The New Movement. The reporter for the Baltimorean thu

The reform movement, which has so long agitated the Baltimore community, and concerning which, there has been such a assumed a tangible and by no means significant form and appearance. It will be quite likely to have a ticket in the field vote, and under the popular title of "The Citizens' Party," may achieve a victory, that will bury fraud and peculation so deep it will never rise again.

It is now generally conceded that the Ring men are very uneasy in their shoes. They feel that the great upheavel in the political surface, is no unimportant matter, but one of those grand revulsions and revolutions in public sentiment, which hearl unworthy men from power and substitute in their places, those who are known to be pure and patriotic.

The Citizens' Party will take none but the best men, and we are informed that in every instance, where the slightest doubt has been expressed as to availability or general acceptability, the charge has been unhesitatingly made. There have been no questions asked as to parties or affiliations. Is he honest and capable; is he actuated solely by a desire to see the taxes of an over-burdened people reduced; is he willing to serve for a reasonable compensation, and is he willing to be held to a strict accountability whenever called upon. These answered satisfactorily, and political antecedents or present associations are ignored.
