

Kent News.

SATURDAY MORNING April 25, 1885.

[Written for the Kent News.]

The Baltimore Fisherman's Spring Song.

Hol brothers, dear, another year
Bids fair for you and me!
Rock, herring, sand can we have had,
Tuna, salmon, sea bass, sea mors.
Cold Winter's day—up and gone,
Rigged out and under weigh;
We'll bring back the pug's full
Of fishes of the Bay!

Fare ye well the gate behind the sail,
As swiftly we advance;
Our hearts are light with prospects bright,
Which make our spirits gay.
There's a good look and line
We'll catch them night and day;
We'll take the deep with many a sweep
Of fishes of the Bay!

Then come the days of rest abroad,
Let us a little rest a while;
Past every wish, what splendid fish
We've hauling from below!
Each strata cook will say,
The President we will content
With fishes of the Bay!

There's a pull!—most wonderful!
They'll feed us all, both good and small,
That'll last us all, until we eat!
Yes! we'll share our share of toll and care:
We're work-a-day men,
But still we'll make most full!
As fathers of the Bay.

Hard-working hands do all the lands;
Our labor's on the deck;

Boats, ships, and all the rigate,

While others wake and sleep,

To bles the rame, stern duty's place

Is best in every way.

We'll bring back the pug's full
With herring, shad, and

And rock-fish of the Bay.

With fish in store,—for Baltimore

Let's steer, and sing "Sweet Home!"

By set of sun we'll make the run

From the Bay to the sea.

The waves sweet we there shall meet,

Will make us all feel gay;

When we can't help it, things befall

Us fathers of the Bay!

—John B. Scott, Washington, D. C.

A Senator Authorized by the President.

The following is told at one of the recent incidents at the White House:

A Western Democratic Senator called to press the appointment of one of his constituents to an assistant commissionership.

"When I was a boy," said the President, "I had a son that was an instrument in writing a bill that was passed."

"I am sorry to say," said the Senator, "that my son has been overreaching himself in his position for the appointment of others to those very positions. I can't afford to waste time considering such requests."

"Will you please advise the President to give me a chance for the retention of an incumbent of this place, and your name is on the list. I don't know the man, but he is certainly worth more than my son."

"Oh, no," said the Senator, "I have not signed such a paper."

"The Honorable President, it is said, produced a document bearing the Senator's signature, as stated."

"Never was so fatuous man in my life," replied the Senator, "as to believe that the President would accept such a paper."

"The fact is, we sign almost anything that has generally been understood that it meant nothing."

A Senator should remain as it was, but for some reason or other it was removed and broken. To take its place he has had a new one made. To make it fit, however, it was given a slight twist, so that it now sits seven feet high, on a base four feet square, the whole surrounded by a symbolic decoration in white marble. This is the bust of Mr. Corcoran, who died in 1883. Mr. Corcoran had the body of John Howard Payne exhumed and brought to this country for interment; it was his desire that the bust should be placed in the same fixture as appendages belonging to the same; also one Main Drive Belt; also one Nichols, Shepard & Co.'s Horse Harness; one Nichols, Shepard & Co.'s Harness, and one Nichols, Shepard & Co.'s Harness, all the same, and all appendages with or belonging to the same.

The Bill of Complaint states that heretofore it was on the 9th day of September, 1884, on the empty grave of the author of "Home Sweet Home," to supply the place of the slab that for so long a time had been there.

The "Times" of the "Daily Spy" reported that in 1883 Mr. Corcoran had the body of John Howard Payne exhumed and brought to this country for interment; it was his desire that the bust should be placed in the same fixture as appendages belonging to the same; also one Main Drive Belt; also one Nichols, Shepard & Co.'s Horse Harness; one Nichols, Shepard & Co.'s Harness, and one Nichols, Shepard & Co.'s Harness, all the same, and all appendages with or belonging to the same.

The Bill of Complaint states that heretofore it was on the 9th day of September, 1884, on the empty grave of the author of "Home Sweet Home," to supply the place of the slab that for so long a time had been there.

The "Times" of the "Daily Spy" reported that in 1883 Mr. Corcoran had the body of John Howard Payne exhumed and brought to this country for interment; it was his desire that the bust should be placed in the same fixture as appendages belonging to the same; also one Main Drive Belt; also one Nichols, Shepard & Co.'s Horse Harness; one Nichols, Shepard & Co.'s Harness, and one Nichols, Shepard & Co.'s Harness, all the same, and all appendages with or belonging to the same.

