A CORNER OF THE LAND OF SWEET CONTENT

Morris G. Clothier Buys Frank A. Roeder's Farm Near Kennedyville—Now Owns 7 Farms In One Tract Of 1650 Acres — Alex Mair Manages Well—The Beautiful Sassafras Flows By.

Kent countians live in the fairest county in the world and there are a few outsiders who are awakening to a realization of this fact. Among the latter is Morris G. Clothier, of Philadelphia. He is a member of that well-known firm of Strawbridge and Clothier, and incidentally, we might add that they are building a new store to cost $7,000,000 and William Turner, of Kent, is one of the firm of contractors.

Mr. Clothier was enamored with Kent some years ago. Saturday he closed a deal with Frank A. Roeder for his Hepbron farm which completed the acquisition of seven farms with a total acreage of 1650 acres. "Bloomfield Neck" is the name descended from colonial days for this section of the county and it is true to form.

The News man visited this estate Tuesday afternoon and could not have selected a more auspicious time. Alex Mair, the skilled manager of the estate, was directing the cutting of 400 acres in wheat, and with five reapers in the field, heaved a sigh of relief when the last land was cut and shocked. It was cut and shocked. It was tremendous wheat and seemed to be of fine quality. Howard Turner, who was also present at the harvest scene, remarked that it was his grade of fertilizer that was used. Moving pictures of the scene were taken. We then visited the "Home" of the manager and saw the beautiful flowers and well-kept lawn all of which proved that Mrs. Mair was as alert to good management as her husband.

The club house costing $10,000 occupies a site 85 feet above the Sassafras and is equipped with everything imaginable from a sportsman's view point. Here a view of the fine ducking shore may be had, while the winding river between bars and hills present a panorama of unexcelled splendor.

These farms are in excellent physical condition while the corn, tomatoes, hay and other crops make the heart of the tiller leap with joy.

The tenants, under Mr. Mair, are Charles Smith, Warner Geary, Arthur Groves, Lloyd Skeggs and Charles Sewell.

The county agent, H. B. Derrick, finds this land venture a fertile place to prove to our farmers what certain tests can do, as well as helping to formulate happiness to the owner and manager.

The News extends to Mr. Clothier congratulations upon his foresight in the purchase of this fine tract of land and welcomes him and his into the activities of the county. He has already contributed $2,400 for slag for public roads in this neck and in every way proven his deep interest in the improvement and advancement of the county.

ROCK HALL POSTMASTER WINS REAPPOINTMENT

The Postoffice Department has forwarded to Allan Urie his commission for reappointment as postmaster at Rock Hall for the next four years.

W. S. Stevens, who was recently reappointed postmaster at Millington, has also received his commission and has assumed charge of the office.

The only office in the county where a vacancy occcrred during the year and which has not yet been filled is Chestertown, where the term of Postmaster John N. Bennett expired last January, and for which an interesting contest has been waged by four candidates, Mr. Bennett, Mayor Charles N. Satterfield, A. Parks Rasin and Wm. G. Smyth.

A. F. SHURE ROTARY PRESIDENT

At the weekly meeting of the Chestertown Rotary Club at Maplehurst on Monday evening Marion deK. Smith, for the past fourteen months president of the Chestertown club, turned over the chair to Austin F. Shure, who will head the Rotarians for the next year.

The retiring president gave a resume of the year's work in Rotary and thanked the various committees for the work they had accompanied during his term in office.

President Austin F. Shure has announced only one appointment as head of committees, this is William B. Usilton, who will have charge of the weekly programs for the next year.

CASE COMBINE AT WORK

The first cutting and threshing outfit used in Kent is now in operation in Piney Neck on Wickes farm. The outfit is the property of Herman Berg and was sold by H. D. Orem and Son. It is doing fine work cutting wheat, threshing and piling the filled grain sacks in the field at the same time.

Geo. H. Fellows, 199 Bainbridge St., Brooklyn, N. Y., aged about 65 years, started on a canoe trip down the Eastern Shore to Worton Point, thence to Western Shore. He left Delaware City June 23. Any information will be thankfully received at the above address.

YOUNG RASKOB KILLED BY AUTO

William F. Raskob, 2nd, 19-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. John J. Rascob, of Claymont, was killed early Thursday afternoon when his automobile overturned at Salem, Md., on the road between Church Hill and Centreville.

He is believed to have been killed instantly. His body was found lying in a field adjacent to the road by J. A. Long, of Church Hill Motor Co.

Rascob was returning from Wilmington to Pioneer Point farm where his mother lives when he was killed.

When found the Cadillac touring car which Rascob was driving was in an upright position. It is believed to have left the highway and overturned at least once throwing the driver into the field.

The body was found lying face down. He was driving alone. There were no witnesses to the accident.

Mr. Long, employed by H. D. Massey, was on his way from Centreville to Church Hill, driving a car several hundred yards behind that driven by Rascob.

