Stay-at-Homes Urged to Vote

Liberty League Issues Appeal to Help Save Constitution.

About 30,000,000 potential voters failed to take advantage of their right to cast ballots in the 1932 Presidential election. In order to stir up interest in next November's election and bring out as many as possible of the big army of stay-at-homes the Executive Committee of the American Liberty League has issued a letter to its more than 100,000 members. The appeal not only urges members of the League to vote, but emphasizes the need of their influence in getting their neighbors to the polls. The letter follows:

"There can be no question of the importance of the elections to be held this year. The fate of constitutional self-government in the United States may be at stake.

"In such circumstances every citizen owes a duty to himself, to his family and to his Nation. His duty is the free and intelligent exercise of his right of franchise—his vote. The ballot which a free citizen casts may be compared with the payment of a premium upon his insurance policy. If the premium is not paid, the policy lapses and he and his family lose the protection for which he has labored and saved for years. The exercise of your right to vote constitutes the premium you pay to protect the most valuable insurance policy ever written—the Constitution of the United States.

Rights at Stake.

"The American Liberty League believes that the people of the United States do not wish to abandon their Constitution or to permit it to be nullified. The League believes that the people are well aware of the fact that the Constitution, and the Constitution alone, protects them in such rights as religious freedom, free speech, a free press, trial by jury and safeguard of lives and property against the whims and caprices of an autocratic bureaucracy. The League believes that the people know full well that in many of the other major Nations of the world today such rights are non-existent because of the absence of a definite constitution made effective by a government in which legislative, executive and judicial powers are properly separated.

"But even if some American citizens do wish to change the form of their government, the League is certain that the people are not willing to allow such change to be made without their express consent and approval. The people themselves, and they alone, have the power and the right to change the Constitution.

"In the last four Presidential elections, an average of only 53 per cent of all potential voters actually cast their ballots. The men and women who fail to vote have no right to complain of the character of government thrust upon them. If they are too lazy or too indifferent to go to the polls they must accept the result.

Pledges Are Sought.

"Because of the unusual importance attaching to the elections this year and because the right of franchise is the most sacred privilege of every citizen, the Executive Committee of the League feels called upon to urge that all of its members in each state of the Union pledge themselves to exercise the right of franchise in November. The Committee also urges that each member of the League constitute himself, or herself, a committee of one to obtain similar pledges from as many fellow-citizens as possible.

"To make this program effective, it is important that it be started at once. The registration period is already upon us in some states. In many instances it is necessary to register in order to vote.

"The committee wishes to emphasize that it is merely asking members to pledge themselves to vote and to obtain similar pledges from others. In making this pledge, the Committee is not requesting that anyone promise to vote for any particular candidate or any particular political party. It is merely urging that all indicate their intention to exercise the most sacred duty of citizens in a free democracy."

Investigations Delayed

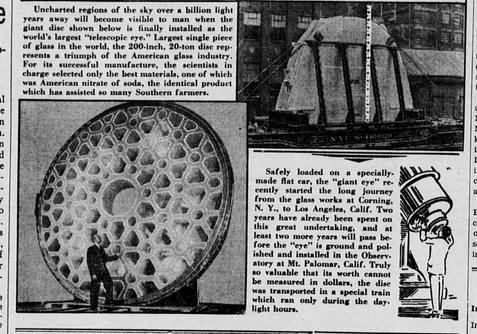
Senate committeemen have decided that there shall be investigations of relief waste and politics, but the inquiries are to be postponed until after the election. The Seventy-fourth Congress has been noted for speed, but inquiries into New Deal extravagance and waste seem to have always been left at the post.

Unemployment

The Administration resents the fact that industries do not hire more men, regardless of whether business can profitably take on more overhead. The public-spirited New Deal has added 255,000 to the Executive payroll in three years in spite of the fact that it is more than $10,000,000,000 in the hole.

GIANT EYE GOES WEST!

Uncharted regions of the sky over a billion light years away will become visible to man when the giant disc shown below is finally installed as the world's largest "telescopic eye." Largest single piece of glass in the world, the 200-inch, 20-ton disc represents a triumph of the American glass industry. For its successful manufacture, the scientists in charge selected only the best materials, one of which was American nitrate of soda, the identical product which has assisted so many Southern farmers.



Safely loaded on a specially-made flat car, the "giant eye" recently started the long journey from the glass works at Corning, N. Y., to Los Angeles, Calif. Two years have already been spent on this great undertaking, and at least two more years will pass before the "eye" is ground and polished and installed in the Observatory at Mt. Palomar, Calif. Truly so valuable that its worth cannot be measured in dollars, the disc was transported in a special train which ran only during the daylight hours.

