A Chicago Paper's View of the Present

When the Republican party, several years ago, drew up its indictment against Democratic leaders in the south, charging them with fraud at the polls, Democrats all over the country assailed it as campaign slander. When the Republicans in the Fifty-first congress passed a federal election bill they were charged by Democrats with an attempt to conpublican party and to enable the present administration to perpetuate itself by force of arms. The Democrats tried to have the country lose sight of the question at issue, which was fraud and force, now and for years past employed by Democrats to maintain a solid south.

The Republicans may now congratulate themselves on the first success of their indictment. Its truth is acknowledged by those who were indicted. They plead guilty to their criminality, but resort to mob ethics and say: "What are you going to do about it? We are guilty and we propose to continue in our guilt. We are lawbreakers and we propose to continue as lawbreakers. We have by force and fraud prevented an honest expression of the people's choice at the polls, and we propose to continue using fraud and force. We are the minority, but we propose to usurp the rights of the majority."

This is the frank confession of the Democrats, and they have already begun their national campaign in defense of mob law in the south and minority rule in the country. The Republican indictment stands and is not denied. The question now goes to the jury of the American voters. Mr. Dana, of the New York Sun, has sounded the keynote of the Democratic campaign, and the Democrats are all piping in harmony. It is not tariff, it is not finance, it is not a foreign policy—it is minority rule by force and fraud. That is what the Democrats propose to fight for in this campaign. The Chicago Post (Democratic) says a prominent southern member of congress spoke as follows:

I don't deny that there is fraud at the ballot box in the south. Moreover, I don't deny that there will continue to be fraud so long as the niggers are in the majority. Make no mistake about it; we will not suffer ourselves to be governed by niggers. We have never done so, and. by the eternal, sir, we never shall! It is al very well to talk about equal rights, but there will be no equal rights when it comes to ruling In the south. The nigger shall not be allowed to rule. I count myself, sir, as a law abiding eitizen, and one who would fight for the Union; but, sir, I want to tell you this, and I speak the sentiment of thousands of other southern gentlemen, if the force bill pass I shall load my Winchester and sit in my parlor window, and on or before election day pick off as many niggers as I can.

"Squandering the Surplus."

This is one of the ways in which the Republican party has been "squandering the surplus." The interest bearing debt of the United States has been reduced since the inauguration of President Harrison in the sum of over $275,-000,000, and the annual interest charge, which when he was inaugurated amounted to $34,578,459.80, was on June 30, 1892, only $22,893,881.20, a decrease of $11,634,578.60, or about one-third .-Hutchinson (Kan.) Prices Have Really Advanced.

Compared with war currency prices of land, when $1.96 in gold would buy a five dollar greenback, the market value of eastern farm property appears to have declined. But if comparisons of the gold value during the inflation period and the gold value now are made prices have advanced handsomely .- Bingham-For (N. Y.) Republican,
