CONKLING AND BLAINE.

For ten years Senator Conkling and Senator Blaine have been mortal enemies of each other. They are both Republican aspirants for the Presidency, and they both hate Hayes and Evarts with a hatred unspeakable and full of bitterness. When Hayes sent the New York appointments to the Senate, which aimed a blow at Conkling's power in New York, the wrathful Senator determined, if possible, to defeat their confirmation. Noses were counted, and without the vote of Blaine, it was impossible to defeat the confirmation of Roosevelt and Prince, and Conkling could not solicit Blaine to help him; but Blaine's hate of Hayes, because of more recent origin, being greater than his state hate of Conkling, at the critical moment he came to the rescue, made a speech in the Senate against confirming the appointments, and by his vote and influence saved Conkling, and defeated Hayes and Evarts' reform measure. Conkling was so affected by the generosity of Blaine that he shed tears of joy. Blaine was equally joyful, because he had defeated Hayes. Conkling at once made up with Blaine; but did it in his own was way. Conkling has a peculiar way of making up with his enemies. He assumes an awful dignity, walls up his eyes, pushes back his hair from his lofty brow, but dont design to speak or shake hands, not he. When he made up his quarrel with Geb. Gorden, there was no speaking, nor shaking of hands, nor drawing of champaign corks. Third parties did the talking and Conkling remained silent. Neither did he give Blaine his hand nor speak, but he spoke to third parties his immeasurable gratitude to the Senator from Maine for his great magnanimity. Blaine seems to have accepted this as a genuine make-up. The Republican papers are glorying over it. Yet Conkling and Blaine continue to sit apart in the Senate, wall their eyes at and jealously watch the movements of each other, just as they did before their late reconciliation. To all outward appearances their former relations are unchanged, and there is little doubt that their hate will increase as their ambitious aspirations may hereafter clash. Yet their intense hatred of Hayes may ultimately make nominal friends of them. Who knows? We shall see.

Hon. William E. Chandler, of New Hampshire, a member of the National Republican Committee—the Bill Chandler who went to Florida after the Presidential election to help steal that State for Hayes after it had voted for Tilden—is out in a long letter charging bargain and sale on Hayes, denouncing him for betraying the Republican party, and especially the Republican carpet-baggers at the South, and calling on all Republicans to cut Hayes and let him go to the Devil—or to the Democrats, which is the same thing in the eyes of Mr. Chandler. A more corrupt and villainous scoundrel does not to-day operate in American politics than William E. Chandler of New Hampshire. Had he given the country full particulars of his own corrupt operations in Florida, Louisiana and South Carolina, to cheat Samuel J. Tilden out of the votes of those States after they had voted for him, he might have in a measure redeemed himself and hurt Mr. Hayes. But he still tries to conceal and cover up his own rascalities, and at the same time work up a prejudice against Mr. Hayes on other issues. In this he will fail. Chandler is too well known; and it is also known that he is making a fuss now only because Mr. Hayes has not estimated his rascalities at the same price he places on them himself. Mr. Chandler is one of the villains that deserve to be jibbited for the leading part he played in making Mr. Hayes President by fraud, and notwithstanding his present assaults on Mr. Hayes, the Democratic press should not cease to scowl at him and command him to down, Villain, down, until you purge ourself of the infamy growing out of frauds you committed after the last Presidential election. It adds respectability to Hayes to know that he hates the scoundrel Chandler.