COLUMBIA

Four great stars, a cast of thousands, and a story that flames with the intensity of the Sahara Desert, "Under Two Flags" goes into a second week at the Columbia Friday, making the fourth week on P street for this popular film.

The picture presents Ronald Colman, Claudette Colbert, Victor McLaglen and Rosalind Russell, with a supporting cast of thousands. Colmanis a private in France's Foreign Legion, loved by Miss Colbert. She, in turn, has captured the heart of McLaglen, his major. Colman, however, falls madly in love with the beautiful Rosalind Russell. Sent to a post in the heart of the desert, McLaglen persists in putting Colman in positions of danger, hoping that his death will remove the barrier between himself and Miss Colbert. He recants his deed and goes to his rescue. Just as the entire force seems doomed, Miss Colbert leads reinforcements of legionnaires to their rescue, giving her life to send the man she loves back to the arms of another woman.

METROPOLITAN

"Abdul the Damned," Columbia Pictures' release which features Nils Asther, Fritz Kortner and Adrienne Ames, will open today, Friday, at Warner Bros. Metropolitan Theater.

Abdul Hamid the Second, despotic ruler of Turkey during the early part of the 20th century, is the central figure in this romantic and colorful drama, inspired by historical facts. The Sultan's 170th wife—a Viennese dancer named Therese—brought about his downfall, for when he tried to acquire this popular entertainer for his harem, her young soldier lover joined the Young Turks and led the revolution against Abdul.

Nils Asther plays Kadar, cunning chief of police for Abdul, and chief aide in the Sultan's evil schemes. Adrienne Ames appears as Therese, and Fritz Kortner, one of Europe's best character actors, plays the wicked Abdul, whose downfall brings the film to its stirring climax.

LOEW'S FOX

Damon Runyon has written many gay yarns, but none of his witty masterpieces are said to pack the fun that is crammed into "Three Wise Guys" which will come to the Loew's Fox screen on Friday.

Robert Young, Betty Furness, Raymond Walburn, Thurston Hall, Harvey Stephens and others are featured in this gay romance that is based on Runyon's prize-winning magazine story of the adventurous newlyweds who outwit a trio of crooks. It is said to be swift, romantic, human and uproarious.

Donald Novis, one of radio's most popular tenors and recent singing star of "Jumbo," will headline the new vaudeville bill, which will include Virginia Bacon and Company in a dancing novelty and the Seven Danwills in teeter board thrills. Buster West, screen and stage comic, and Lucille Page, one of the greatest eccentric dancers on the stage today, will be featured as an extra added attraction.

PALACE

Robert Taylor, the screen's latest "male rave," and pretty Loretta Young share a most unusual romantic problem in "Private Number," the new attraction Loew's Palace will present on Friday.

Romance is the keynote of this new picture, although with wisecracking Patsy Kelly and the capable Basil Rathbone having important assignments, comedy and drama also have their place in this production.

Robert Taylor falls in love and later marries Loretta Young, who plays the part of maid to Taylor's wealthy mother. They keep their marriage a secret and later, when Loretta is about to have a baby, she refuses to reveal the identity of her husband. She is treated so cruelly by Taylor's family, as well as the head butler, Basil Rathbone, that she runs away. Taylor returns home and finds that his wife has been virtually driven out.

After many highly dramatic episodes, the two are reunited in a climax that is said to be a new romantic high. Roy Del Ruth directed "Private Number," with Raymond Griffith as the associate producer. The screen play was written by Gene Markey and William Conselman.

"Three Little Wolves," the latest Walt Disney Technicolor cartoon masterpiece, that is said to be even better than the "Three Little Pigs," and other interesting subjects will be added.

WARNER'S EARLE

Edward G. Robinson, who scored his greatest success as "Little Caesar," returns to the screen at the Earle Theater today, Friday, in "Bullets or Ballots," action-filled drama torn from the headlines to provide its star with his finest role.

Martin Mooney, the reporter who went to jail rather than tell the sources of his inside information about gangland, wrote the story of "Bullets or Ballots." Robinson appears as Johnny Blake, hard-boiled detective determined to put the boldest and best-organized band of criminals out of business.

Not only does Johnny seek gangsters, however, but he also is after the higher-ups—the racketeers in stuffed shirts who never see the men who carry out their orders. Joan Blondell, who heads the supporting cast, helps him to win his final victory.