The Bill of Complaint states that heretofore it was on the 9th day of September, 1884, on the empty grave of the author of "Home Sweet Home," to supply the place of the slab that for so long a time had been there.

The "Times" of the "Daily Spy" reported that in 1883 Mr. Corcoran had the body of John Howard Payne exhumed and brought to this country for interment; it was his desire that the bust should be placed in the same fixture as appendages belonging to the same; also one Main Drive Belt; also one Nichols, Shepard & Co.'s Horse Harness; one Nichols, Shepard & Co.'s Harness, and one Nichols, Shepard & Co.'s Harness, all the same, and all appendages with or belonging to the same.

The Bill of Complaint states that heretofore it was on the 9th day of September, 1884, on the empty grave of the author of "Home Sweet Home," to supply the place of the slab that for so long a time had been there.

The "Times" of the "Daily Spy" reported that in 1883 Mr. Corcoran had the body of John Howard Payne exhumed and brought to this country for interment; it was his desire that the bust should be placed in the same fixture as appendages belonging to the same; also one Main Drive Belt; also one Nichols, Shepard & Co.'s Horse Harness; one Nichols, Shepard & Co.'s Harness, and one Nichols, Shepard & Co.'s Harness, all the same, and all appendages with or belonging to the same.

The Bill of Complaint states that heretofore it was on the 9th day of September, 1884, on the empty grave of the author of "Home Sweet Home," to supply the place of the slab that for so long a time had been there.

The "Times" of the "Daily Spy" reported that in 1883 Mr. Corcoran had the body of John Howard Payne exhumed and brought to this country for interment; it was his desire that the bust should be placed in the same fixture as appendages belonging to the same; also one Main Drive Belt; also one Nichols, Shepard & Co.'s Horse Harness; one Nichols, Shepard & Co.'s Harness, and one Nichols, Shepard & Co.'s Harness, all the same, and all appendages with or belonging to the same.

The Bill of Complaint states that heretofore it was on the 9th day of September, 1884, on the empty grave of the author of "Home Sweet Home," to supply the place of the slab that for so long a time had been there.

The "Times" of the "Daily Spy" reported that in 1883 Mr. Corcoran had the body of John Howard Payne exhumed and brought to this country for interment; it was his desire that the bust should be placed in the same fixture as appendages belonging to the same; also one Main Drive Belt; also one Nichols, Shepard & Co.'s Horse Harness; one Nichols, Shepard & Co.'s Harness, and one Nichols, Shepard & Co.'s Harness, all the same, and all appendages with or belonging to the same.

The Bill of Complaint states that heretofore it was on the 9th day of September, 1884, on the empty grave of the author of "Home Sweet Home," to supply the place of the slab that for so long a time had been there.

The "Times" of the "Daily Spy" reported that in 1883 Mr. Corcoran had the body of John Howard Payne exhumed and brought to this country for interment; it was his desire that the bust should be placed in the same fixture as appendages belonging to the same; also one Main Drive Belt; also one Nichols, Shepard & Co.'s Horse Harness; one Nichols, Shepard & Co.'s Harness, and one Nichols, Shepard & Co.'s Harness, all the same, and all appendages with or belonging to the same.

The Bill of Complaint states that heretofore it was on the 9th day of September, 1884, on the empty grave of the author of "Home Sweet Home," to supply the place of the slab that for so long a time had been there.

The "Times" of the "Daily Spy" reported that in 1883 Mr. Corcoran had the body of John Howard Payne exhumed and brought to this country for interment; it was his desire that the bust should be placed in the same fixture as appendages belonging to the same; also one Main Drive Belt; also one Nichols, Shepard & Co.'s Horse Harness; one Nichols, Shepard & Co.'s Harness, and one Nichols, Shepard & Co.'s Harness, all the same, and all appendages with or belonging to the same.

The Bill of Complaint states that heretofore it was on the 9th day of September, 1884, on the empty grave of the author of "Home Sweet Home," to supply the place of the slab that for so long a time had been there.

The "Times" of the "Daily Spy" reported that in 1883 Mr. Corcoran had the body of John Howard Payne exhumed and brought to this country for interment; it was his desire that the bust should be placed in the same fixture as appendages belonging to the same; also one Main Drive Belt; also one Nichols, Shepard & Co.'s Horse Harness; one Nichols, Shepard & Co.'s Harness, and one Nichols, Shepard & Co.'s Harness, all the same, and all appendages with or belonging to the same.

