Eleven Injured In Five Motor Car Crashes In County

State, City Democratic Organizations Rally To Support Of Senator Radcliffe

Ouster Movement Denied By Board Chairman Pollock Of Trenton Democratic Club. Many Clubs Give Senator Unqualified Endorsement As Campaign Manager For Roosevelt In State

Personal Friend Of Long Standing He Directed The President's Campaign In 1932 and Was Unanimously Selected By State Convention To Again Head Fight In Maryland

Following an ouster movement on Senator George L. Radcliffe as chairman of the Roosevelt campaign in Maryland by members of the Trenton Democratic Club in Baltimore during the absence of its board chairman James H. (Jack) Pollack, Democratic clubs and organizations all over the State have expressed utmost confidence in the Senator's leadership and ability to handle the campaign in the State successfully.

Leaders' Unanimous Choice

Senator Radcliffe, a personal friend of long standing of President Roosevelt, and the man who directed the President's 1932 campaign in the tSate, was picked again for the 1936 campaign by the unanimous consent of all the ranking party leaders, and the selection was ratified by the unanimous vote of the Democratic State Central Committee, made up of the elected party representatives—some 150 of them—from every county in the State and legislative district in Baltimore.

Chairman of the Board Pollack wasn't on the scene when the club, under the gavel of Charles (Charlie Potatoes) Cohen, president, passed the resolution denouncing the selection of Senator Radcliffe.

Throughout the State the Trenton Club's resolution to oust Senator Radcliffe from the campaign managership has received a cold shoulder, and many of the State and City organizations have come forth with counter resolutions praising the Senator's selection and his method of handling the affairs of the campaign.

In addition to numerous State organizations, City Clubs are also voicing their fealty to Senator Radcliffe and are giving the Trenton Club resolution a cold shoulder. Outstanding among these expressing confidence in Senator Radcliffe, is the United Democratic Club of the Eighteenth Ward, in Baltimore, one of the oldest party organizations in the city—founded in 1899 by the late John S. (Frank) Kelly.

Resolution Adopted

With Edward Gross, clerk of the Criminal Court and president of the club, and Charles F. J. Carroll, chairman of the board, presiding, and State Senator Joseph M. Wyatt acting, as secretary, the governors of the organization adopted the following:

Whereas, the Democratic delegates from all the counties of the State of Maryland and the city of Baltimore, in convention assembled on May 13, 1936, did formally and unanimously select the Hon. George L. Radcliffe to be the chairman of the Democratic campaign for the election of our gallant leader, the Hon. Franklin Delano Roosevelt, in November, 1936, and

Whereas, the Hon. George L. Radcliffe, by his untiring efforts in managing the Democratic campaign for the Hon. Franklin Delano Roosevelt in 1932, resulted in an overwhelming victory for the Democratic party and its leader, the Hon. Franklin Delano Roosevelt.

Therefore, be it resolved, that we the members of the Board of Governors of the United Democratic Club, Inc., here assembled do hereby extend to the Hon. George L. Radcliffe a sincere vote of confidence in his efforts and ability again to conduct the Democratic campaign in Maryland to a successful victory for our candidate, the Hon. Franklin Delano Roosevelt.

And be it further resolved, that we the members of the Board of Governors of the United Democratic Club do hereby offer our services subject at any time to the call of our chairman, the Hon. George L. Radcliffe.

Copies of this resolution were sent to Senator Radcliffe.

New Regulation Issued To Dairies Will Be Enforced

Eight New Requirements Listed By State Department Of Health For State - Wide Observance

Physical Examination Of Milk Handlers By Officers One Of New Regulations

According to Dr. Clinton Kane, head of the Cecil County Health Department, notice of the new regulations recently adopted by the State Department of Health, have been forwarded milk producers in the county, and he also calls attention to the fact that these regulations provide for State-wide control and have been instituted by the State Health Department and not the separate county departments.

In commenting on the new regulations, Dr. Robert H. Riley, director of the State Department of Health, said that milk producers must dispose of their product to either private consumers or dairies within eighteen hours. Another requirement is that farmers must provide equipment to cool his milk properly and keep it below 60 degrees Fahrenheit until it is delivered. The bottles must be capped mechanically and the farmer must have the equipment to sterilize all utensils and bottles.

