ILLEGAL DUCK-TRAPPING RING ALONG SUSQUEHANNA REVEALED

Leo M. Moore Asks U. S. and State to Act to Prevent Capture of Wildfowl in Nets

Operations of a ring of illegal wild-fowl trappers who last year "netted more ducks on the Suspuehanna Flats than were killed by sportsmen in any single year of the last fifteen years." were disclosed by Leo M. Moore, of Havre de Grace, member of the House of Delegates at the Maryland Sportsman's Luncheon Club Tuesday.

Mr. More spoke at a conference of wild-fowl sportsmen which followed the luncheon at the Lord Baltimore Hotel at which Dr. Ira Gabrielson, chief of the Bureau of Biological Survey, was slated to speak on wild-fowl shooting regulations.

More than one hundred duck shooters had assembled in expectations of hearing "the czar of wild-fowl shooting" give some intimation that the stringent Federal regulations which have all but killed the sport in Maryland would be washed up this year.

Instead, Fred V. Lincon, bioligist of the bureau who evolved the system of checking wild-fowl flights by mapping the flyways of the ducks and geese to and from their nesting areas, describing his work. It is upon the results of these checkups that the shooting regulations are based.

Mr. Moore, explaining the operations of the wild-fowol ring, declared that the details had been given him by persons in a position to know and in whom he had the greatest confidence. It was in hope of stopping the illegal trafficking in wild-fowl throngh which thousands of choice canvasbacks from the famous Susquehanna Flats had found their way by an 'uuderground" system to the tables of those willing to pay the price, that he decided to take the matter before the conference.

After the evening flights of the wild fowl to their resting and feeding grounds, on the flats, Mr. Moore, said that "watchers" spotted the places where the wild fowl congregated in the shallow waters. Nets similiar to those used by gill-net fishermen in catching fish were sperad and the ducks diving in search of the wild celery on which they feed, became entangled and drowned.

The following night, he went on, the net operators, informed the watchers that the State and Federal boats were safe in harbor, hauled in the nets and removed the ducks. The birds were then packed and shipped to Northern markets. Watchers used a system of blinking automobile headlights to inform the netmen if the coast was clear or to warn them of danger. Truckload after truckload of illegal netted ducks have been shipped from North East, he said.

Urges Dragging of Flats

Tt break up this business, Mr. Moore suggested that Federal and State officers drag through the feeding rounds with grapppling irons to destroy the nets. As each net represents an outlay of $150, he said the operation would become too expensive if many were destroyed.

Mr. Moore, who once operated his own duck-shooting rig on the Susquehanna, felt that if the Federal wild-fowl shooting regulations were modified to permit at least some gunning on the flats it would have tendency to discourage illegal practices.

The illegal trapping of ducks in the lower Chesapeake Bay sections of Maryland and Virginia, Mr. Lincoln said, presented one of the hardest problems the Biological Survey has to solve. Approximately 500 traps were located and destroyed by Federal agents last winter, he added.

Austrian Payments to Foreign Creditors Banned by Germany

Transfer of money due foreign holders of Austrian Government, municpal or private loans, was banned Tuesday, retoactive to April 30, by a Government decree. It applied to the new German state the German transfed moratorium of 1933 and other financial laws restricting interest and amortization on foreign lonas.

All payments due foreigners must be made by Austrian debtors to the Reichsbanks in German marks. The Reichsbank in turn will notify the foreigners, crediting them with the amount received.

The National City Bank, fiscal agent for city of Vienna 6 per cent, bonds, and the New York Trust Company, trustee for 7½ per cent bonds of the Tyrol Hydro Electric Company, announced Tuesday they had not received funds from Germany and were compelled to default on coupon payments.

City of Vienna bonds, of which $4,300,000 are outstanding, and Hydro-Electric Company bonds, of which about $2,000,000 are outstanding, were the first to be defaulted since the Nazi anexatinon of Austria. Interest payments were due May 1.

Appointed Executive Secretary of Council of Churches

Rev. John W. Harms, educational administrator and supervisor of the Department of Religious Education of the United Christian Missionary Society since 1931, Indianapolis, Inidiana, became executive secretary of the Council of Churches and Christian Education in Maryland and Delware on April 19th.

Mr. Harms was the unanimous choice by secret ballot of the committtee on selection of a secretary for the Council of Churches. He has shown fine inmerger of federation and religious education work. His recommendations sight of the problems involved in the were of the highest order. Of him Prof. W. C. Bower of the Divinity School of Univeristy of Chicago writes: "Mr. Harms is exceedingly well qualified for such leadership. He is a man of excellent personality, is forceful, diplomatic, thoroughly democratic and effective in administration. He elicits the confidence and loyalty of his constituency. He is thoroughly religious and constructive in his attitudes.

A native of Nebraska, Mr. Harms began his professional career in the church in 1925, and was ordained to the Christian ministry in 1931. Graduate study in religious education, philosophy and theology has been done in Auburn Theological Seminary, Indiana University and the Divinity School of the University of Chicago.

Mr. Harms' schedule already includes young people's conferences, conventions, institutes, and executive committee meetings and local church appointments.

