SENATOR GORMAN, of Maryland, made a speech before the Harlem Club, of New York, on Thursday evening of last week, responding to the toast, "Government by Party is Essential to Free Institutions. He said: "I have no doubt that loval democrats will take note of the club's example and follow it. If such action is taken and a perfect organization is effected, the moment the national democratic convention nominates our candidate for President we will be prepared to begin the contest and make the fight in that orderly and leader in popular government should not many Kent farmers. only have competent men under him, but partisans. A GAME OF EUCHRE FOR £200,000 .- An interesting feature of the report of the United States consul at Sydney upon the rich silver mines of the Barrier ranges, New South Wales, relates to the Broken Hill Proprietary Company's claim to its mine, now said to be valued at £25,000,000. The eonsul says: "A game of euchre for onefourteenth of the mine was played, and although a full share did not represent the stake, the then value of that share depended on the result of the game-depended, indeed, on one man holding more trumps than his opponent. The scene occurred at Mount Gipp's homestead one night about three years ago, when Mr. McCulloch, the manager, and Cox, an employe on the station, played euchre to decide whether the latter should give the former £150 to £120 for a fourteenth share in the Broken Hill mines, which were just then being prospected. Mr. Cox won, and has since had reason to bless the genius of the man, who, to please his royal master, the mad king of France, invented a pack of cards. Monte Carlo has been the scene of many a huge gambling transaction, but it is doubtful if ever the result of a ingle game equaled the present value learly £200,000) of the stake played for Mount Gipp's homestead.

Wanamaker on Advertising.

John Wanamaker, the great Philadelphia nerchant, recently spoke as follows about

"I never in my life used such a thing as a poster, or dodger, or handbill. My plan for fifteen years has been to buy so much space in a newspaper and fill it up with what I wanted. I would not give an advertisement in a newspaper of four hundred circulation for 5,000 dodgers or posters. If I wanted to sell cheap jewelry or run a lottery scheme I might use posters, but I would not insult a decent reading public with handbills. The class of people who read such things are poor material to look to for support in mercantile affairs. How agents. They always get the profit the advertiser should have. I deal directly with the publisher. I say to him 'How long will you let me run a column of matter through your paper for $100 or $500, as the case may be. I let him do the figuring, and if I whink he is not trying to gouge more than his share I give him the copy I lay aside the profits on a particular line of goods for advertising purposes. The first year I laid aside $3,000; last year I laid aside and spent $50,000. I have done better this year and shall increase that sum as the profits warrant it. The church had been elegantly dressed by lady and gentlemen friends for the occasion. Promptly at the hour the bridal pair were ushered in, while Miss Nicodemus of Westminster (a friend of the bride's) performed at the organ, pealing forth a rich, grand march. The ushers were Mr. S. N. Loraine of Chesapeake City, Mr. H. W. Loraine of Philadelphia, and John and Chas. Wood, brothers of the groom. The wedding party experienced a rough passage over the East Neck Island bridge on their way to the church owing to the high tide and extremely high wind which caused the water to dash in great sheets far above the railing of the handsome structure. They arrived, however, in due time and the happy pair were made one after the rites and ceremonies of the M. P. Church by the pastor, Rev. R. L. In Baltimore, on January 2, LOUISA B., beloved daughter of the late Daniel and Mary E. Marshall. Anne's county, aged about 61 years.
In Memorian If we had needed fresh proof that "death loves a shining mark," we have received it in the demise four beloved young friend, Morris C. Wright, who | 1 Two-Horse Carriage and Harness, departed this life December 31, 1887. Just arrived at an age when he could look back on a pleasant childhood, and forward with a reasonable hope of a long and useful manhood; and with the expressed deter mination by every act of his to render as pleasant as possible the declining years of his beloved parent; we are constrained in agony of spirit to cry out, Why should he be taken from us, while others are Delaware—Misses Lizzie Willis and Berleft to fill up the measure of their days, who bring only sorrow and shame as though this were not nough, that the dear son, the beloved brother should be removed. And where in all the land shall we find a more affectionate son or brother, or a truer friend than he was? Morris! Surely the hand of affliction has been laid heavily upon this bereaved family, and in the full consciousness that words are roid of comfort in this double sorrow, we can only point them to the Father of Light, with whom is no variableness, neither shadow of turning, but is the same yesterday, to-day, and forever, knowing full vell that sooner or later we shall all be satisfied
