Washington. -- President Wilson desires conclusion of a peace treaty as speedily as consistent with the great questions involved, and, except for adjustment of territorial differences, he believes a great part of the work is approaching final form.
It was learned that the amendment to MICC MINNAIN the proposed constitution of the League of Nations which the President intends to suggest upon his return to Paris will deal with measures to be used by the league in enturn to Paris will deal with measforcing territorial decrees.

The President so informed newshis work at Paris and the legislative situation after he had spent two hours conferring with administration Washington had been invited to see the President in several years.