The duty of electing a United States Senator will devolve on the coming legislature. Among the distinguished Democrats of this Shore spoken of in connection with the Senatorship, are Dr. George R. Dennis, of Somerset, present incumbent, Ex-Gov. Philip F. Thomas, of Talbot, late member of Congress, Ex-Gov. James B. Groome, of Cecil, Hon. James U. Dennis, present State Senator from Somerset; Hon. John M. Robinson, of Queen Anne's, one of the Judges of the Court of Appeals; Hon. Joseph A. Wickes, of Kent, one of the associate Judges of this Judicial circuit; Hon. James A. Stewart, of Dorchester, also a Judge of the Court of Appeals; Hon. E. K. Wilson, of Worcester, recently a member of Congress. Of course our preference is for Governor Thomas, because at the time he was sent to the Senate, the Radicals put a stigma on him in the resolution they passed refusing him his seat, which was intended to reflect not only on him, but on those that sent him there, and we think justice requires that he should now be sent back again, in order that he may have the lying, partisan resolution expunged; but at the same time, we are frank to say, there is not a gentleman named in the above catalogue who would not make the State a good Senator in Congress.

When the legislature meets, one of the first matters it should consider, is the expediency of abolishing the steamer, used by the Chief of our Oyster Navy. The Steamer is expensive and useless. The sloops do the work, and the steamer is a mere ornament to the establishment, and a very expensive ornament, too, and this is no time for the State paying for such expensive ornaments. If the force must have a steamer, a tug is all that is needed. The steamer should be sold, and the proceeds invested in additional sloops or schooners, to aid in keeping the dredgers off forbidden grounds. This would add effectiveness to the service, while it would lessen the expense. It would be well, also, should the steamer be abolished, to have the commanders of the sloops report directly to the Governor. But the details of the bill may well be left to the wisdom of the legislature. What the people are particularly interested in, is the abolition of the steamer; and the making licenses from dredgers a source of permanent revenue to the State.

Attorney Phelps' Views on Stock Exchange Gambling.

NEW YORK, Dec 5.—District Attorney Phelps replied to a representative of the New York Stock Exchange, who requested him to suppress the five dollar Stock Exchange, that he saw no difference between gambling in these places and those at the New York Stock Exchange.

[COMMUNICATED]

MORE LIGHT.

"The instructions of the Judges of the Circuit Court for Talbot county in May, 1876, as given to the Grand Jury, in relation to their duty in recommending to the Clerk of the Circuit Court applicants for Liquor Licenses, were as nearly as we can remember, as follows: "Where, parties from a district free from a local-option law make application for license for the sale of liquors, said application properly endorsed by freeholders in the immediate neighborhood of the person or persons so applying, then it was the imperative duty of the Grand Jury to consider favorably the said application, provided there were no counter petition &c."

Now how have these instructions been carried out? We think not in accordance with their spirit nor with the letter of the law. If the late Grand Jury say they had no instructions, then they virtually acknowledge their ignorance and incompetency to act as Grand Jurors, for it was plainly their duty in that case to have asked both for instructions and the law. If the other districts of Talbot county have the right to maintain the law of local option because it has been sustained by the voice of the people, has not the Chapel District, which by the voice of her people, has sustained the old law, an equal right to all of that old law's privileges? If this be so, then we can more clearly see and understand why the Court should give, and why it did give, the instructions above mentioned; for in the absence of such instructions, should the Grand Jury, a large majority of whom are from local-option districts, refuse to give to the Chapel district her rights, it would then justly entitle the people of that district to believe that that high and honorable body had been influenced more by their feelings of prejudice than by their sworn obligations.

CHAPEL.

Maryland Commission Fish and Fisheries.

BALTIMORE, December 28th, 1877.

SIR:—During the earlier years of the existence of the Fish Commission, I thought it advisable to devote the means at my disposal exclusively to the introduction, propagation and distribution of the most valuable food fishes—those which enter largely into the food production of the State. But with the increased facilities which I have been able to secure, from time to time, I have extended operations to those varieties which, though important, rank rather as luxury than a staple food. I distributed during the last season, a large number of Brook Trout to parties wishing them to stock either ponds or streams.

The great demand for this fish, as evinced by the number of applications in defer them, has induced me this year to provide a yet larger number for distribution. I hope, during the Winter, to be able to give to all those wishing them, as many as they can with safety transport.

