Grant and the Electoral Commission.

Mr. Childs was probably the most intimate personal friend General Grant had during the last ten or fifteen years of his life, and it is known of negroes from Baltimore visited the camp and that even in grave political complications, Mr. "painted it red." They did the painting with Childs was often privately and unreservedly con- razors. During the razor melee, Emory Nichols, sulted by the general.

In Mr. Childs' recollections of General Grant, given over his own signature, he throws some new light on Grant's view of the Presidential contest of 1876. He recites a conversation between General Grant and several leading Republicans, who declared that Hayes was elected, to which Grant answered : "Gentlemen, it looks to me as if Mr. Tilden was elected." This was "on the morning of the momentous day," as Mr. Childs states it. To this General Grant Henry Holland attempted to arrest three men added-"I would sooner have Tilden Gan that the Republicans should have a President who engaged in passing counterfeit silver dollars, but could be stigmatized as a fraud."

RODGERS' RED SEED WHEAT

from Maule's Catalogue for 1885

"A new Wheat from Erie Co., Pa., which last ear proved one of the most popular varieties on our entire list, and it promises this year to even surpass last year's sales. It is smooth with white chaff and unusually prolific. Straw is blue before ripening, but becomes yellow before time of harvesting. Heads large and grows 3 to 4 grains across in a row. It stools out finely and stands the winter well. Sown largely the last season by a number of growers. We have yet to hear orders, $1.25 per bushel. Grown and for sale by WM. E. JARRELL

--- Chesterville, Md. I sowed Rodgers' Red Wheat last year and had fine yield. Will sow it all this fall, as I believe it will grow from 3 to 5 bushels per acre more than Red or Faltz. JAMES W. GREENWOOD.