"I saw a great cloud of dust," Long said. "The dust obstructed my view of what was happening. Then I saw the damaged car and Rascob's body in the field."

Raskob is one of a family of 13 children. His father is chairman of the finance committee of the General Motors Corporation and a vice-president of the duPont Company.

Young Raskob was a student at Yale University.

The body was taken to the undertaking parlors of R. W. Eddins at Centreville.

W. R. Wilson Buys Fine Farm

William R. Wilson, of Ingleside, has purchased the John B. Thomas Home Farm, located near Ruthsburg, in the Sixth District. The farm was a part of the estate of the late Mrs. Mollie B. Dodd, and was sold at public sale in Centreville, by J. Frank Harper, Executor of the last will of Mrs. Dodd. The farm contains two hundred and eight acres and is one of the finest in the county.

Detectives from the Wilmington force came here on Thursday afternoon and took into custody Aaron Johnson, colored on the charge of running off with a car belonging to his employer in Milford and shipping to Chestertown. It is said that after taking the car which was sold to the colored man on condition that he pay something on it periodically which he failed to do, Johnson bought four new tires for the car which he had charged to his employer whose name could not be ascertained by Sheriff Hadaway who was not apprised of the arrest until after it was made. Johnson was taken to Wilmington for a hearing.

Charles N. Satterfield has purchased of Mr. and Mrs. Wm. E. Reed for $3,000 the residence on High street opposite the M. E. Church and adjoining the home of his parents. It is reported that this building is to be transformed into a business house for the local gas company.

DANIELS URGES SOUTH TO STAND BY THE DEMOCRATS

Says He Will Support Smith for Presidency and Fight When He Attempts to Change The Dry Laws; Will Not Attend Proposed Ashville Dry Meeting.

Declaring that he preferred to support Governor Smith for President and fight him in his attempt to influence Congress to weaken the prohibition law rather than to support the "party which has been as false to prohibition as it has been true to corruption," Josephus Daniels, former Secretary of the Navy, issued a statement just before leaving Houston for his home in Raleigh, N. C., calling on all Democrats to stand solidly behind the party's nominee.

Mr. Daniels stated he would not go to the conference called by Bishop Cannon and Arthur J. Barton, dry leaders, at Ashville, between July 1 and 14, "unless I go as a reporter."

"I have been a D. D. for forty-five years," Mr. Daniels said with a smile. "That means dry and Democratic. They have always gone together.

"I can't change the dry and I can't change my Democracy, even though Governor Smith's statement makes it somewhat difficult for a dry Democrat to accept his assumption of leadership for modification of the prohibition law.

"I deny that any leadership has been given him by the Democratic Party to do anything on prohibition except the declaration of the party in the platform, which pledged him to enforce the Eighteenth Amendment and all laws in pursuance thereof. This means the Volstead act and can mean nothing else.

"I do not deny his personal right to advocate modification of the Volstead act within the limits of what constitutes an intoxicating beverage. But neither Smith nor any other man has the right as long as the Eighteenth Amendments exists to stand for any change in the Volstead act unless he can show that the change proposed would not permit the sale or manufacture of anything intoxicating.

"Those people that think Congress has the power to change the content and permit the sale of anything that has a kick in it have never read the Supreme Court decision. The only way in which an appreciable change in the Volstead Act can be made to give more alcoholic content is to repeal the Eighteenth Amendment.

"Therefore, I shall support the Democratic ticket, confident that no opinion of Smith or Hoover, one or both of them, can secure the repeal of what Wilson called 'A Great Salutary Reform.'

"The primary duty of Democrats in the South and other sections is to stand by the ship and concentrate every effort in securing the election of a Democratic Senate and House which will give hearty support to Smith in every measure of reform on which we stand together. These measures are of paramount importance.

"But they should stand in Congress like a stone wall against any recommendation that Smith as President would make to modify the Prohibition Enforcement act.

"If elected Smith will find a solid Democracy behind him against privilege and corruption and for justice to the average man.

"But it is not in the stars that he can secure the support of the South and West to take a step back in pa- and West to take a step back in national prohibition or its enforcement.

"Holding these views, although I generally am in Ashville in July, I will not attend the conference called by Bishop Cannon unless I am called as reporter.

"However, I may drop in as a reporter, or to tell them that any steps taken by the dry Democrats there might aid in the election to condone corruption and graft.

"The conduct of the Coolidge administration in respect to prohibition enforcement, in my judgment, has inspired three-fourths of the opposition to prohibition which is due to the impotent, corrupt and ineffective conduct of the Republican administration. Failure to enforce the law has brought the law into disrepute.

"I prefer to support Smith, even if I do not agree with him in regard to his letter to the convention, and fight him in his attempt to influence Congress to weaken prohibition rather than to support a party which has been as false to prohibition as it has been as false to prohibition as it has been true to corruption."