The chief bad men in the gang are played by two experts—Barton McLane, the "Dillinger" of "G-Men," and Humphrey Bogart, the killer in "Petrified Forest." Comedy is provided by Frank McHugh and Louise Beavers. Others in the cast include Joseph King, Richard Purcell, George E. Stone, Henry O'Neill and Herbert Rawlinson.

On the stage, the Yacht Club Boys will appear in person. This popular comedy quartette, noted for their original songs and parodies, was seen in such screen hits as "Singing Kid" and "Thanks a Million."

They will offer many new numbers at the Earle.

Others on the bill include Nellie Arnaut and Brothers, Tommy Trent, with "The Puppet Parade," and Earle and Fortune, with Virginia Pope. Selected short subjects and newsreel will round out the program.

Livestock Raisers Sell Through Their Co-op

Livestock producers of Maryland, Virginia and West Virginia sent 50 percent more head of live stock to their cooperative commission association at the Baltimore yards during May this year than they did during the corresponding month of last year, according to the manager of the farmers' marketing organization. The Baltimore agency is one of the three agencies of the Eastern Live Stock Cooperative Association.

Producers of 19 of Maryland's 23 counties have used the Baltimore market during the first five months of the year, and each month the volume has exceeded the corresponding month of 1935. A new service has been opened this year which has furnished a cooperative sales outlet for lambs raised by producers of the Eastern Shore who have not previously marketed in Baltimore.

Rotogravure State Farmer Section To Appear Next Week

Readers of the Montgomery Independent like our State Farmer Section, the all-rotogravure agricultural monthly magazine section! Many of them have assured us of this fact. And, best of all, assert many of them, are the scores of pictures which our State Farmer Section always presents.

Answering their demand for even still more pictures, The Montgomery Independent, in its July State Farmer Section is going them one better next week presenting an especially extensive display of photographs featuring the Del-Mar-Va peninsula.

For instance, on the back page next week you will find a thrilling photograph of Chesapeake Bay log canoes, a type of sail boat peculiar to the waters around Easton, Md., as they sail over the waves in an exciting race.

Another well illustrated article will be that by George H. Dacy, well known agricultural writer, who will tell in figures, facts and photographs why the Eastern Shore is truly America's truck garden.

But why reveal in advance only a few of the outstanding features which regular subscribers of The Montgomery Independent will find in our State Farmer Section next week? There'll be plenty of them for every member of the farm family—the kind of pictures and features which every reader is certain to enjoy.

On the other hand, perhaps it's only fair to our own women readers that they be informed in advance that complete instructions will be provided for them on how to crochet a smart "straw" hat for themselves. The hat isn't really a "straw", but is made of crepe paper at a cost of only 15 cents. Other style suggestions for smart Summer wear, recipes for some delightful sandwiches, pictures of the recent world-wide conference of farm women at Washington, D. C., are among the other decidedly worthwhile features women readers can look forward to in the big, two-page rotogravure women's section next week.

You'll certainly enjoy Pete Getty's column of homey farm philosophy, Dick Wood's outdoor life article and other regular features carried on page 4 of our State Farmer Section next week.

The Montgomery Independent will be glad to hear from readers as to what features they like best in our State Farmer Section next week. If you want still more pictures of some special types of articles—just write your suggestions to the editor of this newspaper.

Takoma Park To Celebrate Fourth

Takoma Park residents have planned an all-day observance on July 4th. At 11 a. m. at the intersection of Denwood, Philadelphia and Maple avenues there will be patriotic exercises.

Leo Rover, former United States district attorney, will deliver the address, Harold W. Orcutt, will preside, with music by the Army Band.

These exercises will be preceded by a parade of bands, civic groups, patriotic organizations and floats. E. Brooke Petty will be chief marshal.

An open-air musicale will be given at 7:30 p. m. from a platform erected on the new Philadelphia avenue playground at Holly avenue. Chairman M. E. Dawson and Vice-Chairman V. B. Engeberg, music leaders at the Takoma Park Seventh Day Adventist Church, will conduct the program.

A fireworks display afterward will bring the day's events to a climax. Arrangements are in charge of Freedom R. Leaman, chairman, and Joseph A. Kurz, vice-chairman.

Walter Irey, general chairman of the Fourth of July committee, has called upon all residents of the community to fly the American flag from their homes and places of business.

The parade will move at 9.30 a. m. from Piney Branch Portal, proceeding southward on Piney Branch road to Cedar street; thence northeasterly on Carroll avenue to the Takoma Park Fire House at Denwood to the intersection of Denwood, Philadelphia and Maple avenues, the site of the morning exercises.

