Kent's Grist Mills Thing of the Past

Motor cars have changed the mode of travel and put a crimp in the business of the village blacksmith. Another passing industry is the old grist mill with its swimming and fishing hole. It is interesting to recall the mills of early years. Today nearly all these centers of neighborhood gossip have been abandoned and even the ponds allowed to go out of existence. We recal the followisg:

Away up the county we find Dreka's Mill at Sassafras where Perry Othoson kept vigil. The old foundation is still there and pond, but no business is transacted.

H. E. Robinson owns Kennedy's Mill which later became a saw mill, located between Kent and Cecil. Water all drained out of pond.

Gooding's Mill between Galena and Georgetown.

Trink's Mill owned by S. G. Caldwell. Pond is no more.

Frank Sparks' Mill at Davis' Hill. Pond site now in tillage. Dr. James W. Urie sold the pond of Urieville to strangers some years ago. The mill has been abandoned for many years.

Riley's Mill was located at Goose Hill. Property now owned by Geo. E. Chaires. No pond.

George Noblett owns the mill at head of Still Pond Creek. It runs by steam and is up-to-date.

Then there is Moffett's or Parsons' Mill, Head of Churn Creek. It is called Montebello Lake formerly owned by a Mr. Wood, but the mill has been abandoned.

Whalend's Mill is owned by P. Medford Brooks, Chestertown. The pond is gone, but the plant is run by oil and is doing a fine business.

Bacchus' Mill near Fairlee is gone out of business but the pond is used for progagating fish by the State Conservation Commission.

Perry Price's Mill at St. Paul's, known as Connelly's Mill, is no more and the pond is dry. The house. there is used as a farm house.

Harry Price at Rock Hall and Mr. Berg in Piney Neck have grist mills but no ponds. They use gasoline.

Brice's Mill house has been torn down but the pond still retained.

At Millington, Higman's Mill is flourishing and the pond is in good condition.

At Peacock's Corner there was Turner's Mill, now site of church. The pond is used as power for an electric plant.

If any of the News readers can add in any way to the above data we would thank them to write us as we are anxious to get this information.

WHEAT HARVEST

H. D. Orem and Son have several "combines" at work near Chestertown and doing good work. They started at Frank Baxter's on the Skirven farm Thursday and will go to Herbert Lusby's, Will French, Wm. Toulson's and other farms in succession.

Local buyers are paying 52 cents.

Messrs. Leager, Rigby and Johnny Smith have threshed, but the wheat was somewhat tough. The yield was only fair.

As a means of lessening the cost of harvesting their wheat crop more than the usual number of growers in this county will use the combination cutter and thresher which is said to save the labor of a large number of men usually employed in the harvest fields, for the board of whom at threshing time a considerable outlay of money is necessary. The combine method of harvesting the crop in this county is costing 18 and 20 cents a bushel.

FIRST NEW WHEAT SOLD ON BALTIMORE MARKET

The first lots of new wheat of the season to reach the Baltimore Market were shown on the floor of the Baltimore Chamber of Commerce on Tuesday.

One consignment of 26 bushels to Cephus M. Lewis and Sons from J. B. McCarty, of Ottoman, Va., sold at $1.25 per bushel to Gustav Herzer and Son, members of the Chamber of Commerce, this constituting the first sale.

A larger lot of 100, consigned to Robinson and Jackson from Essex county, Va., was bought by C. J. Landers and Co., at $1 per bushel. All of the wheat exhibited unusually good, dry condition and well developed berry. Weight nearly 60 pounds to the bushel.

Last year the initial shipment of new wheat reached Baltimore on June 20 and sold at $1.50 per bushel, but on a much higher general market.

HOSPITAL TO REMAIN OPEN

A special meeting of the Kent County Public Health Association was called Tuesday evening, June 24, to confer with a number of County physicians concerning the continuation of the small Kent County Hospital during the summer months.

Plans had been made by the Health Association to close the hospital at the end of June but the demand thruout the county was so great for the removal of diseased tonsils and adenoids among school children that both the association and the physicians felt that some method of continuing the work could be worked out.

Parents having children in need of tonsillectomy are urged to make arrangements to have the operation during June, July and August in order that the child may enter school in the Fall in good condition.