All citizens of the State wishing Trout to stock waters of the State, can get them, free of charge, on application at Druid Hill Hatching House, on and after January 15th 1878. This distribution will be gratuitous; but the Fish Commission cannot either undertake to furnish vessels or transportation, or meet any of the expenses of their transfer from the Hatching House to the localities for which they may be destined.

Persons making application must take to the Hatching House with them, vessels in which to remove the fish. Ordinary milk cans are very suitable; and a five gallon can will hold as many hundred trout. The young fish should be deposited as near the head of the stream as possible, and the deposit be made after dark, if practicable—this enables them to become accustomed to the water, and find hiding places during the night, when most of the larger fish do not feed.

The employee of the Commission in charge of the Hatching House, will be furnished with blank receipts, on which must be stated the stream in which the fish are to be deposited by the person making application.

I write, giving you this information, hoping that you will inform the inhabitants of your portion of the State, that they may be able to make early application.

The fish undistributed at the time that it is necessary to feed them, will be deposited by the Commission in some public waters.

I trust, by means of this gratuitous distribution of Brook Trout, that all parts of the State will be reached, and our streams again repeopled with this attractive fish.

I am, very truly yours,

T. B. FERGUSON,
Commissioner.

BALTIMORE, MD.—I have used Dr. Bull's Cough Syrup personally and in my family for two or three years, and am prepared to say that there is nothing to compare to it as a remedy for Coughs, Colds, etc—James Corrie, Dentist.

A Stoic.

There is a degree of stoicism exhibited by many people in the endurance of pain; without flinching they bear up admirably until assailed by Tooth ache, Neuralgia, Ear-ache and Headache, when they are completely, "undone," and anxiously look to poultices, Hartshorn and other useless agents for relief. One word to such sufferers: procure and use Keller's Roman Liniment, the best remedy known for Tooth-ache, Ear-ache, etc.

DAILY EXCEPT SUNDAY.
BALTIMORE, MARYLAND.

NATIONAL, INDEPENDENT, CONSERVATIVE, THE PAPER OF THE PEOPLE.

THE BALTIMORE DAILY SUN for 1878 will continue, as heretofore, to print all the freshest and latest news in a condensed and readable form, at the same time giving prominence to that which is most interesting.

In City and State matters THE SUN will spare no effort to continue to maintain its reputation for accurate and punctual reports of things of local interest relating to Politics, Business, Literature and Law, and the public occurrences of the day.

THE SUN is independent of all parties and non-sectarian; its aim is to state facts in so thoroughly impartial a way as to enable its readers to form their own judgment concerning them, and in all discussions of public questions to put

PRINCIPLES AND PERSONS,

Rescuing all classes of all shades of political opinion, and of all sects and creeds, the aim of the SUN is so to frame its pages as to be regarded as trustworthy and impartial, printing nothing in its columns that is objectionable in its morals or that shall invade in any way the privacy of the family.

AT HOME AND ABROAD,

the year 1878 promises to be full of incidents and events of peculiar interest. Whatever news it may bring will be given in the SUN with the faithfulness and accuracy that have made it acceptable, not only in Maryland and adjoining States, but throughout the whole country. Of all the recurring phases of political opinion and action will keep the SUN promptly and fully informed, both through regular and telegraphic correspondence.

The Financial columns of the SUN will be kept abreast of the times. They will contain complete daily reports of the operations of the Stock Boards of Baltimore and New York, with such remarks as may serve to elucidate the causes of their fluctuations. Its commercial columns will give the correct prices of breadstuffs and provisions, and all the other principal commodities from day to day, not only at Baltimore but by telegraph from all the principal cities.

In all other matters also the SUN represents the progressive spirit of the age. It is a paper for the household as well as the merchant and politician; for the poor as well as the rich; doing justice to all and a favorite with all classes.

Startling! Startling!

Another Serious Outbreak!

