Special Washington Correspondent For The Cecil County Star

The clear cut fight between big business interests and the Administration, which seemed to be certain, has been complicated. The announcement by Senator William E. Borah that he is willing to lead the mobilization of "liberals" in the Republican party and that his name could be entered in any presidential primary, where his friends thought he could win, has done much to shatter the lineup. The Idahoan is well known for his blasts against monopolies and is constantly waging an oratorical war against the threat of big business to control the nation.

Borah, it is generally understood will never go as far as some of the other capital Progressives. Within the rank of his party, however, and against its conservative elements, he is adamant, never hesitating to lambast promises or persons with whom he disagrees. Moreover, the present situation is intensified by strong personal antipathy toward former President Hoover, the speaking, if not actual, leader of conservative Republicanism today.

The clash between these two men bodes no easy road for the Republican party. Their political ideals are in hopeless conflict. Both may be expected to wage a hard hitting campaign to control the convention which meets at Cleveland. Undoubtedly, the line of cleavage will be sharp and the wounds deep. The success of either will be at heavy cost to the prospects of party success next fall.

The Borah idea is that the Republican party must be liberalized" or face the danger of being completely dominated and controlled by reactionaries, which, in his view, would be absolutely fatal. The Senator explains his position by offering to support the liberal movement and to become a candidate when such action on his part would promote the success of the effort to frame the party platform, command its machinery, and direct its course. Conceivably, the Idahoan, who has never bolted his party, acts through a sense of loyalty to Republicanism as he sees it, and hopes to avoid what he thinks would be inevitable disaster.

Senator Borah will wage an aggressive campaign to be directed by an advisory board of Senators and Progressive leaders. Next month the candidacy will be openly announced and while the principal effort will be put forth in the West where his prestige is strongest, supporters in the East will be encouraged to pick up stray delegates in districts that are favorable. The objective is to secure such strength as to have the balance of power in the Convention, thus forcing the party to adopt a liberal platform and accept Borah as the standardbearer or else someone with his approval.

The Senator will oppose restoration of the gold standard and support a bimetallic system after international agreement, continue his opposition to American membership in the League of Nations and World Court, advocate strict enforcement of anti-trust laws to destroy monopolies and favor the repeal of the AAA in favor of a substitute now being studied out.

The Borah declaration, accepting the support of Wisconsin liberals has caused a great stir on the part of both wings of the party, reminiscent of the 1912 activity and with the prospect of becoming almost as bitter as the battle between Taft and Roosevelt. The Old Guard will continue to fight through uninstructed and "stalking-horse" favorite son delegates, believing that they can control the Convention with the support of former President Hoover. They believe that Senator Borah will need the almost solid suppor of the West, and a fighting faction from the East, to be effective. Already three outstanding Senate Progressives are not expected to aid him. Senators Norris, Johnson and La Follette are generally regarded as certain to support President Roosevelt. On the other hand, Senators Nye and Frazier of North Dakota, Norbeck of South Dakota, and Steiwar and McNary of Oregon, probably will be on the side of the Idaho Senator.

Republican "regulars" have no idea that Borah can win the nomination. Conceivably, they may be badly in error, but they feel that it will be impossible for him to secure necessary Eastern support. In fact, so-called big business would be about as antagonistic to Mr. Borah as it is to the President. However, the regulars, realize that determined effort on the part of Borah supporters would emphasize the division of thought between "liberal" and "conservative" Republicans and in the event of the nomination of a conserva-

Past Year Sets New All Time Record In Local Marriage Mart

New Pennsylvania Marriage License Law Credited For Boom In Weddings Here. Total Of 7,218 Permits Granted—1934 Held Previous High Mark With 5,863

Although December fell far below the records of the six preceding months in the granting of marriage licenses here, the year 1935 closed with an all-time record of 7,218 couples being married in Maryland's famous Gretna Green.

The former record was 5,863 which was made in 1934. The year 1935 got off to a poor start with but 308 licenses issued as against 331 for January 1934; however, each month thereafter showed an increase with first June, then July and then August breaking all former monthly records. September saw a slip in the climbing record of the year, but October came back to score one within the record, the total for the month being 777. November was the all-time banner month with 840 marriages being recorded. The gradual increase is said to be due to the new marriage law in Pennsylvania which requires the applicant to wait three days after application before a license is granted. The records show that a majority of the couples married here are from Delaware, New Jersey, Pennsylvania, New York, District of Columbia and Maryland.

