TEACHERS' SUMMER SCHOOL

The Fifth Annual Session of the State Summer School for training of Public School Teachers will convene at Ocean City on Monday, June 23rd, an unusually large attendance of students is anticipated. Following the precedent established last summer, the session will continue only five weeks instead of six, closing on July 26th, with regular school sessions on Saturdays. This arrangement affords the same number of school days as the regular six-weeks session, and at the same time, saves the students attending the school considerable expense. As there is no tuition charge to Maryland teachers, the entire cost of attending the session should not exceed $50,00, and might be made even less.

The Ocean City Summer School is one of the State Summer School centres conducted under the direction of the State Board of Education, for the purpose of providing the necessary professional training for the public school teachers of the State, and enabling them at a minimum of expense to fulfill the requirements of the new educational law in respect to the securing and renewing of teachers certificates. Other summer school centres are established at Towson and Frostburg.

The Director and his associates, all of whom have been re-appointed for 1919, are already making extensive plans for the coming session, which it is expected, will even improve upon and exceed the results of last year. The State Board has recently evidenced its interest in the school by making an appropriation providing for a teachers' professional library for the use of the students. This library will be the permanent property of the Ocean City School.

The school last summer had 60 students, which was about double the number of the previous year, and exceeded by 50 per cent any previous enrollment in the school's history. The enrollment for 1919 is expected to reach 100 students.

The corps of instructors, with their subjects, is as follows: E. Clarke Fontaine, A. M., Director, "Theory and Practice of Teaching and School Law;" Hannah A. Kieffer, A. M., "Rural School Management and Sociology;" Frances H. Clark, B. S., "Educational Psychology;" Mary. B. Hamilton, A. B., "The Teaching of Elementary School English."

Teachers expecting to attend the session can obtain any desired information by addressing the Director, E. Clarke Fontaine, Pocomoke City, Md.

NEWSY TIDINGS FROM OUR BOYS

The following letter is from George Wiltbanks, near Kennedyville:

Lavallee, Meuse, France,
January 29th, 1919.

Dear Dad:

Your recent letter and you ask me if I am coming home soon. I am not on the way yet and it don't look as though I would be in the very near future. If you people in the United States want us boys home it is up to you. Every mother's son of us over here wants to get back I can tell you but we are all in the army and have nothing to say in the matter. Here we are over here fiddling away our time and spending your money, waiting and hoping in vain for the time to only come when we can get back.

It appears to me it is about time you people woke up and started something. It seems the people of America have forgotten their boys over here now that we have come across and done our bit in the way they wanted it done. This may seem pretty strong, Dad, but we boys are sick and tired of hearing false rumors and having our hopes shattered. It is up to you folks to get us back if you want us home. I see in the papers that one or two Senators have had the gall to get up and speak in our behalf but most of the country seems to be deaf to the call of their boys in the A. E. F.

We continue to read of the ships and facilities you have for transporting us home and yet the latest reports state that only some 200,000 have been returned and most of them were casualties. When they needed us over here to win the war and save the world for Democracy they rushed us over at the rate of 300,000 a month. Now nearly three months have elapsed since the armistice was signed and only about a three weeks war time quota have been returned. Where are these ships and transportation facilities we read about?

If this letter was large enough I could get the signature of every man in my organization that these are our unified sentiments. If you want to put this letter in the paper go ahead. Well I must close now with love to all I remain, yours

GEORGE.

Col. Zora H. Brinsfield, president of the Hurlock Bank and a wealthy citizen of Dorchester, met a bunch of stock swindlers in Florida some days ago, and they induced him to invest $40,000 by misrepresentation. One of the men accompanied Col. Brinsfield to Baltimore. The police came to the rescue of the Dorchester countian, saved his money and locked up the "crook." It does not pay to try to get wealthy too quickly.
