Prize Essay on House Cleaning. The Philadelphia Press offered a prize for the best essay on house cleaning, and it was awarded for the following :

One of the difficulties of house cleaning, is in finding the right place to begin. Start with the men of the house. Let them understand that women do not clean house for their own amusement, but that it is an important work which must be performed, and which will be finished with as little delay and annoyance to others as possible. By preserving an even temper we can spare the tempers of those about us. Have a perfect understanding that the work is not to be subject to whims or indigestion, or made the occasion of selfish complainings, and then push ahead quietly, quickly and thoroughly to the

Every spring and fall overhaul all old clothing, empty the rag-bags and dispose of the con turns white goods yellow.

Beginning with the upper story take each room separately, that the whole house may not be in confusion at the same time. Then in case of sudden illness or any unforeseen interruption some of the rooms will be habitable. Remove all pictures and fancy articles, carefully brush and wipe them free from dust, and with a soft, damp cloth, polish each article that will not be injured by the application of water. Then cover and put them away until the room is cleaned. This plan of cleaning as thoroughly as possible all articles before removing them from the room avoids carrying dust from one place to another. The next thing is to take the clothing from the closets, bureaus and wardrobes, cleaning each receptacle thoroughly. Remove all the furniture possible from the room, wiping off the dust before doing so, and carefully cover what remains. Brush the bedding with a small whisk before taking it out of the room. Next take up the carpet. A good plan have the tacks drawn from the carpet the day before, as it saves time after the cleaning is actually begun. If in the country, have the carpets taken out of doors, well beaten, shaken a very heavy stock of and swept upon both sides. If in the city the carpet-cleaning houses do the work very thoroughly and with little expense. Slightly sprinkle the bare floor with water and sweep twice. With a large, clean, soft cloth wipe the dust from the walls and ceiling. Have a bucket of warm water, slightly soapy and with a clean, soft scrubbing brush go over the paint carefully. Do not let any water touch the wall paper. Wipe the paint dry with a soft cloth to give it an even polish. Soap used directly on paint makes it yellow and takes it off. With clear water and a soft cloth wash the window panes and polish dry with a chamois skin or a clean, soft linen cloth. Old newspapers are excellent for this purpose. Have the floor well scrubbed, and when it is perfectly dry have the carpet laid, and replace the things belonging to the room. Close the doors and proceed with the next room, and so stairways of that floor. It is better to leave the

If your house is heated by a furnace have all the registers through the house closed while the cellar is being swept and cleaned of rubbish, as the dust will ascend through the flues. The JAMES A. SHAW, cellar should be well whitewashed, and lime be scattered near the walls.

When the dining-room and kitchen are being cleaned, the pantries, dressers and sideboards should be done first. All the kitchen utensils must be cleaned and polished, and the range blackened before anything else is done. If the work is being done in the country, where stoves are used instead of a furnace, clean out the stoves, blacken, cover and set them away in some dry place until the full cleaning is finished, or until fires are needed, when they will be ready to put in their places. The latter part of May is the best time for the spring cleaning. The fall cleaning should be done in October.

Among its earlier symptomatic developments are Eczema, Cutaneous Eruptions, Tu-mors, Boils, Carbuncles, Erysipelas, Purulent Ulcers, Nervous and Physical Collapse, etc. If allowed to continue, Rheumatism, Scrofulous Catarrh, Kidney and Liver Diseases, Tubercular Consumption, and various other dangerous or fatal maladies, are produced by it.