The monthly records for 1934 and 1935 are as follows:

Year 1934	Month	Year 1935
331	January	308
242	February	350
396	March	437
462	April	469
427	May	537
615	June	737
488	July	758
593	August	778
605	September	635
495	October	777
524	November	840
505	December	592

Chestertown Shows Increase Also

Kent county's marrying center, Chestertown, also showed an improved record for 1935 over that of 1934. During the past year there were 214 licenses issued as against 173 in 1934. The banner year for Chestertown was in 1932 when 1199 permits were granted. The annual record for Chestertown however is about on a par with a week-end business in Elkton.

Senator Tydings Weds Washington Society Woman

Md. Senior Senator Marries Mrs. Eleanor D. Cheeseborough In Quiet Ceremony Last Thursday

WILL LIVE AT NEW OAKINGTON HOME

Mrs. Eleanor Davis Cheeseborough and Senator Millard E. Tydings, of Maryland, were married last Thursday afternoon at the Massachusetts avenue home of the bride's mother, Mrs. Emlen Davies, in Washington, D. C.

The ceremony was performed by the Rev. Albert Joseph McCartney, pastor of the Presbyterian Church of the Covenant, and Mr. Tydings' best man was Donald Symington, of Darlington, Harford county, a life-long friend and neighbor of the senior Maryland Senator.

There were no other attendants, the wedding being witnessed only by immediate members of the couple's families. Senator Tydings' mother has been seriously ill for some time and, for that reason a quiet wedding had been planned.

A reception at Mrs. Davies' home, following the wedding, was attended by a group of close personal friends of the couple. After the reception Senator Tydings and his bride left for a trip to New Orleans.

Senator and Mrs. Tydings will make their home with Mrs. Davies, at 2941 Massachusetts avenue, while Congress is in session, and later will move to Oakington, the Senator's new estate in Harford county.

Those at the wedding, in addition to Mrs. Davies and Mr. and Mrs. Symington, were the bride's sisters, Miss Emlen Knight Davies, a student at Vassar, and Mrs. Aldace Walker, of New York, and Senator Tydings' two brothers in law, and sisters, Maj. President Leads In Non-Trick Poll

A poll by Drew Pearson and Robert S. Allen, Washington Merry-Go-Round column in many newspapers, shows President Roosevelt leading, the percentage favoring him being 69.7.

Instead of the trick question used by the Literary Digest: "Do you now approve the acts and policies of the New Deal to date?" the Washington Merry-Go-Round poll simply asks: "Should President Roosevelt be re-elected?"

Messrs. Pearson and Allen state that 32.3 per cent of those voting for Roosevelt disapprove of one or more of the President's policies, but believe he should be reelected.

Local Business Concerns Fight Road Change Here

State Roads Comm. Plan To Bi-Pass Elkton Draws Ire Of Merchants - Restaurant Owners

WOULD DEVALUATE MAIN ST. PROPERTY

Following the latest survey by the State Roads Commission for the new Philadelphia road, and which is designated to by-pass Elkton, members of the Town Council, merchants and other interested parties held a meeting Wednesday evening and inaugurated a movement to have the proposed route changed so that the road might be continued through the town.

It was pointed out at the meeting that the present route as planned by the State Roads Commission would devaluate the property situated along the present roadway nearly a million dollars, which would necessitate an increase in the present tax rate.

It was also estimated at the meeting that tourists and others, passing thru Elkton, spend approximately $200,000 annually at the hotels and business places along the route in town and that these business houses, hotels and restaurants would lose thousands of dollars if the plans of the Commission to by-pass Elkton are made effective. Agitation against the changing of the Philadelphia road through the town is gaining momentum and it is expected that plans will be drawn to lay before the Commission in a short while.

MINUTE ADOPTED

Death has removed a member of our Council and we meet with saddened hearts to record our appreciation of the many fine qualities of the late Lewis Frank Bryson, Jr., so suddenly called from us on December 29th, 1935.