Tuberculin Tests Required

"The annual tuberculin testing of dairy cattle is obligatory," Dr. Riley said. "Physical examination of milk handlers by the health officers, or by physicians authorized by the health officers, is required for the control of communicable diseases.

"The presence of any communicable disease among persons residing or visiting at any dairy farm or other milk-handling establishment must be reported to the health officers."

More Rigid Rule For Raw Milk

The bacterial standard for raw milk also is more rigid, according to the new rules. Raw milk or cream offered for consumption must contain not more than 100,000 colonies of bacteria per cubic centimeter by the official plate method.

Other new regulations are:

Provision for a two-room house for dairies retailing milk.

Sterilization by means of a chlorine solution unless some other method is approved by the Health Department.

Cases of communicable diseases among dairy cattle must be reported directly to the State Health Department.

To Be Enforced

Active enforcement of the regulations will be started 30 days after milk producers have been notified of the new regulations.

On And Off The Stump

What Col. Frank Knox says on the stump and what he says in print are apparently separate and distinct things. Here's a specimen of the advertising Col. Knox's Chicago Daily News is running in Printer's Ink, advertising publication, to attract advertising for his newspaper:

"Here in Chicago, storekeepers are getting back their old pre-depression smiles. People are milling in the streets—with crisp new packages under their arms. Cash registers jingling. Trucks clunking. And between the banks of Michigan avenue, the old gold stream of shiny new automobiles is at high tide again. Chicago is showing more comeback, faster than any spot on the map!"

MOTOR ACCIDENTS TOTAL FIVE WITH ELEVEN INJURED

Several Suffered Serious Hurts And Are Still Confined To Union Hospital

County Commiss. Lum Is Slightly Injured In Collision At North East

A number of automobile accidents in which eleven persons were more or less seriously injured occurred in the county during the past ten days and several of the victims are still confined to Union Hospital for treatment.

Last Thursday mornng, a few hours after the tragic accident at the Conowingo Dam in which five people were instantly killed and fifteen seriously injured, two of the latter dying later, a truck occupied by four colored men ran off the road near Risng Sun, crashed into a pole and turned over in a field. George Davenport, East Orange, N. J., suffered a fractured skull, and Ernest Oscar, also of East Orange, and Willam Thompson, Newark, N. J., were badly cut and bruised. The three men were rushed to Union Hospital for treatment.

Two Seriously Hurt Here

Late Frday evening, Donald Nyman, 24, white, Lock Haven, Pa., and Miss Ruth Thompson, Newark, Del., were serously injured when their car struck an abutment at Glpin Manor brdge on the outskirts of Elkton. After striking the abutment the car rolled down to the edge of the water in Big Elk Creek.

Miss Thompson suffered a fractured leg, lacerations of the scalp and severe bruises, while Nyman received lacerations of the scalp and bruses. Both were taken to Unon Hospital by passing motorists.

Revenue Agent Injured

The third serious accident within the same number of days on the Rising Sun-Conowingo road occurred Saturday when James Corbin, 30, white, Silver Springs, Md., an internal revenue agent, suffered a fractured skull, lacerations and bruises when his machine collded with a car driven by George White, colored, of Norfolk, Va. Mr. Corbin was brought to Union Hospital and White is being held pending the outcome of the revenue agent's injuries.

Four Hurt On Glasgow Road

In a three car collision on the Glasgow road near the Maryland-Delaware line Monday afternoon four persons were injured when a car driven by Franklin T. Petit, Washington, D. C., collided with a machine operated by John Kreck, Wilmington. In attempting to pass Kreck, Petit causes the Wilmington man to run across the road his car colliding with a machine driven by Eary Ellis, of Baltimore. Lewis Ehlers, of Elkton, a passenger in the Ellis car, suffered lacerations of the scalp and left cheek; Mrs. Mae Ellis, of Baltmore, received lacerations; John Kreck abrasions of the legs, and Eary Ellis lacerations and abrasions. The injured were released after being treated in Union Hospital.