The Bill of Complaint states that heretofore it was on the 9th day of September, 1884, on the empty grave of the author of "Home Sweet Home," to supply the place of the slab that for so long a time had been there.

The "Times" of the "Daily Spy" reported that in 1883 Mr. Corcoran had the body of John Howard Payne exhumed and brought to this country for interment; it was his desire that the bust should be placed in the same fixture as appendages belonging to the same; also one Main Drive Belt; also one Nichols, Shepard & Co.'s Horse Harness; one Nichols, Shepard & Co.'s Harness, and one Nichols, Shepard & Co.'s Harness, all the same, and all appendages with or belonging to the same.

The Bill of Complaint states that heretofore it was on the 9th day of September, 1884, on the empty grave of the author of "Home Sweet Home," to supply the place of the slab that for so long a time had been there.

The "Times" of the "Daily Spy" reported that in 1883 Mr. Corcoran had the body of John Howard Payne exhumed and brought to this country for interment; it was his desire that the bust should be placed in the same fixture as appendages belonging to the same; also one Main Drive Belt; also one Nichols, Shepard & Co.'s Horse Harness; one Nichols, Shepard & Co.'s Harness, and one Nichols, Shepard & Co.'s Harness, all the same, and all appendages with or belonging to the same.

The Bill of Complaint states that heretofore it was on the 9th day of September, 1884, on the empty grave of the author of "Home Sweet Home," to supply the place of the slab that for so long a time had been there.

The "Times" of the "Daily Spy" reported that in 1883 Mr. Corcoran had the body of John Howard Payne exhumed and brought to this country for interment; it was his desire that the bust should be placed in the same fixture as appendages belonging to the same; also one Main Drive Belt; also one Nichols, Shepard & Co.'s Horse Harness; one Nichols, Shepard & Co.'s Harness, and one Nichols, Shepard & Co.'s Harness, all the same, and all appendages with or belonging to the same.

The Bill of Complaint states that heretofore it was on the 9th day of September, 1884, on the empty grave of the author of "Home Sweet Home," to supply the place of the slab that for so long a time had been there.

The "Times" of the "Daily Spy" reported that in 1883 Mr. Corcoran had the body of John Howard Payne exhumed and brought to this country for interment; it was his desire that the bust should be placed in the same fixture as appendages belonging to the same; also one Main Drive Belt; also one Nichols, Shepard & Co.'s Horse Harness; one Nichols, Shepard & Co.'s Harness, and one Nichols, Shepard & Co.'s Harness, all the same, and all appendages with or belonging to the same.

The Bill of Complaint states that heretofore it was on the 9th day of September, 1884, on the empty grave of the author of "Home Sweet Home," to supply the place of the slab that for so long a time had been there.

The "Times" of the "Daily Spy" reported that in 1883 Mr. Corcoran had the body of John Howard Payne exhumed and brought to this country for interment; it was his desire that the bust should be placed in the same fixture as appendages belonging to the same; also one Main Drive Belt; also one Nichols, Shepard & Co.'s Horse Harness; one Nichols, Shepard & Co.'s Harness, and one Nichols, Shepard & Co.'s Harness, all the same, and all appendages with or belonging to the same.

The Bill of Complaint states that heretofore it was on the 9th day of September, 1884, on the empty grave of the author of "Home Sweet Home," to supply the place of the slab that for so long a time had been there.

The "Times" of the "Daily Spy" reported that in 1883 Mr. Corcoran had the body of John Howard Payne exhumed and brought to this country for interment; it was his desire that the bust should be placed in the same fixture as appendages belonging to the same; also one Main Drive Belt; also one Nichols, Shepard & Co.'s Horse Harness; one Nichols, Shepard & Co.'s Harness, and one Nichols, Shepard & Co.'s Harness, all the same, and all appendages with or belonging to the same.

The Bill of Complaint states that heretofore it was on the 9th day of September, 1884, on the empty grave of the author of "Home Sweet Home," to supply the place of the slab that for so long a time had been there.

