The Evolutions of a Fool. Waldo Messaros spoke the other evening on "The Evolution of a Fool." He said : "I have come here tonight to strike some rude blows at that idol of self, which, undaunted by millions of defeats in the last six thousand years, still dares make effort to usurp the place of God. Vanity is the bane of the race. We think we are good enough saviors for ourselves and can take care of ourselves through eternity as through time. Such hate to be called fools, but Mirrors display the faces of such fools on every side and conscience has an unflattering habit of saying, 'Thou art the man.' The fool is be whom the world calls wise, who is sharp at a bargain, even to trickery, who feathers his own nest though he pluck others to do it, who believes everything bonest that is profitable, everything right that is comfortable, who has no faith in the honor of man or the virtue of woman, in the divinity of Christ or the justice of God, who mocks at everything but himself. Such a man gains much in this world, but fails to lay hold of eternal life. Men do not reach this stage in a moment; they grow to it. 'Tis an evolution. Queen Elizabeth died possessing three thousand dresses. I doubt much if she had the robe of righteousness. I have in the house a piece of one of those dresses. How long it has outlasted the Queen that wore it! The end of the fool death, the end of the wise, eternal life.

"If I Were Rich."

One evening, passing along a crowded street, I heard one boy saying to another, "If I were rich I wouldn't-' and then the rest of the sentence was lost as I hurried on with the throng. But I have wondered often since how that sentence was finished. Did the boy say, "If I were rich I wouldn't snub my poor relations," "If I were rich, I wouldn't spend all the money on myself," or, "If I were rich I wouldn't work any more," or what?

We cannot know, but there is one thing quite he is mean now, he would be mean then. If he works faithfully now, he would work with fidelity then. For "he that is faithful in that which is least is faithful also in much; and he that is unjust in the least is unjust also in much." ---

Forgot the Combination.

A wealthy citizen had been out until the "we sma' hours' with convivial companions. It was not exactly a "dry locality" that he had visited, and he arrived home slightly exhilarated. He managed, by describing several erratic rather than geometrical lines, to get to his bedroom and into a chair. Then he called to his wife in a

"I can't get my boots off." 'What's the matter with your boots?' "Nozzin'," in a faint whisper. "What's the matter with your hands, then?" she cross-examined.

"Mary, I've forgot the combination."

A FORTUNE MADE IN MATCHES .- Mr. Henry B. Courtney, a member of the Diamond Match Company, died at his home in Wilmington, Del., at an early hour Saturday morning of a pulmonary trouble, superinduced by the fumes of the preparation of which the matches are made. The deceased was 63 years old, and came to this country from England in 1853. He was an experienced match manufacturer, and, with J. K. B. EMORY. W. H. Switt, started the business at Wilmington upon a united capital of less than $50. He was the first, and for a long time the only man in this country who understood the manufacture of parlor matches, and in the product the firm long enjoyed a monopoly. The business grew to immense proportions, with heavy profits, and branch factories were established in various parts of the country. Mr. Courtney amassed a No. 68 South Street, Baltimore, Md. ways carefully guarded the secret of compounding his preparation for dipping the matches, and worked daily at the factory until recently, when he imparted the formula to his son, who is now the only possessor of it. The deceased claimed to have made enormous fortunes for two firms in England by utilizing the preparation before

THE State of Massachusetts is trying the experiment of boarding out insane persons of the quiet, inoffensive and incurable class. The patients are under the charge of State officers and amenable to certain regulations, and the plan has worked very well so far. The advantages of a more natural way of living and greater reedom from restraint are appreciated by the coming to America.

As GEORGE WILLIAM CURTIS has announced that Mr. Blaine would encounter the same opposition in 1888 that defeated him in 1884, it would undoubtedly be wise for the signal service officials to unfurl the cold wave flag. There's bound to be a change of some kind or another and it doesn't look as though it would be in the nature of an unruffled calm .- Phila. Times.

This FERTILIZER cannot be excelled for PEACH TREES. A Special Formula is used containing the essential ingredients of POTASH and KIERSITE (crude Magnesium Sulphate) and BONE needed to feed the growing tree and render

 THIS IS JUST THE FERTILIZER YOUR ORCHARDS REQUIRE. IT WILL PAY YOU TO USE IT FREELY THIS SPRING.

We claim it to be the BEST and the CHEAPEST Peach Tree Fertilizer ever out on the market. A trial only is needed to prove this. It is not an experiment but a well-tried mixture, fully endorsed by intelligent and experienced Peach Growers of the Maryland and Delaware Peninsula. Separate ingredients furnished for those desiring to mix for themselves, or any formula mixed to order.

We are favored by the Experiment Department of Houghton Farm, Montain-ville, N, Y., with the result of an elaborate investigation into the cause of Peach Consignments solicited. Correspondence Yellows, by Prof. D. P. Penhallow. In the course of this investigation the bark and wood of 22 species of fruit and forest trees were examined, in order to determine their chemical and physical condition, both in health and disease at different seasons of the year. As the result of these investigations Prof. Penhallow concludes that the disease known as Peach Yellows is not due, as has been supposed to insects, or to fungoid growths, but rather to deficient or improper autrition, involving an excess of lime and a want of potash in the wood and fruit, together with an abnormal proportion of certain other constituents.

He states "The external indications as have been long known, are stated to be premature ripening of the fruit with purple discoloration of the flesh, and deficiency of flavor the first year; and small yellow and red leaves and clusters of wiry twigs from the larger limbs the second year, followed by the death of the tree. Examinations indicate the roots are always healthy." As a remedy, thorough cultivation is urged, and the use, instead of stable manure, of a commercial manure containing kiersite (crude magnesium sulphate), dissolved hone, sulphate and reprinted taining kiersite (crude magnesium sulphate), dissolved bone, sulphate and muriate of potash. Diseased trees treated with these chemicals by Dr. Goessman of the SHINGLES. LATHS, PICKETS. VIRGINIA Massachusetts Agricultural College have been restored to perfect health, even where the disease does not exist, the use of these chemicals while not only acting as a preventive will much improve the quality of the crop making it market at a higher price. The following extracts taken from letters received from our customers may

"Where I used none, the trees did not do well and the fruit was nothing to brag of, but alongside of this, where I used your Peach Tree Fertilizer, the trees came out vigorous and healthy, and the fruit was No. 1, bringing twice as much per basket as where I used none." From Flanders, N. J.: "The Williams, Clark & Co.'s Peach Tree Fertilizer which I used, did remarkably well. The trees sent out dark-green leaves and extended their limbs and seemed to have new life. I can heartily recommend it as a From Flemington, N. J.: "I used one ton of the Peach Tree Fertilizer, and am satisfied it is a good thing." We could add many more opinions of the same kind. We think an application of the Peach Tree Fertilizer will be found very beneficial to all orchards:
