REUBEN BUTLER KILLED AT A BASE BALL GAME

Buttlertown The Scene Of The Altercation In Which The Fracas Occurred—Pistols Freely Used—"Jump-Steady" In Evidence—Sheriff Goodman Makes Arrests.

Reuben Butler, aged 46, married and with four children, is dead as a result of a blow over the head with a bat dealt by Pen Butler, his nephew. A game of ball was on at Butlertown Monday and liquor or some kind of a concoction was plentiful. Reuben Butler and Jeff Freeman got into an altercation and finally clung. Up came Reuben's nephew, Pen, presumably to intercede as mediator but the old "grudge" between the relatives showed itself by Reuben shooting Pen under the arm and into his body but not fatally. At this point, Reuben's son, Vester, appears with a pistol and shoots a glance shot at Pen's head. Then Pen, with the uninjured arm and hand, picked up a bat and dealt such a hard blow to Reuben's head that he fell senseless and died before Easton Hospital was reached.

Dr. Richmond treated Pen's wounds but could not find the ball.

Sheriff Goodman placed Pen and several others in jail to await a hearing.

These ball grounds are around "in the bottom" and are not connected with the church property.

The Salisbury Advertiser says: "Unless the constant wrangling and disorder which has consistently marked the Quantico colored camp meetings, many believe that Wicomico county may have to take steps similar to some of the other counties of the Shore and put more restrictions or a ban on these colored tent colony gatherings.

Last Sunday evening Steven Watts aged about 40, a negro residing near Sharptown, was brought to the Peninsula General Hospital with a bullet wound in his left side, just below the heart,, the wound being inflicted, it is said, as a result of a shot fired by Henry Leamon Hearn, 30, of Delmar, known to the authorities as a "roadster" and who recently served time in the Delaware Workhouse, according to reports."

If this rum business could be stopped there would be no excuse for restricting the tent gatherings. Get at the root of the trouble, which is 9 cases out of 10, the presence of liquor.

Railkeepers To Be Eliminated

This year there will be fewer attendants at the election booths in Kent county. Amendments to the election law passed by the last Legislature provides for the elimination of all door and rail keepers as a part of the election machinery at the next and subsequent elections. There will be but one front door keeper whereas formerly there have been two doorkeepers in every election precinct in the county.

Chautauqua Good As Ever

The people of this community have had a great treat this week in the excellent programs presented by Chautauqua. Prof. Ford, the Superintendent, has met every expectation including his "Spook" lecture Monday afternoon, while the Junior Superintendent and others have been filled with the Chautauqua spirit. The love making has added to the interest of the week so that as a whole Chestertown has enjoyed seven joyous days.

It would be difficult to estimate fully the good done through the annual visits of Chautauqua during the last dozen years. Some of the world's greatest educators and platform speakers have addressed local audiences under Chautauqua tents. Local people have learned from them the trend of sentiment upon important public problems and issues. The world's progress socially, politically, and industrially has been set forth clearly and understandingly by the brilliant and learned lecturers who come here with Chautauqua.

The lecturers alone for their educational and informative value are worth the cost of Chautauqua, but there is more, very much more, than that comes with them. The musical and dramatic numbers are fine. When one hears Chautauqua music he can rest assured it is the best of its kind obtainable, and the dramatic numbers are correct interpretations of plays of known worth and value.

Those who make Chautauqua possible here are the following guarantors:

H. H. Klinefelter, Emily H. Klinefelter, Wm. R. Huey, O. C. Smith, W. B. Copper, L. C. Robinson, Fannie E. Stuart, E. R. Anthony, G. E. Leary, Miriam M. Leaverton, P. N. Adams, W. T. Brown, H. E. DEFENSE DAY PLANS

A committee comprising Charles N. Satterfield, H. F. Jefferson and Raymond Wilkins announce the following plans for Defense Day, Friday, September 12th. The exercises will take place on the Square at 7.30 p. m., and will be participated in by civilians and military. Edward Brown, Jr., Esq., of Centreville, will make the address.

Defense Day is set apart by the President to determine how well the country is prepared in case of attack. To demonstrate as to how well and how quickly officers could mobilize their troops.

In case of a real attack companies would be recruited to full war strength, quarters found for men to sleep, provision made for feeding and clothing men and procuring all equipment as well as selecting a drill ground for training.

GIRLS' CLUBS MAKES PLANS FOR FALL

The mother and daughter meeting held last week was a great success. The meeting consisted of demonstrations by the girls in canning, jelly making, buying, making, care, laundering and repair of clothing.

The canning demonstration was ably given by Louise Startt, who exhibited some fine jars of canned products.

Elizabeth and Arsula Moffett gave a fine demonstration in jelly making. These two girls made 200 glasses of jelly last year at their home near Worton.

Georgeanna Robinson opened the discussion by giving a demonstration in testing cotton, linen, silk and wool and giving many helpful suggestions on "How To Buy."

Laura Rees, of Fairlee, who has been a club member for five years, showed the girls the first garment made in her work and told what the work had meant to her. She exhibited a suitcase of clothes she had made this summer and told how the work had helped in her High School Course.

Clara Matthews then gave a very instructive talk on the Laundering of Colored Clothes. Ann Matthews gave a demonstration on "Removing Spots" and Julia Williams finished the discussion by giving a demonstration in machine darning and patching. Julia exhibited a plaid skirt so nicely patched, it was hard to find the patch.

Helen Brown and Edith Rees had charge of the games and recreation.

An exceptionally fine demonstration in bread making was given by Miss Alberta Jewell, a Drexell, student. Following the demonstration, a picnic supper was served which was followed by a Vesper Service and Radio Concert. Miss Minnie Hicks a teacher at the Maryland School for the Blind, talked at the Vesper Service on "Choosing Your Life Work."