County Commissioner Lum Hurt

President of the Board of County Commissioners Mauldin Lum, was painfully injured about the legs and arms one day last week when his car was struck at the intersection of Main street and Cecil avenue in North East. Mr. Lum had the right of way at the traffic signal and was turning from Main street into west Cecil avenue when hs car was struck by a machine driven by R. W. Morse ,of Richmond, Va. Mr. Lum was thrown against the side of his car and injured about the legs and arms. Both cars were slighly damaged.

All Democratic Women Invited To Tydings Home For Parley

Distinguished Guests And Speakers Of National Prominence Will Attend Rally At Oakington, Country Estate Of Senator And Mrs. Millard E. Tydings

Meeting Arranged To Discuss Campaign Ideas And To Mobilize Democratic Women Of Maryland For Important Work In The Presidential Election

Every Democratic woman in Maryland is invited on Saturday afternoon, September 5th, to Oakington, the estate of Senator and Mrs. Millard E. Tydings, on the Chesapeake Bay, between Aberdeen and Havre de Grace. The occasion will be the formal mobilization of the Democratic women of the State for the Presidential campaign.

Plans to get all eligible voters on the registration books to uphold the New Deal on November 4 and to defeat the purposes of the "market-basket campaign" the Republican women of Maryland are waging here, will be outlined at the rally.

Two nationally known women have been invited to address the gathering—Mrs. Nellie Tayloe Ross, director of the mint and former Gov. of Wyoming, and Mrs. Emma Guffey Miller, Democratic National Committeewoman for Pennsylvania and a sister of Senator Joseph Guffey.

They will be introduced by Senator Millard E. Tydings, who will preside as host at the party. Senator George L. Radcliffe, as chairman of the campaign in Maryland, will deliver a brief address and Mrs. Elizabeth R. Menefee, of Cumberland, Democratic National Committeewoman, will also speak. There will be a number of interesting displays and refreshments will be served. The speaking program will begin at 2 o'clock.

All Democratic Women Invited

Senator and Mrs. Tydings want it made perfectly clear that their invitation is extended to every Democratic woman in the State.

The meeting, which is expected to be the largest gathering of Democratic women ever held in Maryland, is arousing much enthusiasm. Mrs. Mary H. Duvall has pledged the support of the United Democratic Women's Clubs of Maryland, of which she is president. Mrs. E. Blanche Phillips, only woman member of the Maryland House of Delegates from Baltimore, is lining up the members of the City-wide Democratic Women's Club, and Mrs. Ethel R. Lorentz will head a large delegation from her organization, the Democratic Women's Luncheon Club of Baltimore. The Ward Clubs, too, expect to be well represented at the rally and in addition ,many individuals are making up parties for the trip.

Prominent Leaders To Be Present

Many prominent leaders are expected, including the following: Senator George L. Radcliffe chairman of the Democratic Campaign Committee; Congressmen T. Alan Goldsborough, William P. Cole, Jr., Vincent Palmisano, Ambrose J. Kennedy, Stephen W. Gambrill and David J. Lewis; Howard Bruce, National Committeeman of Maryland; Joshua N. Warfield, Chairman of the State Central Committee of Maryland; Lansdale G. Sasscer, President, Maryland Senate; J. Alan Coad, Floor Leader, Senate of Maryland; Emanuel Gorfine, Speaker, House of Delegates; Kent R. Mullikin, Floor Leader, House of Delegates and Secretary of the Campaign Committee; Mayor Howard W. Miles, State Treasurer; Miss Mary Risteau, Senator from Harford county; Lawrence E. Fenneman, President, Democratic Clubs of Maryland; Sumner Welles, Assistant Secretary of State; Smith W. Purdum, Fourth Assistant Postmaster General.

Cooperating For Success

Among those cooperating in an effort to insure the success of the rally are: Miss Lillian R. Forwood, of Bel Aair, vice-chairman of the Democratic State Central Committee; Mrs. George Heller, Congressional Committeewoman; Miss Sophie K. Nordenholz, president of the Women's Bar Association; Mrs. Mortimer W. West, head of the Federation of Democratic Women of Baltimore City, and Mrs. Lawrence Fenneman, who represents the women in the Young Democratic Clubs of Maryland.