Mr. Harms may be reached at the Council of Churches' office, 508 Morris Building, Baltimore, for appointments and cosultation on the many problems involved in Cooperative Protestantism.

An "Installation Service" to introduce the new executive secretary to the constituency and friends of the Council of Churches and Christian Education will be held in Brown Memorial Presbyterian Church, Baltimore, on Thursday evening, May 19th, at 8:000 P.M. Rev. Philip Allen Swartz, D.D., of New York, Secretary of theh Federal Council of Churches of Christ in America, will be the speaker.

Fifth District Democrats Meet at Circus Park

Sandy Tamargo was the host at his Circus Park, to a large number of men and women Democrats, assmbled for an old fashioned political high jinks and pow wow.

Blessed by fairly good weather, good eats and good drinks good fellowship naturally followed. A crowd of 500 gathered and spent the time so enjoyably that it was late before the gathering dispersed to go home.

The parking grounds at Circus Park lighted along the roadway each side of the Park by flares placed so visitors could find space for cars. The Indians boys who play nightly at the Park added their efforts to make the occasion from adjacent Reservation added to the evenings attractions. The Texas Cowa pleasant one.

Steeplechase Specials at Delaware Track

Three Events in this Class to be Inaugurated

The directorate of the Delaware Steeplechase and Race Association are more than satisfied with the response of the sportswomen and sportsmen of the last to t heir bid for nominations for the three steeplechase specials to be inauguarted at Delaware Park in the course of the twenty eight days racing that will begin June 8th. They feel assured now that their plan to stage steeplechasing of the first class at the Atlantic's seaboards' newest major racing place will be successful.

The Georgetown, a $6,000 gallop of about two miles for four year olds and over that will be carded June 22nd has attracted forty nominations; the Indian River, a $6,000 gallop of two miles and a half set for June 29th, thirty seven, the Vicmead a $2,500 affair of three miles for qualified hunters, to be run July 6th, eighteen. Steeplchase annuals of the Belmont Park and Saratoga programmes do not do better. Not improbably the ambition of general manager Edward Burke to put on a chance a day will be realized.

The Georgetown, the Indian River and the Vicmead closed April 18th with ten other Delaware Park specials the lot of them drawing 639 nominations. All sources from which nominations might be expected appear to have been heard from. The Dover, a new $4,000 sprint of five furlongs for two year olds, to be run June 11th, drew 91 nominations and the Polly Drummond and Christiana, the former for two year old fillies, the later for colts and geldings, 87 and 82, respectively. The Polly Drummond, a $4,000 dash of five furlongs, will be run June 25th. the Christiana a $5,000 sprint of five furlongs and a half, July 4th.

Among the nominations for the Georgetown and Indian River Chases are Thomas Hitchock's Rioter, Yemessee, Saluda, Annibal and Satello and Mrs. Helen Hay Whitney's Sailor Beware, Jungle King, Galsac and Tarbrush. Hitchock, whose son, Thomas, Jr. was recently internationally celebrated as a polo player has developed more great fencers than any other living sportsman. Rioter, a rather small son Irish bred of Reflector and Luretta, is rated by many fencing sharps the best jumper in America. Two years ago he won revivals of the Saratoga, Chevy Chase, Beverwyck and Appleton Memrial and finished second to the really great Bushranger in the Belmont Park Grand National. Last spring he won an International, at Belmont Park.

Sailor Beware won last fall's Belmont Grand National and Yemessee finished second to him. Yemesse, Annibal and Saluda were exceptionally clever young developments of last seasons, chasing at Belmont Park Aqueduct and Saratoga. There is not much to choose between Galsac and Sailor Beware of the Greentree string and Jungle King is right at their heels. Galsac won a Saratoga Steeplechase Handicap last August, Jungle King renewals of the Corinthian, Old Glory, Gwathmey and Manly, the nast named at Pimlico.

Ambrose Clark, of Cooperstown, New York a multi-millionaire who used to do his own riding an d still does his own training, is the heaviest nominator. He has Bachelor Philip, Top ,Wave, Paper Maker, Lisdoonvarna, Torturer, Soloist and Cadeau, 2d in the Georgetown and the Indian River These haven't such reputations as the Hitchcock and Greentree groups enjoy, but they know their stuff, are young and should improve.

Mrs. Marion duPont Scott's principal nomination for the Georgetown and the Indian River is El Dorador, a smooth fencing son of Display and El Dorador and a graduate of the Hitchcock school. Neophytis in the Georgetown and Indian River are Mrs. Isabel Dodge Slonae's Corudum, J. W. Y. Martin's Dark Hope and James Butler's Caught. Last season and the seson before these were smart overnight handicap horses. Dark Hope won a Dixie handicap a year go last spring at Pimlico.

Coon Hunters Plan Hunt

Dedicate New Church House

Blessed by ideal weather, a record number of the present and past members of the Congregation gathered last Sunday, at the Bay View Church, for the yearly Home Coming feature for which special exercises were arranged by the Pastor the Rev. Norman H. Nicklas. The sermon was delivered by the Rev. E. A. Sexsmith, Pres. of Conference to a large and closely attentive congregation.

