CHESTERTOWN PUBLIC SCHOOL.

The Closing Exercises-Good Averages-The "Commencement"-Seven Young Lady Graduates.

-The closing exercises at the public school this town were of a special and interesting character. Under our present improved public school system the cause of education throughout the State has made rapid advancement within recent years; in Kent this advantage has been supplemented by good school officers and good management, so that all our people feel a just pride in the institution and highly appreciate the facilities afforded. In no other section of the State, probably, has progress been more manifest than in the particular school of which we now write, not that it is now so much better than others. but that in it there was so much "room for provement." THE "SALVATION ARMY" ARRIVES, -- The salvation army-or it may be better to say a "division" of the salvation army-reached Chestertown last Wednesday and commenced operations. It consisted of a man-an able-bodied individual with black whiskers, and rather 91. About sundown the pair marched down the main street singing-the woman keeping time with her tambourine and the man wildly gesticulating with his long arms; a Church will hold a FESTIVAL on the parsonhalt was called in front of the market house and | age green on the evenings of July 8th, 9th, 10th a crowd soon gathered to see the show. The man prayed and exhorted and the woman prayed and sung and "preached" and the tambourine $50,000 was industriously circulated by the former to on mortgage at 5 and 6 per cent. gather up the pennies. The whole performance wound up in about an hour, and the army moved upon one of the churches where religious services were being held, but they were very properly refused admittance. Day and night since the two have paraded the streets peddling "Salvation army" literature and holding "service" wherever they could attract the attention of passers-by. Solemnly marching down Main street now and then they would halt, kneel down and offer wailing cries for the salvation of the benighted sinners of Chestertown; then followed couraging-the first night it was thirty-two the man said was far short of expenses. Various opinions are expressed as to the character of these people, the general conclusion being that they are after an easy way to make a living. Their pretensions and "efforts" are a mockery of religion and simply disgust sensible people.
