Cambridge Boarding School,
FOR YOUNG LADIES.
MRS. SHIPPEY,

RETURNS her grateful thanks to her friends and the public in general, for the encouragement she has met with in her professional line in the education of children. She intends opening a BOARDING SCHOOL in Cambridge the 1st of November, in a pleasant, airy situation, and a very commodious house; where the utmost attention will be paid to the health, morals and behaviour of the young ladies committed to her care.

The price of a young lady who is taught reading, writing, arithmetic, English grammar, plain and sampler work of all kinds, tambour, embroidery, and a variety of lace works too tedious to mention, together with the knowledge of domestic business to those who choose it, is 45 pounds per annum. Drawing and painting will be an additional expence of five pounds per annum.

Parents and guardians of children, she makes no doubt, from one year's experience, will see the advantage of a boarding school education, as the young ladies will be constantly under Mrs. Shippey's eye; an advantage that is wanting to those who go out to several different schools.

N. B.—Each boarder finds one cord of wood per annum, and the materials for working. 8
