It would be contributory to the revenge. A friend to me in the country, but the slight had occurred once too often, and he related.

A Six Fingered Family. One of the most remarkable cases in medical annals, as summarized in a French journal, has reference to a six-fingered family.

Why Mr. Bradman is Happy. From the Adelaide Advertiser, Nov. 10. Probably the greatest man in South Carolina to-day is James M. Bradman, Sr.

A Fight to the Death. From the Boston Globe, Nov. 10. It was a strange and a desperate fight that was being waged along in the edge of the Flint river swamp last Monday, nipping came and keeping cool.

Remedy for Roaches. Simple remedies are often very effective. A gentleman several years ago accidentally discovered the following remedy. He brought home a lot of tarred paper and placed in a kitchen cupboard.

Senator Sherman's Daughter. From the Philadelphia Times. This is a paragraph going the rounds that Senator Sherman's one child is a daughter named Mary, who last year was the first time entered society in Washington.

Belles at a Backwoods Ball. From the Arizona Herald. Miss Sallie McMillan was rigged out as prettily as a red and green woman with two spring shoes, and made more mashes than a few.
