown Methodist charge.

NOTICE—Percy, Come Back. You are needed very badly. All is forgiven. The Boys.

Rev. Jas. R. Hughes Chairman of Mental Health Program

Rev. James R. Hughes of Queenstown has announced the program of the forthcoming Institute on Religion and Mental Health to be held Oct. 6-22 at the Eastern Shore State Hospital, Cambridge, Md.

The purpose of the Institute, according to Rev. Hughes, its chairman, is to acquaint clergymen, thru discussions led by psychiatric authorities, with the resources available for the treatment and prevention of mental illness and to aid them in deepening their understanding of various types and degrees of mental illness. The discussions are to be directed toward problems with which the clergyman deals in the regular course of his patoral work.

Topics will include the facilities, procedures and problems of the Eastern Shore State Hospital; the role of the clergymen in counselling, in working with the families of hospitalized patients, and in assisting the rehabilitation of former psychiatric patients who are returning to the community; the work of the mental health clinics conducted by the County Health Offices; the emotional development of children and adolescents; and the social and economic background of the problem of mental illness.

Rev. Hughes explained that clergymen of all faiths and demonination are planning to attend the Institute. Registration is limited, but those interested may get in touch either with him or with William A. Martin, Field Representative of the Mental Hygiene Society (Easton 247J4).

Discussion leaders making up the faculty of the Institute include the following: Rev. Hughes; Dr. George E. Currier, Superintendent, Eastern Shore State Hospital; Dr. Thomas J. Dredge, Clinical Director, Eastern Shore State Hosital; Philip Powers, psychiatric social worker, mental hygiene clinics for Caroline, Kent, Queen Anne's and Talbot Counties; Dr. Elizabeth Winiarz, psychiatrist, Eastern Shore mental hygiene clinics; Rev. Leslie Weber, Executive Missionary, Lutheran Mission Society; Dr. George E. Sutherland, Director of Psychiatric Training and Research, State Deaprtment of Mental Hygiene; Mr. Martin; and Dr. John S. May, Professor of Psychology, State Teachers' College, Salisbury.

The Institute is sponsored by the Mental Hygiene Society of Maryland, Inc., and the Eastern Shore State Hospital. The planning of the program was done by a committee of clergymen with Rev. Hughes as chairman. Mr. Martin represented the Mental Hygiene Society on the committee.

Baltimorean Drowns Off Narrows Railroad Bridge

The second drowning of this year at the Kent Narrows occurred late Friday evening and the body recovered Saturday morning by a Kent Island waterman.

Charles Carroll Thomas, 50, of Baltimore, a dairy worker, was fishing with his son, his son-in-law and a friend of the family off the old railroad bridge just north of U.S. 50 crossing the Narrows, when he inadvertently stepped off the span in the darkness at about 9:15 p.m. Friday.

His son, Bertran, 25, told state police he attempted to rescue him, but the swift current and the darkness prevented it. Police and conservation boats started dragging operations that lasted until 2 a.m. and were resumed Saturday morning until Benton Gardner, Chester, spotted the body floating in the water about one mile south of the bridge, at 8:30 a.m.

He hauled the body aboard his boat and brought it to the dock where it was identified by Walter F. Thomas, 48, brother of the victim. Dr. W.H. Fisher, Centreville, county medical examiner, pronounced the man dead of drowning at the scene.

$1,250 Marked Reached for Kenneth Wood Family

Three more organizations in two counties sent checks in last week to swell the American Legion Rehabilitation Fund to $1,250 as it enters its fifth week.

William E. Roe, III, chairman, reported that the Rotary Club of Centreville contributed $50; the Talbot Post, American Legion, at Easton, $25; and the Sunday School of the Ruthsburg Ebenezer Church sent $10. The fund was set up by Jeff Davis Post 18 here to give financial aid to the family of Kenneth Wood, whose daughter, Wanda, has been in a hospital since Feb. 28 after an automobile accident between Centreville and Church Hill. She is under constant nurses care.

At its meeting this week the Centreville Junior Woman's Club announced that a white elephant sale will be held at the next meeting and all proceeds would go to the fund. It was also announced that cash prizes which the club had won at parades this past summer will be added to the total. The fund committee is hoping to raise at least $5,000 to help the World War II veteran.

The paintings that Mrs. William W. Potter, Sr., gave toward the Kenneth Wood fund may be seen at the Latshaw Jewelry store in Centreville.

The price has been reduced to $5 each for a quick sale.

Sudlersville P.T.A. Request Bus Hand Signals

Because the first day of school almost turned into a tragedy for one of the pupils who was struck by a car as he alighted from a school bus, the Sudlersville Elementary Parent-Teachers Association went on record at its first meeting as recommending that all school buses be equipped with the hand signals that read "stop" as well as the blinker lights.

The boy, Wayne Story, was not seriously injured at the lane of his father's farm.

P.T.A. members said the hand signals were preferred for daytime use because it is said that the blinker lights cannot be seen by motorist until the car is upon the bus.

The members are to make a list of recommendations to go to the school board and the county council of the P.T.A. , submitted by the safety chairman in behalf of the P.T.A.

Parents also urged the county bus laws be more strictly enforced and ask the highways be more frequently patrolled by the state police during the late afternoons when the school buses are unloading children.

COMPLAINTS FROM TAXPAYERS

Last week a few of our watermen town taxpayers, were complaining about the holes in the road at the foot of 1st avenue, approaching the bulkhead. They say the holes are breaking springs on their cars and trucks. They would appreciate it very much if the Town Fathers would fill them as soon as possible.

A complaint came from Kent Island last week when a lady stopped at the home of one of our Town Fathers, and asked him when he and the other Town Fathers were going to fix the deep hole in the road near the Queen Theatre. The hole is very bad, you could burst a tire or break a spring if you ran into it a a reasonable amount of speed. Other complaints came from other taxpayers throughout the other back streets. There are a few holes in 1st and 2nd avenues that need filling. We hope they will be attended to in the very near future.

GABLE AND TIERNEY IN MGM'S "NEVER LET ME GO" AT QUEEN

One of the most exciting and dramatic escapes ever pictured in a screen play is that by which Clark Gable, as an American newspaper correspondent, rescues his wife from behind the Iron Curtain in "Never Let Me Go", M-G-M's romantic adventure drama, now being shown at the Queen Theatre, Queenstown, Sunday and Monday, Oct.4-5.