The "Times" of the "Daily Spy" reported that in 1883 Mr. Corcoran had the body of John Howard Payne exhumed and brought to this country for interment; it was his desire that the bust should be placed in the same fixture as appendages belonging to the same; also one Main Drive Belt; also one Nichols, Shepard & Co.'s Horse Harness; one Nichols, Shepard & Co.'s Harness, and one Nichols, Shepard & Co.'s Harness, all the same, and all appendages with or belonging to the same.

The Bill of Complaint states that heretofore it was on the 9th day of September, 1884, on the empty grave of the author of "Home Sweet Home," to supply the place of the slab that for so long a time had been there.

The "Times" of the "Daily Spy" reported that in 1883 Mr. Corcoran had the body of John Howard Payne exhumed and brought to this country for interment; it was his desire that the bust should be placed in the same fixture as appendages belonging to the same; also one Main Drive Belt; also one Nichols, Shepard & Co.'s Horse Harness; one Nichols, Shepard & Co.'s Harness, and one Nichols, Shepard & Co.'s Harness, all the same, and all appendages with or belonging to the same.

The Bill of Complaint states that heretofore it was on the 9th day of September, 1884, on the empty grave of the author of "Home Sweet Home," to supply the place of the slab that for so long a time had been there.

The "Times" of the "Daily Spy" reported that in 1883 Mr. Corcoran had the body of John Howard Payne exhumed and brought to this country for interment; it was his desire that the bust should be placed in the same fixture as appendages belonging to the same; also one Main Drive Belt; also one Nichols, Shepard & Co.'s Horse Harness; one Nichols, Shepard & Co.'s Harness, and one Nichols, Shepard & Co.'s Harness, all the same, and all appendages with or belonging to the same.

The Bill of Complaint states that heretofore it was on the 9th day of September, 1884, on the empty grave of the author of "Home Sweet Home," to supply the place of the slab that for so long a time had been there.

The "Times" of the "Daily Spy" reported that in 1883 Mr. Corcoran had the body of John Howard Payne exhumed and brought to this country for interment; it was his desire that the bust should be placed in the same fixture as appendages belonging to the same; also one Main Drive Belt; also one Nichols, Shepard & Co.'s Horse Harness; one Nichols, Shepard & Co.'s Harness, and one Nichols, Shepard & Co.'s Harness, all the same, and all appendages with or belonging to the same.

The Bill of Complaint states that heretofore it was on the 9th day of September, 1884, on the empty grave of the author of "Home Sweet Home," to supply the place of the slab that for so long a time had been there.

The "Times" of the "Daily Spy" reported that in 1883 Mr. Corcoran had the body of John Howard Payne exhumed and brought to this country for interment; it was his desire that the bust should be placed in the same fixture as appendages belonging to the same; also one Main Drive Belt; also one Nichols, Shepard & Co.'s Horse Harness; one Nichols, Shepard & Co.'s Harness, and one Nichols, Shepard & Co.'s Harness, all the same, and all appendages with or belonging to the same.

The Bill of Complaint states that heretofore it was on the 9th day of September, 1884, on the empty grave of the author of "Home Sweet Home," to supply the place of the slab that for so long a time had been there.

The "Times" of the "Daily Spy" reported that in 1883 Mr. Corcoran had the body of John Howard Payne exhumed and brought to this country for interment; it was his desire that the bust should be placed in the same fixture as appendages belonging to the same; also one Main Drive Belt; also one Nichols, Shepard & Co.'s Horse Harness; one Nichols, Shepard & Co.'s Harness, and one Nichols, Shepard & Co.'s Harness, all the same, and all appendages with or belonging to the same.

The Bill of Complaint states that heretofore it was on the 9th day of September, 1884, on the empty grave of the author of "Home Sweet Home," to supply the place of the slab that for so long a time had been there.

The "Times" of the "Daily Spy" reported that in 1883 Mr. Corcoran had the body of John Howard Payne exhumed and brought to this country for interment; it was his desire that the bust should be placed in the same fixture as appendages belonging to the same; also one Main Drive Belt; also one Nichols, Shepard & Co.'s Horse Harness; one Nichols, Shepard & Co.'s Harness, and one Nichols, Shepard & Co.'s Harness, all the same, and all appendages with or belonging to the same.

The Bill of Complaint states that heretofore it was on the 9th day of September, 1884, on the empty grave of the author of "Home Sweet Home," to supply the place of the slab that for so long a time had been there.

The "Times" of the "Daily Spy" reported that in 1883 Mr. Corcoran had the body of