Vice-President Wilson's Grave.

The lot wherein Vice-President Wilson's remains are to be finally laid is situated on a charming little estate in the extreme northerly corner of Dell Park Cemetery, about three-fourths of a mile from the village of Natick, in a westerly direction, and overlooking Lake Umbagog.

The view of the spot being extensive and very attractive. The lot is enclosed by a granite curb, which is surrounded by a neatly gravelled driveway.

On either side of the front entrance are tasteful shrubs, and a little in front of the centre is a beautiful sarcophagus, which contains the remains of the Vice-President's son, Lieutenant-Colonel Henry Hamilton Wilson, who died at Austin, Texas, December 24th, 1866.

At the right, just east of the Colonel's grave, is that of his mother, which is marked by an Italian marble headstone, of attractive and appropriate design, and inscribed as follows: "HARRIET M. WILSON, born in Natick, November 21, 1824, married to Henry Wilson, November 28, 1849, died May 28, 1875."

Below this is inscribed, "She made home happy." It is followed by "But O, for the touch of a vanished hand, and the sound of a voice that is still." At the extreme northeast corner of the lot is a double grave, containing the dust of Mr. Wilson's parents. Between the graves of his parents and that of his wife is a vacant space, and that is the spot where it is to be deposited the remains of the Vice-President, of whom his townsmen relate a touching tribute which he paid to the partner of his joys and sorrows.

It is said that when news of his nomination for the Vice-Presidency was telegraphed to him for his townsmen, he replied, "Place a bouquet of flowers on my wife's grave."