An attractively arranged wedding took place Wednesday evening, June 24th, at 8 o'clock in the Brookland Methodist Church in Washington, when Miss Ethelyn Carlin Ward became the bride of Mr. Richard M. Williams of Olney, Maryland.

The church was decorated with candles, lillies, hills of snow and palms.

Preceding the ceremony an organ recital was rendered by Miss Edith Athey, cousin of the bride, and Miss Harriett Hildebrand sang "At Dawning" and "The Day of Golden Promise".

The bride, who was married on the 51st wedding anniversary of her maternal grandparents, was given in marriage by her brother, Mr. Charles Surpeon Ward. Her wedding gown was of white lace fashioned with a long train, long tight-fitting sleeves which ended in points over her hands and a square neckline. Her tulle veil was made in coronet style with seed pearls and the cap was of lace. She carried gardenias and lillies of the valley, which fell from a white satin frame in the center of which was her paternal grandmother's prayer book.

The maid of honor was Miss Mary Bair, who wore pink lace and carried pink roses and blue delphiniums tied with blue ribbon.

The bridesmaids were Miss Dorothy Ward, sister of the bride, and Miss Emmy Lou Williams, sister of the groom. Their gowns were blue net and they carried pink roses and blue delphiniums tied with pink ribbon. All three attendants wore wreaths of flowers to match their dresses.

Mr. Barnsley Williams acted as best man for his brother. The ushers were Mr. Fred J. Ward of Washington and Mr. Arthur D. Cashell, Jr., of Olney.

A reception followed at the home of the bride's mother.

Mrs. Franklin L. Ward, mother of the bride, wore blue chiffon with a corsage of pink roses.

Mrs. H. C. Williams, mother of the groom, wore black and white chiffon with a corsage of pink roses.

Later in the evening Mr. Williams and his bride left for a short honeymoon. The latter wore a becoming dress of brown and beige chiffon with brown accessories—or and corsage of yellow roses.

Administration Welfare Funds Provokes Action By Commissioner Board

Transaction of Much Routine Business by County Board—Three Officials Are Given an Increase in Present Salary

The Board of Commissioners on Tuesday revoked its action of several weeks ago to transfer the administration of all public welfare funds to the County Welfare Board following abolition of the department of public welfare.

Instead the Board passed a measure which leaves the county welfare board, which was appointed by the board of State aids and charities to comply with Federal statutes, solely with the administration of old-age pensions and aid for dependent children that is financed wholly or partly with Federal funds.

Blaze Razes Barn; 4-Hour Fight Fails

Fire of undetermined origin Sunday morning destroyed a large dairy barn on the Ray farm on the East-West highway, near Silver Spring.

A thoroughbred bull, valued at $100, quartered on the first floor of the barn, where the fire started, lost its life, but several calves were rescued. Thirty cows had just been milked and turned into the field by the owners Frank and Robert Ray, a short time before the blaze was discovered.

Firemen from Chevy Chase, Silver Spring, and Kensington volunteer departments battled the blaze for almost four hours. Pinned by a lively breeze, the fire for a time threatened the dwelling on the estate, but firemen kept it confined to the stable. Damage was estimated at $4000.

Barney Welsh Wins Middle States Crown

Barney Welsh of Rockville, National Public Park tennis champion, captured the men's singles title in the annual Middle-States Grass Court tournament held in Pittsburgh, Pa., last Sunday.

It was a gruelling battle which required some two hours and forty minutes before the decision was reached. Arthur Hendrix, the star from Lakeland, Fla., was off to a brilliant start and seemed a certain winner even after dropping the third set. Soon after the intermission however, Welsh began spurting and at the finish had the Floridian completely routed, as the lopsided set score indicates.

Hendrix gained considerable acclaim last winter in the Sugar Bowl tournament downing Wilmer Allison, the national champion.

Welsh reached the final bracket on Saturday with a 6—4, 0—6, 6—4, 6—4 win over Guy Cheng of Tulane University.

Boland Is Refused Pardon By Gov. Nice

State's Attorney James H. Pugh conferred with Gov. Nice early in the week in the matter of an unconditional pardon for John Boland, who was convicted last year at Rockville of conspiring with Mrs. Anne Lyddane to murder her husband.

Mr. Pugh took this action as a result of the acquittal of Mrs. Lyddane on similar charges and the immunity granted to a second man for turning State's witness.

Gov. Nice declared he would not consider a pardon for Boland, but suggested that any move to obtain leniency for him should be made in the usual parole channels, and added that he would not take action, even on a parole petition, without recommendations from the judges and the State's Attorney.
