DENTON, MD. For President in 1868:

GENERAL ULYSSES S. GRANT. For Vice-President, HON. JNO. A. J. CRESWELL. Subject to the Decision of the Republican National Convention.

IMPEACHMENT.

Ever since the result of the election in Pennsylvania and Ohio became fu. known, every Democratic paper in land has been busy in circulating the ru mor that the impeachment project is no abandoned, and that members of Con gress who, at the last session, were for most in piloting this thing through no give it up as lost. But we are at a h to conceive how the result of the election in those States is to effect impeachmen 'Tis true that the Democrats have gain. some advantages, and those gains ba been forcibly construed into an endors. ment of "my policy." If Andrew Job. son is deserving of the humiliation at shame which is the natural consequen of impeachment, what matters it if ever Stece in the Union, from the Atlantic the Pacific, were to give Democra majorities? If the charges broug. against the Executive can be substantial by indisputable evidence, and which do not for one moment doubt, the talk resistance to the decrees of justice is me idle words, and those who put confiden in it are but the deluded followers of set of reckless political adventurers w. are ever ready to manufacture capit from whatever may chance to turn up. these things can be substantiated and the Work Suspended.—Work on the Del- crats. then do they become false to their teachings, false to the interests of their country, and false to the Constitution handed down from sire to son as the blessed heritage for which they suffered privation, toil and death.