Mrs. Mary Duvall, chairman of the United Democratic Women's Clubs of Maryland, is delighted with the enthusiasm that she has found in all parts of the State. Chairmen cooperating with her include the Hon. Mayne A. Collins, Member of the House of Delegates, Somerset county; Mrs. Whaland, Eastern Shore counties; Mrs. F. E. McFadden, Southern Maryland Chairman; Mrs. Brewer Stauffer, Western Maryland Chairman; Mrs. Charles W. Clemson, Central Maryland Chairman; and Mrs. Annie E. Elliott, Baltimore City Chairman.

TWO MORE CRASH VICTIMS SUCCUMB TO INJURIES HERE

Deaths Of Harry Harris And James Silas Bring Toll of Motor Truck Accident Up To Seven

Seven Remaining In Hospital Expected To Recover. Four Others Discharged After Treatment

With the deaths of Harry Harris, 36, Dellegrade, Florida, and James Silas, Quitman, Georgia, both colored, and among the thirteen injured in the truck crash at the Conowingo Dam last Thursday morning, the death toll from the accident has reached seven.

Harris died Friday and Silas, who suffered a broken neck succumbed Saturday. Seven more of the injured are still in the hospital and all are expected to recover.

All were members of a party of laborers returning to their homes in Georgia and Florida from New Jersey where they had been working in the potato fields near Hightstown. Of the twenty-three in the truck only two did not require hospital treatment.

Plunges Over Embankment

The accident occurred while the truck was southbound on Route 1 near Conowingo early Thursday morning. Descending a long winding hill made slippery by the rain and heavy mist, the truck failed to negotiate a curve on the wet road and hit a bridge abutment. Crashing through a guard rail the vehicle and passengers were plunged down a seventy-foot embankment to the river bed below.

George D. Hart, white, Hastings, Fla., driver of the truck, was killed instantly and four others, including one woman, died soon afterward. Another white man in the party who was seated along side the driver was uninjured save for a few bruises and scratches.

Chester-Bridgeport Ferry Has 24-Hour Service

The recently inaugurated 24-hour service at the Chester-Bridgeport Ferry will be continued all year according to a recent announcent from Mr. William B. Boyer, advertising manager. Mr. Boyer says the ferry is now handling a much greater volume of traffic than last year without the least congestion.

The Lakes to Sea Highway, U. S. Route 322, running from Cleveland to Atlantic City, now crosses the ferry at Chester and provides an excellent, well marked highway to the shore. The New Jersey routes to New York are also in fine shape and more and more motorists use the Chester ferry and Jersey routes to avoid traffic congestion.

A schedule of the new low truck fares will be found elsewhere in this edition.

Red Cross Looks After Truck Crash Victims

Representatives From Relief Division Here To Aid Survivors Of Conowingo Dam Crash

Relief work among the victims of last week's truck crash at Conowingo in which seven people lost their lives and eighteen were badly injured, is being carried on here with Miss Helen J. Moses in charge.

Miss Moses, of the disaster relief division of the Red Cross, has been in Elkton aiding the victims in obtaining transportation to their homes in Georgia and Florida, and giving aid to the injured, eleven of whom are still in the hospital here.

Miss Moses has also been attempting to locate the families of the seven persons who were killed. Five were killed instantly when the truck in which they were returning to their home plunged over a seventy foot embankment to the Susquehanna river at the Conowingo Dam, and two others died in Union Hospital.

Wilmington Man Drowns In Elk River

Thomas DiMaio, of Wilmington, Del., was drowned last Sunday in Elk River at White Crystal Beach shortly after he and a group of friends arrived at the resort for a swimming party.

He was swimming about fifty feet from shore when friends saw him disappear. They swam quickly to the spot and soon brought his body to the surface. He had only been in the water for about ten minutes when he was found but even then it was impossible to save hm. It was said by some of his friends that he had dived from a pier shortly before he sank.

Coroner Stanley D. Jeffers investigated the case and took charge of the body. He issued a statement of accidental drowning and released the body to members of the family who live at 1809 West Seventh street, Wilmington. The funeral will be held today.