LEDERER & ABELL have just received from the manufacturer of the largest stock of Boots and Shoes for Men and Boys, as well as the very best stock of all the latest styles of Ladies', Misses' and Children's wear that has ever been on exhibition in this market. Prices that have heretofore ruled high, is now but a thing of the past. Present prices, such as are now introduced by us will not only astonish those who buy goods, but even stonish merchants who are engaged in the business. We have not made much noise through the papers about our stock, deeming it unnecessary, and we do not wish to say much now, only when we have bought goods down 50 per cent. we want the public to know it and reap the benefit thereof.

Behold the prices and save 25 to 50 per cent. for the same identical goods bought elsewhere. We wish the people to know that we mean business. We are selling

Ladies' Gaiters (but one d), for $1.75.
Men's Fine Stitched, hand made Gaiters $5.
Men's Fine Stitched hand made, Boots, $7.50.
And Misses' and Children's wear from 60 cents upwards.

All of the above work guaranteed as represented. Call and see us. Men's heavy wear at astonishing prices. To see, is to be convinced. A $5 Boot for $4, and home made Pegged work for $5. The Old Man still attended to. Repairing in the neatest manner.

P. S.—Leather of all kinds for sale; also blacking for Ladies' wear.

FREE GIFT COUPON.

CUT THIS OUT

We take this means to introduce our beautiful new style Oleographs, in black and gold mats, oval opening, into every neighborhood. They are the most beautiful household ornaments ever seen, and are cheap to any purchaser at $3.00 per doz., but to every reader of this paper who forwards this coupon and 60 cts. to pay for packing and postage (the package being quite heavy) we will send 12 samples free of charge.

TUTHILL & AVERY.

1877. X-MAS. 1877.
1877. 1877.

HAVING returned from the cities of New York, Philadelphia and Baltimore, I wish to assure my friends and patrons that neither pains nor expense has been spared in making my purchases for the ensuing festive season.

I have built up and established a trade in fine and staple Goods never before attempted on this Peninsula, and am determined to maintain the same. In my selection of IMPORTED GOODS (all of which have been purchased direct of the importers) I have made specialties of the following:

Toys in Great Variety.

All grades and kinds, among which are many novelties too numerous to particularize.

REAL RUSSIAN LEATHER GOODS.

Such as Writings desks, Work boxes, Card cases, Pocketbooks, &c.

I have now introduced for the first time in this market, a fine line of Swiss Carvings.

Now very fashionable and of exquisite workmanship.

Also a beautiful assortment of Japanese Goods,

so much admired at the Centennial Exposition, and which must be seen to be appreciated.

Genuine French Crystal Ink Stands and Paper weights, very handsome.

DOMESTIC GOODS.

In this line I have the handsomest styles and the largest stock of boxed papers and envelopes, and general stationery supplies to be found outside the large cities, and at prices rendering competition useless.

My general assortment will be found fully up with the times in city or country, consisting partly of gold pens and holders; writing desks, from $1 to $14; work boxes, from 50 cents to $8.00; work baskets, portemonnaies from 10 cents to $2.00; vases and toilet sets, from 30 cents to $6.00 per set.

SILK FLOWERS Under Glasses.

Handsome line of chromos, all sizes, at prices from 5 cents to $1.

Picture frames and Brackets—many new designs in the latter. Stereoscopes and views; Books in greater variety than ever—Bibles, prayer books, poems, popular works of fiction, juveniles in abundance.

Games, Dissolving Pictures, Spelling Blocks, Chessmen, Dolls, &c.

Musical Instruments.

Sheet Music, Music books, and a thousand articles too tedious to mention. Also

FRUITS, NUTS & CONFECTIONERY

fresh and nice.

Kip Boots.

WE have to-day opened the Cheapest Kip Boots we have ever placed upon our counter, and which will repay the public to want to examine before purchasing. Respectfully,
Elliott & Rathell.

Buffalo Robes—

Did you ever see a Buffalo Robe for $4? We have got them and nice Robes they are, too, lined robes $6—superior robes $8 to $10.
