50 Per Cent. More Insurance

You know even better than I do, that most people are woefully under-insured. We need only note the amount of insurance carried by our own immediate friends to discover that even those who carry more that the average, rarely carry enough to yield a sufficient income to enable those dependent upon them to continue their present scale of living. In fact, in most instances, not enough insurance is carried to yield even a bare living income.

In many such cases the money expended for life insurance could be much better invested in a larger amount of insurance on less expensive plans. In fact, no man ought to think of carrying anything but Straight Life Insurance until he has loaded up enough insurance to protect his family. Not until he has done that, should he consider the more expensive forms, because after all is said and done, the greatest of all values in life insurance is the protection which it affords to dependent women and especially to hepless children.

To supply the need for increased protection while the family is growing up, and especially during the present period of high prices, the Continental Life has perfected a new plan of insurance.

Rates are about the same as those usually charged for dividend paying policies, but instead of the usual cash dividends amounting to a few dollars each year, this new plan pays 50 per cent more than the face of the policy—$500 extra for each $1,000 of insurance—if the insured should die before age 60 and during the premium-paying period. Payments after age 60 are reduced 20 per cent.

If you feel that you need moore insurance, but don't think you are in a position financially to buy the amount and form now, I have a proposition good for ten years, that is almost given to you. In fact it is a better proposition than Uncle Sam sold his soldier boys. It is about as cheap, but instead of paying the insurance in monthly installments for twenty years, I give your beneficiary the face of the policy in a lump sum. I can only sell it in multiples of $5,000, $10,000, $15,000 or $20,000. A young man at age 25 can get $5,000 for only $42.65. A man 30 will have to pay but $45.90 and so on. I sold one of these contracts in the fall of 1918, and paid the claim in 21 days. The premium was but $46.65. Some people have an idea that they will have to be shot on judgment day to make them die, but my guess is that some of you going to get stung. Read the deaths in this paper, and see if you don't think that you should carry all the insurance that you can get. The head of a family should not carry endowment insurance. If he does, then he is a selfish man.

Without any obligation on your part I will be glad to explain the above propositions. Drop me a line, or call me up by telephone 187 or 227.

Endowment Insurance At Life Rates

The Mutual Benefit Life Insurance Co., of Newark, N. J., throughout its 75 years of existence has sustained the highest ideals of business equity. It is, and has always been, a purely Mutual Company, Mutual in Name, Mutual in Theory and best of all Mutual in Practice. It is one of the three companies who never wrote socalled Tontine insurance. Investments are exceptionally high grade and yield good return; the management is economical and the mortality rate favorable. In addition to doing business on the highest reserve basis known to the insurance world, the Company has mathematically and scientific computed Contingency Reserve Funds to doubly protect the insured against all hazards. Notwithstanding the effect of the War and the Flu epidemic, the Company will return to its policyholders in 1920 over 1919 more than a million dollars, which proves her strength in time of trial.

Dividends returned to policyholders during the past two years, as follows:

1918 .....$6,906,755.14
1919 ..... 7,503,653.52
Set aside for
1920 ..... 8,533,705.59