At noon the New Parish House was thronged as congregation and visitors enjoyed a chicken lunch provided by the Ladies Aid, at 2:30 P.M., the Pastor assisted by Rev. C. R. Strasburgh of St. Michaels, conducted the services, dedicating the New Church Building to to the service of the Church and Community.

The exercises consisted of instrumental and piano music by the Barnes Bros. solos with piano accompaniment by Mr. E. D. E. Rollins, another by the Pastor Mr. N. H. Nicklas, and also singing with piona accompaniment by Mrs. Niklas, Mrs. Lusby and Mrs. Baker, together with choir singing with music on the piano played by Mrs. Bella Slicer.

The opening prayer was delivered by Mr. John Nichols .There was a most earnest singing by the choir and congregation of the old and well liked hymn, "Crown Him Lord of All."

The address of appreciation by the Rev. C. R. Strasburgh in appreciation of the genrosity of the donor, Miss Poco Reed, and a resume of his pastorate at Bay View, 32 years previously was much appreciated by his audience.

The dedication was simple but inspiring and consisted of responsive reading of the dedicatory lines by Pastor and Congregation.

The Low Down from Hickory Grove

Susie—that is Mrs. Jo—she says to me the other day, Josephus, she says, what is this pump priming buisness I am all the time seeing in the paper?

And I was brought up in the country and have tried to prime a pump when the well was dry, and you can keep priming it till the cows come home and all you get is a wheeze and a gurgle. So that is the way I explained it.

But Susie, she says, I am not talking about any pump in the country —I am talking about pumping money like they do in Wash.

So I says pouring water in a pump, when the well is dry, and pouring money in a gopher's hole, like in Wash., it is no different And if you get back half what you you are doing good.

And Susie says, who is getting the money—and do you have to crawl into a gopher's hole to get it? And I says, with the diet I am on, I could easy enoguh get into a gopher's hole.

So nothing came of our conversation — and it is the same with pump priming

Yours, with the low down,
JO SERRA

Your Old-Age Insurance

Why Workers Should Have Social Security Account Numbers

More than 541,786 men and women in Maryland now have Social Security account numbers.

A few workers who could qualify for old-age insurance and who have not as yet secured their Social Security account numbers, remain in this State.

Each worker in covered employment should have an account number whether he is the only employee, or is one of a hundred. Workers in small establishments such as barber shops, bootblacks parlors, bakeries, drug, grocery, or general merchandise stores, service stations, as well as employees of doctors, dentists, lawyers and of other profesional people, are included.

Each wage-earner must have an account number in order that his Social Security account may not be confused with any other. Employers must know the account number of each and every person on their pay rolls because they must give those numbers when they make their wage reports to the Goverment. The amount of each employee's wages is credited to the Social Security account bearing his number. His wages are posted on this ledger.

The total amount of wages received by an employee on jobs covered by the Social Security Act from the last day of 1936 until he is 65 years old will be used in calculating the amount of his old-age insurance payment when such benefits fall due.

Application blanks for employee's accounnt numbers can be obtained from any post office or from any office of the Social Security Board.

Questions concerning old-age insurance may be sent to this paper or to Mr. Luther Becker, Manager of the Social Security Board office at 100 Hopkins Place. Answers will appear in this paper.

Wilmington Horse Show May 19-21

Nigh in the offing is the Wilmington Horse Show to be staged May 19, 20 and 21 rounding together the class of American stables.

Numerous entries from prominent folk of the horsey set have been presented, including that of Mr. and Mrs. Angier Biddle Duke of Tuxedo Park, New York and Southampton. Exhibiting at Wilmington for the first time, they will show their new colt "DORMIR d'OR." This otstanding youngster by "APEX" was first presented in the National Show at New York last fall. Ridden by Miss Deborah G. Rood, he captured several blues, to win from a number of more talented jumpers. Another entry from the Duke stable will be the brilliant chestnut mare who bears the amusing name "BECAUSE."

A popular fifgure in the saddle horses circles for many years, Mrs. Duke has long been an exhibitor at the prominent Day Shows. Vieing for top honors in the show will be "LINCOLN", the greatest open jumper of all time and his stable mate "RANDLES RIDE" entrants of the C. V. Whitney string and both outstanding winners during the fall season.

Meeting these strong contenders in the open jumping class will be Mr. and Mrs. Alvin Utermeyer's "HEXAMETER" Working Hunter Champion at Wilmington last year; also "CINELLI" who promises strong competition in this event.

A gay round of social affairs is planned during show time with Mrs. H. Rodney Sharp and Mrs. Sharp, Jr., entertaining at dinner in their home preceding the Horse Show Dance, Friday evening, May 20. Among the guests will be out of town exhibitors and horse show celebrities, as will be the case at a dinner planned by Mr. and Mrs. Thomas E. Brittingham, Jr., for the evening.

Mrs. John Hay Whitney and Miss Patricia Boling will be the house guests of Miss Deborah G. Rood at "Meadows on the Brandywine'" while Mr. and Mrs. William J. Kitchelll will entertain Mr. and Mrs. L. W. Robert, Jr., of Washington, D.C., at their home during the horse show week end.
