DESIRABLE FARM FOR SALE.

The undersigned will sell at Private Sale his Farm of about 100 Acres, situated between Pylesville and Highland Station, M. C. R. R., and within sight of both. The improvements consist of a good frame Barn, 36x50, slate roof, Dairy House, Spring House, Corn House and other outbuildings. The land is in good condition, the most of it being well set in grass. It is well watered, a fine stream running through it, and it has on it, besides, a pump and several fine springs. About 20 acres are in excellent timber, the rest being clean, arable land.

It will be sold at an extremely low price, the owner not wishing to farm any longer himself and will not rent. The farm will be shown, at any time until January 1st, 1888, by the owner,

TRUSTEE'S SALE.

By virtue of a decree of the Circuit Court for Harford county, sitting in equity, the subscriber, as trustee, will offer at Public Sale, at the Court House door, in Bel Air,

ON MONDAY, MARCH 7th, 1887,

At 12 o'clock, M., all that

TRACT OR PARCEL OF LAND

situated and lying in Harford county, on both sides of Deer Creek, near Smith's Mill, composed of parts of two tracts of land called "William's Abode" and "William's Addition," containing one hundred acres of which are under a high state of cultivation, the balance heavily timbered. This farm adjoins the lands of Mr. Allibone, Parker Forwood, Eli Pyle and others.

189 Acres of Land, More or Less,

The improvements consist of a comfortable, DWELLING HOUSE, Barn, Corn House, and other outbuildings.

It is well fenced and watered, and is convenient to churches, schools and postoffice.

This property will be sold entirety and afterwards in two parcels. A particular description of the parcels will be furnished on day of sale, and will be sold in whichever way it brings the best price.

TERMS OF SALE.

The terms of sale as prescribed by the decree are—one-third of the purchase money cash on the day of sale, one-third thereof in six months and the residue in twelve months from the day of sale; the credit payments to bear interest from the day of sale, and to be secured by the notes or bonds of the purchaser, with security approved by the trustee.

TRUSTEES' SALE.

By virtue of an order of the Circuit Court for Harford county, passed in the matter of the estate of Albert McClure, an insolvent, the subscribers, as permanent trustees, will offer at Public Sale, at the Court House door, in Bel Air,

ON SATURDAY, MARCH 5th, 1887,

At 11 o'clock, A. M., all that

TRACT OR PARCEL OF LAND,

situate and lying in Harford county, at Bynum's Station, on the Maryland Central Railroad, containing

11 Acres, 2 Roods and 29 Square Perches,

MORE OR LESS,

being the same and all the land particularly described in two deeds to Albert McClure, one from James H. Quinby and wife, dated the 17th day of May, 1883, and recorded in Liber A. L. J., No. 56, folio 285, one of the Land Record Books of the Circuit Court for Harford county, and the other from John M. Blake and wife, dated the 14th day of June, 1886, and recorded in Liber A. L. J., No. 65, folio 408, one of the Land Records aforesaid.

The improvements consist of a new two-story FRAME DWELLING, Back Building, new STORE HOUSE and WAREHOUSE, Stable and other outbuildings. This property is most eligibly located for doing a remunerative business. Bynum's Station is the natural outlet for a well settled and thriving neighborhood.

TERMS OF SALE.

One-third of the purchase money to be paid in cash on day of sale or on the ratification thereof, one-third in six and the balance in twelve months from day of sale; the credit payments to be secured by the notes or bonds of the purchaser, with surety to be approved by the trustees.

Clear and Harmless as Water.

Nattans' Crystal Discovery

FOR THE HAIR.

A perfectly clear preparation in one bottle, as easily applied as water, for restoring to gray hair its natural color and youthful appearance, to eradicate and prevent dandruff, to promote the growth of the hair and stop its falling out. It is entirely harmless, and perfectly free from any poisonous substances, and will, therefore, take the place of all the dirty and unpleasant preparations now in use. Numerous testimonials have been sent us from many of our most prominent citizens. In everything in which the articles now in use are objectionable, CRYSTAL DISCOVERY is perfect. It is warranted to contain neither Sugar of Lead, Sulphur or Nitrate of Silver, it does not soil the clothes or scalp, is agreeably perfumed, and makes one of the best dressings for the hair in use. It restores the color of the hair "more perfect and uniformly than any other preparation," and always does so in from three to ten days, virtually feeding the roots of the hair with all the nourishing qualities necessary to its growth and healthy condition; it restores the decayed and induces a new growth of the hair more positively than anything else. The application of this wonderful discovery also produces a pleasant and cooling effect on the scalp and gives the hair a pleasing and elegant appearance.

