Baltimore National Home Show Opens Saturday

America's newest-type and most up-to-date home for a family of five will be put on display in full dimensions at the Fifth Regiment Armory on Saturday as the central feature of the Baltimore National Home Show, which will be open every afternoon and night for an eight day period, ending April 10.

This beautiful home is the joint product of the Baltimore Chapter of the American Intitute of Architects and its design represents everything that is new in home design and equipment. It is modermistic, although not aggressively so, and livable in every detail.

It is two stories high and contains six rooms and bath—a bright living room, a costly dining room and a modern kitchen downstairs, and three airy bedrooms above. Its sizable windows are streamlined and its great porches, except one, which is enclosed, are decks, like those of a ship, where the occnupants may have full enjoyment of sunshine and air.

Architects from all over the country are coming to Baltimore during the period of the show to view what is coming to be called the "Home of Tomorrow."

Vandals Mar Famous Virginia Shrine

In historic Alexandria, Va., is America's oldest memorial to her Unknown Dead—that of the Unknown Soldier of the American Revolution. It was recently discovered that a vandal had broken off a piece of marble weighing about two pounds from one of the six pillars supporting the heavy slab that bears the inscription.

It is a reflection upon the American people that vandalism continues to be practiced in this land and, as a result, millions of dollars' worth of costly buildings, shrines and memorials are irreparably defaced annually. The Washington Monument bears many marks about the base, inflicted by those "souvenir hunters" who have no respect for public property or for the memory of our country's Father and First President. The Unknown Soldier's Tomb, in Arlington National Cemetery, was threatened by vandals, and it was necessary to place an armed sentry to guard this hallowed spot at all hours of the day and night.

Taxpayers Hold Meeting At Hall In Chesapeake

Improved Water and Sewer System For Town Discussed

Supporters Urge Council To Take Advantage Of PWA Grant

A large and enthusiastic tax payers meeting of citizens of Chesapeake City was held in the Firemen's Hall Monday night with Mayor James A. Kirk, presiding.

The purpose of the meeting was for an improved water and sewer system for the town.

The supporters of the plan urged the town Commissioners to take advantage of a PWA grant of 45 per cent on the cost of making the improvements. They pointed out that this would be the last chance for the town to receive a direct grant.

To match the government grant it would be necesary to bond the town. This called for several property owners to oppose the project. Those advocating the plan believed that the installation of the plan would encourage industries to locate along the banks of the Chesapeake and Delaware Canal aside from comforts and conveniences for city residents, who each year are coming to Chesapeake City looking for locations for summer homes.

Retrievers Vie For Honor At Benton Trials

Best Dogs In County In Largest Entry List For Several Years

Championship Trials Due To Be Run Off On Saturday

The third annual Maryland Retrievers Trials under the auspices of the American Chesapeake Bay Club, are holding its annual show starting this morning on the beautiful estate of R. R. Carpenter, near Town Point, and will continue the show tomorrow and Saturday.

Mayor Henry H. Mitchell, Elkton, Dr. Henry Ferguson, Fishers Island, N. Y., Mrs. E. R. Harriman, of Arden, N. Y., Dr. Samuel Miller, New York, J .Gould Demick, Elmhurst, N. Y., and Ellenge Warner, editor of Field and Stream, New York City, will judge the three day event.

Between seventy five and a hundred highly prized dogs from various states will contest for the prizes that are offered.

The Maryland trials were first held on December 1, 1934. There were no trials in 1935. Last year's trial was held on March 28, which drew a very large crowd owing to an almost perfect day.

The first two meetings were one-day affairs, but due to the growing popularity and the large entry list three days will be required to run off the trials.

There will be four stakes at the trials the derby, non-winners, open to all ages and a local stake for dogs of the Delaware-Maryland-Virginia Peninsula. Silver and sterling trophies will be awarded.

The trials will be conducted in several series with retrieving of ducks from the water and pheasants on land. The open all stakes will be the feature event of the meeting.

The American Chesapeake Club under whose auspices the Maryland trials will be conducted, has more than a hundred members. It was organized several years ago with a membership of 14, with the idea of standardizing and encouraging the Chesapeake bay dog, the primary purpose being the promotion of field trials.

Any Chesapeake bay owner will be eligible to compete as the trials are not closed to just members of the club.

Among some of the entries are Dilwyne Montauk Pilot, voted the Field and Stream trophy as the outstanding retriever of 1936. Pilot will compete in the the open field stakes. Three other members of the Dilwyne Kennels of Wilmington, Del., all prize winners, are Bob, of Montauk, and Dilwyne Little Creek.

Other leading Chesapeakes who are entered for the trials are Cy Perkins, owned by Mayor Henry H. Mitchell, Elkton; Bing, owned by Newton Tiffany, of Easthamton, N. Y.; Big Gun Powder, owned by Mrs. Helen Schuyler, of Easton, Md.; Flood Tide Pete, owned by C. Arthur Smith, of Oyster Bay, N. Y.; Gypsy, owned by E. M. Osborne of Southampton, N. Y.
