EASTON ACADEMY.

THE undersigned, a Committee appointed by the Trustees of this Institution, respectfully announce to the public, that by a resolution of the last meeting, the restriction heretofore existing limiting pupils studying the classics to the Upper Department, and those studying the English alone to the Lower, has been rescinded, and both Departments are now open to all who may choose to study the classics, or the English, or both.

The Academy offers great inducements to the citizens of the county and State, wishing to secure the advantages of a thorough academic education to their sons or wards. The Upper Department is in charge of M. Spencer, Esq., Principal, whose known proficiency and ability, added to the experience of more than thirty years, render him one of the most competent instructors of the State.

The Lower Department is conducted by W. H. D. Harper, Esq., who is a young gentleman of the very highest intellectual and moral endowments, and has given the most entire satisfaction both to Trustees and patrons of the Academy, in his excellent discipline and rapid advancement of his pupils.

SAM'L. HAMBLETON,
H. H. GOLDSBOROUGH, } Com.
I. C. W. POWELL,

FURTHER NOTICE.

THE undersigned has now permission to open a Mathematical and Belles-Lettre Department, the first of which will embrace Arithmetic in all its branches, written and intellectual; Algebra, "uniting the scientific discussions of the French with the practical method of the English School;" Geometry,—Davies, Euclid and Legendre; Trigonometry,—Plane and Spherical, with their application to heights and distances; Surveying and Navigation; Mensuration of Planes and Solids; Dialling; Natural Philosophy; Astronomy and the Globes. The Belles-Lettres Department will embrace Rhetoric, History, Moral Philosophy and should it be desired, Metaphysics, Declamation and Composition. Besides which, a complete course will be taught in Geography, English Grammar and Exercises, Book-keeping, &c.

The classics in this department are read so that the student shall understand every word. The leading principles of the grammar together with the declensions of the parts of speech, are carefully committed; and their applicability shown in every syllable of the text. The new-fangled systems for making smatterers are utterly rejected. The metrical reading of the poets in order to correct pronunciation, is an indispensable exercise; and the mythological and historical allusions of both poetic and prose writers, explained as the student progresses.

The Public's obedient servant,
sep 29-3t M. SPENCER.
