THE CHEERING PROSPECT.

From all sections-in State and countythe prospect is most cheering for a grand victory next Tuesday.

The counties of the Western Shore, where "Little Vie" is leading the Democratic hosts, already intimated what she will do, and majority in the counties against the call. Next Tuesday's Elections.

Despite the fact that this is an "off year" in politics, considerable interest attaches to the elections to be held next Tuesday, Nov. 8, in view of the presidential election to be held one year hence. Elections will be held in nine States, as follows: In Maryland, a Governor, comptroller, attorneygeneral, members of the lower house of the convention to revise the State constitution. In Virginia, all the hundred members of forty senators are to be elected. The leg- may do the san islature to be elected in Virginia will select a successor to Mr. Riddleberger in the United States Senate. A prohibition mass meeting was held in the court-house on Tuesday evening last and the room was well-filled-quite a number of ladies boing present. Those of voting age present were about equally divided between Democrats and Republicans and all seemed to enjoy the "good things" said by the speakers-the Democrats fully appreciating the hard hits at the Republicans and the latter were equally well pleased when the Democrats caught it heavy.

Capt. James H. Thompson presided and Rev. J. D. Kemp offered the opening prayer. The speakers were Revs. Mr. Clemm and Webster M. Straver, both of Baltimore. The first dwelt upon the evils of the liquor traffic, the inefficiency of "drinking" officials, &c., &c. He couldn't trust neither of the old parties—the Democrats were awful bad and the Republicans, if anything, were a little worse. The former he said were openly for the bottle and the devil, while the Republicans kept the bottle hid as much as possible but would bring it out whenever necessary to get votes, and for God and the devil both at the same time. The speaker was full of humor and interspersed his address with pointed jokes. Rev. Mr. Strayer, the second speaker, is a man of much force, and withal is well known in Chestertown and personally popular with all our people. His speech on this occasion was certainly a strong one from the prohibition standpoint. He believed in politics and declared the prohibition party to be purely a political party: thought he and those who were with him had the same right to act togother as a political party as any other set of men. He argued that the two old parties had outthem it was only a fight for office. His Dwelling, located but a short distance from the reference to Grover Cleveland brought a store. For terms apply to storm of applause from the Democratic part of the audience before the completed sentence which contained the reference was understood.
