A SAD DEATH

Despondency, due to ill health, is said to have caused Mrs. Albert Tingle to swallow half the contents of a bottle of carbolic acid, at her home on Kent street, Chestertown, on Tuesday morning. As a result of the act Mrs. Tingle died on Wednesday night in the Easton Emergency Hospital.

Mrs. Tingle's condition was discovered by her husband, who is employed as watchmen at the railroad yard at the end of High street, when he worried over the apparent illness of his wife returned home about 11 a. m. Failing to find his wife on the first floor of the house and getting no response to his calls, he went to the second floor and there found Mrs. Tingle on the bath room floor with the half empty bottle at her side.

He immediately summoned physicians and Tuesday afternoon Mrs. Tingle was removed to Easton Hospital.

She leaves besides her husband, a daughter, who is a student at Chestertown High School. The burial will take place at Georgetown, Del., with Rev. N. O. Gibson, of Chestertown, officiating. C. L. Dadd, undertaker.

BOYS' WEEK HERE WAS A SUCCESS

Coach Tom Kibler in charge of the Boys' Week program, sponsored by the Rotary Club, thinks the affair was a success. It was the first of the kind in this section.

Saturday was probably the most interesting day. For a period during the day every department of the town and county government was placed in the hands of the boys who enjoyed the novel experience of ruling the town as well as the great benefit of the education received. On Thursday afternoon nominations for all town and county officers were made and on Friday afternoon the following were elected: Members of Town Council, John I. Moffett, Vernon Needles, Allen Stradley, John I. Moffett being selected as mayor to whom Mayor Charles N. Satterfield relinquished the reins of government; fire chief, Robert Penn; firemen, James S. Kreeger, S. Scott Beck, Jr., Paul Pippin, Odis Flowers, Norman Sutton, Franklin Miller, Jesse Hadaway, Alday Clements; Clerk to Town Council, Frederick G. Usilton, Jr.; chief of police, Albert Sutton; traffic officers, Harry Lewis, James Anthony; clerk of the Circuit Court, B. Matthews; clerk to the Board of County Commissioners, Harrison W. Vickers, Jr.; sheriff, Howard Owens.

The marble contest was won by Francis Williams, the son of Fred. Williams, of Rock Hall. He was a good one and is liable to make any boy in the State hustle. A suit of clothes was awarded him.

DECORATION DAY IN CHESTERTOWN

In native land how splendid sleep
The bravest of the brave,
While we today proud vigils keep
Round each patriot grave.
No more they heed the bugle's call
Or thrill to cannonade;
Silent the song in camp and hall
And passed the last parade.

Memorial Day in Kent has been duly celebrated. It was the most elaborate in the history of Chestertown.

At 10.30 the parade started at the foot of High street.

It was sponsored by Frank M. Jarman Post of the American Legion and the Volunteer Fire Company. The line of march was headed by Col. Wm. J. Vannort, oldest living white survivor of the Grand Army of the Republic. He was followed by the Fire Company Band of 40 pieces members of the Frank M. Jarman Post, the active and inactive members of the Fire Company in uniform, Company K., of Centreville, who joined the celebration, the local Medical Detachment of the Maryland National Guard under command of Major Frank B. Hines, the Chestertown Rotary Club, followed by several hundred boys who have been participants in the Boys' Week festivities sponsored by the Rotary. The procession proceeded to Chester Cemetery where the graves of soldiers and firemen were decorated, following which United States Senator Millard E. Tydings delivered a most appropriate and patriotic address. Prior to the parade, a memorial service was held in Firemen's Hall by the Firemen and Ladies' Auxiliary in honor of its dead. In the afternoon athletic sports were held on Washington College athletic field.

State's Attorney Stephen R. Collins in a few remarks introduced Senator Tydings.

GOOD PRICES FOR PERSONALTY

POULTRYMEN WILL DISCUSS WORK

Improving the quality of Maryland poultry through the certification of breeding flocks will be discussed at an all-day conference of Maryland poultry breeders and hatcherymen to be held at the University of Maryland, Friday, June 24.

The conference is being called jointly by the Maryland State Poultry Association and the University of Maryland Extension Service, the two agencies which have been promoting the certification work during the past two years. Last year nineteen poultry flocks in the State were certified, which meant that they were inspected and found to be in accordance with certain high standards of breeding and health and maintained in a satisfactory manner.

The certification work is in charge of a special committee of members of the Maryland Poultry Association, composed as follows: Clinton L. Riggs, chairman, Baltimore; W. V. Lauterbach, vice chairman, Raspeburg; Aaron Fell, secretary, Bethesda; Roy H. Waite, College Park; John H. Moffett, Lynch; S. M. Horst, Maugansville; F. M. Payne, Frederick; and S. B. Shaw and W. H. Rice, College Park.

Dr. M. A. Jull, poultry husbandman for the United States Department of Agriculture, will address the conference on the certification work in other states. In the afternoon the poultrymen will inspect the Maryland State Egg Laying Contest under the direction of R. H. Waite, professor of poultry husbandry at the University of Maryland.

Drexel, of Philadelphia, defeated Washington College last Saturday at Chestertown in a badly played base ball game.

Today Washington College will play the Alumni team.
