FASHIONS IN PERFUMES.

(Written for the NEWS.)

Almost everyone enjoys the sweet odors that primarily we associate with flowers, though many people prefer the smell of spices, new mown hay, the breath of pines and balsams, or that indescribable whiff of summer essence that comes on breezes that blow over fields of bayberry, sweet fern and the innumerable growing things which help to make up the bouquet of delicious fragrance which one breathes ecstatically say in August on the Coast of Maine, and in many other delightful places.

MEMORY AND PERFUMES.

It is curious that familiar odors stimulate memory more than taste or touch. This has been ascribed to the fact that the olfactory nerve connects directly with the centre of the brain, where Galen, first and afterward Des Cartes locates the soul. However this may be, history is filled with proofs of the influence that perfumes exercise on man.

The incense burner and bearer are important and oft recurring figures on the mural remains that picture the life of Egypt, Greece and Rome, in the heydey of their civilization.

The sails of Cleopatra's barge were scented, we are told, so that "the winds were love sick with them," and the medicinal value of sweet odors was attested when, in Athens, Hippocrates rid the city of the plague by using perfumes after every other means had failed.

THE VERDICT TODAY.

Today the proper use of good perfumes is recognized as not only a great pleasure, but a legitimate part of civilized life, and my lady's toilet is not complete without a touch of the dainty odor she affects in perfume, sachets, powder and toilet water. Nor is the enjoyment of this luxury confined to the women of society, for men are often accused of using the handy bottle on the wife's dresser, and latest news from London states that English dandies are using scents as their grandfathers did as well as cultivating side whiskers and strapping their trousers under their boots in styles dating back to the same period.

Modern physicians recognize the therapeutic value of perfumes, as a safeguard against contagion, but most people use perfume because they like it, though people of refinement never overdo this use, but confine it to a delicate perceptible fragrance that never offends as do gross common scents.

THE DAINTY WOMAN OF FASHION.

The dainty woman selects a special perfume and uses this only in all her toilet articles, and it is becoming a fad with young girls to select the odor of some flower that corresponds with their favorite color. Say a girl chooses the essence of Violet, Clover or Heliotrope, and has her sachets, perfume, toilet water, powder and soap to correspond. Her room done up in chintz with the flower pattern, and all pretty frocks and belongings in some of the flower colors, in dull greens of leaf and stem. Few, perhaps, harmonize to this extent, and many women prefer synthetic scents as more assertive and distinctive, but no crude mixing of perfumes is tolerated. If any change is made it includes everything on the dressing table, for Madam La Mode decrees that only one favored scent is permissable for each individual.

American manufacturers now turn out these fine matching lines of toilet goods in forms that appeal to fastidious society women, at prices far less than one pays for as satisfactory imported products, because these latter have to pay an enormous duty of something like sixty cents on the dollar.

Cheap, coarse, amateur perfumes, indiscriminately mixed, and used in profusion, are relegated to the sort of people who do not understand that while a little of really fine essence is delightful, a thimbleful of coarse alcoholic mixtures is disgusting to any sensitive nostril.

MODISH SACHETS.

Sachets of all sorts are very much used, from large padded linings for shelf, drawer or wardrobe, to smaller and more personal sachets that are tucked into the bodice, or hidden in the leaf of the satin corsage flower so generally worn

In the light of present usage any of these sweet scented appurtenances of the dressing table make pretty, and most acceptable presents, if only care is taken to secure the perfume used by the recipients.

IMPORTANT CHANGE.

After spending 12 years in the firm of Bowen & Sunderland, Wholesale Commission Merchants, I have decided to associate myself with the long established Seed House of J. Bolgiano & Son of Baltimore, Md.

My many years of continuous dealings with this house makes me very anxious to have my many friends purchase their seeds where I know they will be dealt with on the square. I have found for quality—you can never find their equal; for prices—no one can duplicate them; and, as to the goods, if you want to reap what you sow, come to the Old Reliable Seed House of J. Bolgiano & Son, Baltimore, Md.

I am here to serve you and will enjoy and appreciate a letter from all my friends. I can make it both a pleasure and a profit to you. If you will let me know from time to time what seeds and poultry supplies you are going to need.

Whether you are needing anything now or not, drop me a line. I will be glad to hear from you.

Your friend,
R. J. BOWEN.

Anty Drudge Talks to an Indignant Woman.

Mrs. Topflat—"Just gaze at that skirt! Looks like a piece of Swiss cheese. Full of holes. My washwoman must use quick lime instead of soap."

Anty Drudge—"Why don't you wash at home?"

Mrs. Topflat—"At home, indeed! Why, as you know, I live in an apartment. Boil clothes on a gas range? Most likely land in the hospital."

Anty Drudge—"Why, dear, use Fels-Naptha and you don't have to boil the clothes. Lukewarm or cool water is all that's needed winter or summer. And I'll guarantee your clothes will never again be freckled with holes."

No sensible woman wants to do more work than is necessary to accomplish the best results.

And yet—

There are women who take a full day to do the weekly wash when it can be done in half the time and far better.

Is this because they don't know the Fels-Naptha way?

Or is the reason that they are so governed by habit that they hesitate to try a new method?

The Fels-Naptha way is so easy, so simple. Full directions are on the red and green wrapper.
