Meeting and Strong Speeches - The arties About Equally Denounced mocracy Will Never Die - The Rean Party now in its Death Struggle.

prohibitionists have held their first ing during the campaign in Chestern, and it was in every respect a success. am's Hall was comfortably filled on Wednesday evening and there was much enthusiasm and good speaking. Mr. B. F. H. Caulk called the meeting to order and announced Robt, S. Griffith, Esq., of Sasspresident, and M. A. Toulson, secretary. Mr. Griffith accepted the chair in a few remarks expressive of his high appreciation M. E. choir then favored the audience with a prohibition song, and at this point a laughable accident befel the president of the meeting. The handsome curtain that formed the back-ground of the stage was hung several feet from the wall, and Mr. G., mistaking its solidity, calmly settled himself in his chair and socially leaned back, when lo! the curtain went back too, with heels high in air and his head mixed up with the curtain and the floor! With his usual agility, however, he recovered his position and declared to the audience that he was not a member of any club. After a Conference, and his speech on this occasion was a masterly presentation of the claims of the third party and vivid picturing of the rum curse. He claimed the same right to give his views upon political issues that is accorded to any other white man who pays his taxes and is of voting age. He arraigned the two old parties and read from documents to show the Louis Shade whiskey influence in controlling legislation in Washington-that Republican and Democratic senators and representatives were alike under this influ ence. He dwelt upon the "personal liberty claims of the whiskey advocates and proclaimed the danger to American institu tions from the unrestricted pauper and criminal emigration from continental Europe, and their participation in all our franchise privileges before becoming in any manner Americanized. Thus it rises in magnitude even above the cost of that great naional curse-rum! Then the tariff ques_ tion is one that political parties can practically deal with. The onerous burdens upon the people from this unjust tax not only ought to be lessened but they can be. The monopolists and beneficiaries are the only impediments in the way-the love of money and power the only lever against it. With the rum question, the practicability is not so clear for parties to deal with. They will not only have to fight the money craving whiskey seller, but, that which is stronger still, and ten times as hard to control, the appetite in man for stimulants-for strong drink, whether natural or acquired. Here is the trouble. Here is the barrier in the way of local option. It would be an equal if not greater barrier in the way of prohibition.

THE RESULT IN KENT next Tuesday will be gratifying to every friend of reform and better times if a full white vote polled. The full colored vote will be out as usual, and as usual will be cast solidly for the Republican ticket. Very few of them will stop to inquire whether a tariff or anything else in issue will affect themselves or their white friends. Many intelligent white Republicans, it is to be hoped, will lay aside party feeling and help the Democracy to effect a reform in the tariff-the great business interest involved ;-help to relieve the burdened farmer-the oppressed mechanic and laboring man. Then better times will follow. Business will boom. afras, as president; Dr. J. T. Twilley, vice Manufactures will increase. There is no greater absurdity and wrong a this country to-day than the tax-called tariff-on wool. It is laid ostensibly to "protect" the sheep raisers. Its effect really is ruinous to the general sheep raising interests of the country at large. It protectsthat is puts money in the pockets-of the good laugh all round the meeting pro- few great sheep raising barons of Ohio and Texas and one or two Northwestern States. Rev. Chas. A. Hill, of Centreville, was the | but to Maryland and the mass of the people generally it is not only no protection, but it is downright robbery! Kent county has about 8,000 head o sheep. Allowing five pounds of wool for each would give a total annual product of 40,000 pounds, of value say $12,000.

This product would not be lessened by the abolition of the tariff-the value would be INCREASED and sheep husbandry stimulated by the great increase in the manufacture of woolen goods, as has been demonstrated by those interested in this business. This increase of manufacture would be caused by the importation of certain fine fleece that cannot be btained in this country, which if it could be had here would be mixed with American grown wools and largely increase the field of manufacture here.

But suppose we admit, for argument that the price of wool would be lessened. and to the full extent claimed, still the except the few named-would be a gainer issues of the old parties. The speaker also financially, because his saving on purchases

IMPROVEMENTS AT ROCK HALL.-The Centreville & Corsica River Steamboat Co. have just completed at Rock. Hall the building of an elegant passenger house on the end of the pier, also a stable for the care of horses while their patrons take the run to Baltimore. The landing is now being covered with shells and put in firstclass condition. The company have already spent about $3,000 at that point and are still improving. The accommodations there are said to have attracted passengers from almost all sections of the county.

IT is decreed advisable to again call the attention of the public to the importance of strict sanitary regulations, more especially as there is at this time several cases of Scarlet Fever in the county. Parents and guardians are cautioned to practice the greatest care. Families in which this or any other contagious disease exists, should avoid all public gatherings, and under no circumstances should the well children be allowed to go to school or to have intercourse with others, until permitted by the attending physician. The teachers of all schools are requested to exercise great caution and if possible to find out all such cases, so that they may aid in preventing the spread Section 5, chapter 155, iaws of 1882 says: "Any person, parent, guardian or other party, who carelessly carry about children or others affected with infectious disease, or who knowingly or wilfully introduce infectious persons into other persons houses, or permit children to attend school, theatre, church or

EXAMINER'S REPORT

Chester River Bridge. GREEN POINT, MD. Oct. 23, 1888. The Honorable the County Commissioners of Kent County-Gentlemen: On October 16th I met Captain ames Smith, of Queen Anne's county, in Chestertown, and we investigated the Chester River Bridge if new, would cost eleven thousand dollars (11,000) Repair on the old bridge for the next five years, $400 yearly; salary of bridge keeper, $250 yearly, this includes house-rent free. At the end of five years it will require new piling and other repairs, which will cost $2,000. In our examination we find a great deal of the piling spliced and others badly decayed. Most of the stringers are good and of new material. The cap logs are mostly good of white oak; balustrade about half good, other half will soon need repairing. About half of the floor good, of Georgia pine; balance in fair condition; draw in good condition, being nearly new; abutments in fair condition, needing some repairs at top.

Oct. 27, 1888-3t. GOOD BUSINESS CORNER FOR RENT. The STORE and DWELLING which has been occupied by Wm. C. A. Thompson for the last 11 years is offered for rent for the balance of the year such additional Dental Practice into the hands of once. Apply either to lease for a term of mended. The closest attention given by both to all county. Low price; easy terms. Also, $25,000 to LOUIS K. STAM, Dental operations. Difficult cases solicited. PAIN.

We estimate to put bridge in through repair, using all material that is good, will cost about $5,000. Old bridge-keeper's house is in such condition that it renders it unfit for use and necessitates a new one at W. B. TURNER.
