To Chestertown Water Board,

Very truly yours,
A. E. GOODRICH,
Resident Engineer.

Wheat Yields In Kent.

The hum of the threshing rigs are heard throughout the land. Wheat that was seeded early seems to have been cut seriously by the fly. Miller Strong, Grey's Inn, got 800 bushels off 70 acres; Paul Massey, near town, got 10 bushels to the acre, while W. S. Hoover got around 8 bushels to the acre. Edmund Hurtt got 15 bushels to the acre. Wm. Goodman, near Fairlee, threshed around 15 bushels to the acre. Clarence Fowler, on the Wickes farm got 18 bushels to the acre.

In the hail-swept territory some of the farmers tried to thresh enough wheat for flour. Richard Rasin got 150 bushels, R. R. Hill in Still Pond Neck got 1 bushel to acre. Josiah Massey got 3 bushels to the acre, while most of the others did not attempt to cut or thresh.

Julian Jones, of near Chestertown, is not through threshing but his crop is averaging 25 bushels to the acre.

THE GLORIOUS FOURTH

"As I look upon the flag I seem to see many characters upon it which are not visible to the physical eye. There seem to move ghostly visions of devoted men, who, looking to that flag, thought only of liberty and of the rights of mankind, of the mission of America to show the way to the world of the realization of those rights."—President Wilson's speech of February 1, 1916.

Whenever I behold the flag
Afloat upon the glad, free air,
I feel a throb of gratitude
To all who set the glory there.
For all the sacrifice and toil,
For all the peril, pain and blood.
For war's grim horrow, unassuaged,
That poured a life stream in the flood.
And we, who reap rich harvests sown
By hands at rest beneath the sod,
Do we not hold a deed of trust
Assigned us through the grace of God?
And can we ever hold less dear
The Freedom bought by patriot hand?
And can we ever bear a stain
Upon the honor of our land?
Nay! scarce there beats a heart so faint
To never feel that thrill of pride,
When gazing on the flag afloat
For which the great forefathers died,
But that he knows should clouds arise.
Should flambant insult touch our shore,
He'd rise beneath those deathless stars
And die to prove the Right once more.

Blessed is that nation where God is the Lord. Each one is a part of this nation. Do you pay allegiance to the God who has made us a blessed people.

A Welcome Innovation.

90 Quarts On Sale Here.

Chestertown had its first experience Saturday with bootleggers. An auto truck bearing a Pennsylvania license arrived here about noon and made its headquarters on the electric light wharf. The party dispensed about 60 quarts of liquor and left 30 quarts in charge of several well-known characters about town. Sometime Saturday night the stored whiskey was stolen and divided. Among the shares in the division was the watchman who could not resist such a "deluge." This "watchman" had two quarts left after he woke up Sunday and tried to give it away but found it difficult. More drunks were to be seen Sunday morning around the wharf than have appeared here for several years. Where were the officers, and why can't this business be stopped as easily as the colored man "Shep" was stopped.

Since the above was put in type the State's attorney has gotten busy and is on the track of bringing the violators of law before the Court.