His unswerving honesty, his sound judgment, his fidelity to duty and his genial demeanor have made association with him a pleasure and his absence from our deliberations will be as sorely felt as will the loss of personal companionship with him.

To his bereaved family we extend our deepest sympathy.

The President and Commissioners of the Town of Elkton
Sayres D. Booth, Secretary.

Fire Destroys Campbell Home Near Perryville

Fire of undetermined origin destroyed the old Colonial home of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Campbell, on the Aikin road between Port Deposit and Perryville, at an early hour Tuesday.

The two and one-half story manor was built in 1742 and was one of the landmarks of this county. The Campbells lost all of their furniture, clothing and other belongings, including a valuable library.

The Campbells were awakened about 5 A. M. and were forced out into the cold clad only in their night clothes. Perryville firemen responded to the alarm, but the fire had gained such headway before they were notified that it was impossible for them to successfully cope with the flames when they arrived on the scene.

FIRE DESTROYS SUMMER HOME OF JOHN LAWRENCE

Prowlers Believed To Have Started Blaze At Carpenters' Point

BEYOND CONTROL OF N. E. FIREMEN

Fire believed to have been started by prowlers completely destroyed the two and one-half story summer home of John Lawrence at Carpenter's Point late last Saturday night. Mr. Lawrence is vice-president of the Baldwin Manufacturing Company, of Elk Mills.

Volunteer firemen from North East responded to the alarm but when they arrived the building was already a mass of flames and they were unable to save any portion of the residence or contents. Ice several inches thick on the North East River made it difficult for the firemen to bring their apparatus into action against the flames. As a matter of protection for several other cottages located near the Lawrence home, they stood by until after the fire had reached a point where no more damage could be done.

Insured For $5,000

The loss is estimated at between $8,500 and $9,000, of which $5,000 is covered by insurance. The contents of the building, however, were not not insured.

Authorities are unable to ascertain in what manner the blaze originated. It is thought that prowlers probably started the fire. Mr. and Mrs. Walter Lawrence, son and daughter in law of the owner, were at the residence in the afternoon but they left at about five o'clock.

Several times during the past few weeks Mr. Lawrence has reported to the authorities that the building has been entered but at the time of the fire investigations by the Sheriff's office had been without results.

Chimney Fires Here

Elkton firemen have been particularly busy during the past week extinguishing chimney fires in Elkton and vicinity. While five alarms were answered by the Elkton volunteers, none of the fires proved of serious consequence.

Annual Meeting For Poultrymen's Group Tomorrow Evening

Del-Mar Circle Includes Farmers Of Newark And Elkton

COOPERATIVE METHODS FOLLOW'D

The members of the Del-Mar Poultryman's Circle will hold their regular meeting in Wolf Hall, Room 206, at the University of Delaware on Friday, January 3 at 8 p. m. The Del-Mar Poultryman's Circle was organized several months ago by the large poultry growers around Newark, Delaware, and Elkton, Maryland, for the purpose of cooperative buying and selling, and keeping its members posted on the latest and best methods of poultry husbandry.

Mr. Victor Lehtinen, President of the Circle, has arranged for H. S. Palmer, Extension Poultryman, University of Delaware, to delfver a lecture on the "Production and Care of High Grade Eggs for Market and Hatchery Purposes." Mr. Palmer has just finished an extensive study of eggs on sixteen Delaware poultry farms where he measured 12,780 eggs for weight per dozen, shell color, shell texture, shape, cleanliness, air cell depth, yolk shadow, yolk movement, mottled shell, cracks, air bubbles, blood spots and meat spots. To determine the effect of heat and moisture on eggs, reading of temperature and humidity were taken in the egg rooms of these sixteen farms. In the vicinity of Newark, John Salminen, Oliver Suddard, and Victor Lehtinen assisted with this egg study.

By means of photographs and a candling machine Mr. Palmer will illustrate the factors which he studied and show how the quality of eggs is affected by feed, heat, humidity and other factors.

BELONGINGS OF FAMILY SAVED

Judge J. Owen Knotts, associate judge of the Second Judicial Circuit, his wife and three children were forced to flee from their home in Denton, Caroline county, early last Saturday morning when flames of undetermined origin broke out on the first floor of their home, which practically wrecked the residence.