ENDEAVOR.

There is a voice that always speaks to me
In low melodious accents night and day;
Like to the far faint echo of the sea,
Laving the golden sands with silv'ry spray.
Above life's tumult murmuring alway—
So sweet, so soft,
Its tender cadence thrills my spirit ever,
And bears aloft
My soul on its inspiring grand endeavor.

Above the noise and turmoil of my life,
Above all jarring tones it sweetly breaks;
And hushing for awhile each sound of strife,
A strain of heavenly melody awakes:
All care, all pain, for one brief moment takes.
I seem to rise
Into the luminous heights of God's forever,
Beyond the skies,
Upon the snowy pinions of endeavor.

Sometimes a darkness gathers o'er the light,
A shadow lies between me and the stars,
And straining blindly upward through the night
I am shut out by firm, unyielding bars:
But no discordant tone that music mars,
So rich, so clear,
From earthly cares it doth my soul discover;
I seem to hear
The voice of God in that full, sweet endeavor.

Not unto petty aims it points, nor low;
Not to some barren cliff it guides my eyes,
But close to where the sun with steady glow
Breaks through the misty barrier of the skies
Unto the mount of God it bids me rise.
So sweet it falls,
It doth expand into the great forever
My prison walls,
And gives me strength to bear life's long endeavor.

A MOTHER'S VISION.

"Oh, dear," said tidy Mrs. Jewett, "there's Willie in the parlor again with his muddy boots, and Jennie has fingered the woodwork of the piano all over, I see, that I polished so nicely only yesterday. I know the door of the spare room has been left open, too, for the muslin curtains are pulled all away, where pussy must have frolicked in the folds; and, dear, there's Jack this minute with his feet in that stuffed chair!"

"Come, come, mother, I wouldn't fret," said easy Mr. Jewett; "The children must put their feet somewhere, and I suppose kittens will be kittens and fly about where they can find the most fun."

"Oh, yes," rejoined Mrs. Jewett, "it's very easy for you, father, to think children and cats can go where they like and do what they please. I'm not fretting, but it's hard work to sweep and polish, and do clear-starching; and men never did know and never will know anything about the work of a housekeeper and a mother."

So saying, Mrs. Jewett, with her fair, pretty face all in wrinkles, went out of the room with a frown:

"Oh, dear!"

And her husband looked after her with a compassionate:

"Poor mother!"

Naturally Mrs. Jewett was of a happy disposition, but like many another fond, faithful mother, she was unconsciously falling into the habit of worrying over the inevitable faults and thoughtlessness of her children.

She was a scrupulously neat housekeeper, and as her things had not come as easily as they did to many others, they acquired all the more value and importance in her eyes, once they came into her possession.

But the usual restlessness of boys and girls, and even poor capering kitty herself, was fast developing into Mrs. Jewett that irritating freitfulness and impatience which kills true happiness and comfort in many a home, and where the mother's real object is to make all as comfortable and happy as possible.

In vain Mr. Jewett hinted that things were always going wrong, somehow, and that there was no end of peevishness and fault-finding taking root in his family.

At such times Mrs. Jewett would shed tears and declare no one could do more than spend all their time and energies for the welfare of their family, as she did.

One morning the tears were discovered to have been rolled up all to one side, while the summer sunshine was flooding, with its wholesome light, the bright pattern of the new Brussels carpet. Jennie and Carrie had left their school books scattered around on the chairs, and Jack's muddy boots stood in the middle of the floor.

Mrs. Jewett burst into a tirade of displeasure, but the children were out of hearing, so instead of judiciously and patiently calling them in and obliging them to put things in their places, she began putting things to rights herself, allowing Mr. Jewett, as frequently happened, to bear the brunt of her displeasure, and for once his good nature gave way, and he said, pettishly:

"I declare, wife, in a thousand pities there are any children here to bother you so."

Mrs. Jewett made no reply, but going to her room she sat down for a moment to consider whether or not her husband meant what he had just said.

But by degrees the room faded from her vision, the house became quiet—terribly quiet—her daughter died out, and shade and stillness reigned supreme.

There were footsteps heard, but hushed, creeping, awed.

All of active life had ceased; even the kitty had taken herself off, and was no where