The Chestertown Gas Co. has contracted with Mr. Effinger, the new lessor of the Voshell House to modernize the kitchen. A new range will supplant the coal stove and a Ruud boiler will furnish hot water to all the guests. W. L. Fowler will repaint the wood work and Messrs. L. Olivere and M. Pillagere make a through inspection of the plumbing. Other improvements will be inaugurated as soon as possible.

The theme of the dinner will be the proposed Products Show of Kent county products.

COLORED MAN DROWNED

Dan Vickers, a colored employe on new Chester bridge, was drowned yesterday. He slipped off while at work but the body was soon recovered and every effort made to resusicate him, but in vain. Coroner Dodd took charge of the body and it will be sent to his home in Wilson, N. C.

Immediately after the accident eight other men from the South left their jobs to seek other employment.

RAY REED SAVED FROM DROWNING

"Ray" Reed, the 13-year-old son of City Carrier and Mrs. Howard Reed, made a narrow escape from drowning shortly before noon Wednesday. The little fellow was crabbing off Chester bridge on the Queen Anne's side of the draw and while reaching for a crab, the board on which he was sitting, broke, throwing him into the river.

James Anthony saw his predicament and was soon in the water, closely followed by "Sonny" Brooks and John Wright, all pals. Swimming to the spot where Ray had disappeard young Anthony grabbed the drowning lad as he came to the surface for the third time. With the aid of Brooks Anthony was able to keep the water logged youngester afloat until a boat from the construction forces at work on the new river span pulled along side and took the rescued and rescuers from the water.

Carried to the bridge resusitation efforts were started at once by several colored men employed on the new span and much of the water that Ray had swallowed was pumped from the body. After these first efforts the lad was rushed to the office of Dr. Frank B. Hines, where further efforts at reviving the unconscious boy were carried on by Mrs. Hines and others pending the arrival of Dr. Hines with the inhalator from the Chestertown Volunteer Fire Company. The able efforts of the colored men, and those of the ladies, made it unnecessary to use the inhalator.

After being revived and having a badly skinned arm treated Ray was taken to the home of his parents, on Maple avenue, in the Kent county ambulance. He told of feeling the board crack and of his efforts to catch himself as he fell toward the water.

At this writing he has recovered his normal self but keeps away from the bridge.

SUMMER SCHEDULE FOR NEW LYCEUM

At the Chestertown New Lyceum Theatre Manager Emerson Russell has arranged his summer schedule of movies. There will be no movies on Monday and Tuesday nights, but on Wednesday Thursday, Friday and Saturday nights special fine pictures have been booked.

TRAPS FOR BEETLES

Traps of the Federal Government have begun a campaign for inspection in the flower and vegetable gardens in the town and county for the purpose of determining whether there are any Japanese beetles lurking around.

An inspection made last summer resulted, it is said, in finding only two of the bags in Chestertown, both of which were said to have been brought here in baskets of fruit sent from other States, while so far as is known none was found in the country districts. Nevertheless, Kent county has been included in the Eastern Shore quarantine area along with other counties.

It is said that because of the serious drought which is affecting all kinds of vegetation fewer pests have been seen in this county than usual.

The Rock Hall Volunteer Fire Co. has selected July 31st to August 9th for their carnival dates.

Democratic Meeting Endorses Ticket

A large and enthusiastic Democratic meeting was held Tuesday night last at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Paul C. Massey, near Chestertown. All were unanimous that the "get-together" movement was a splendid idea and representatives from every district pledged their support for all the candidates on the "Harmony Ticket."

Charles F. Wheatley, a member of the Democratic State Central Committee, called the meeting to order, after which Harrison W. Vickers, Esq., was elected chairman. Remarks were made by nearly everyone present from Senator S. Scott Beck right down the line of all the candidates on the "Harmony Ticket."

All predicted that the ticket as agreed on would win and arrangemens were made at once for an active campaign for the nomination and election of the whole ticket from top to bottom.

The meeting elected Harrison W. Vickers, Senator S. Scott Beck and W. B. Usilton to take charge of the campaign and a local committee of six members will be named in every precinct of the county to assist this committee.

The next general meeting of candidates, committees and all Democrats was agreed to be held at Mr. Paul C. Massey's on Tuesday, July 8 at 7.30 P. M.

LUMBER DEALERS AT BETTERTON

Three outstanding lumber concerns of Kent county are being managed by the third generation, dating from the founders of the firms, it was revealed by Alwyn M. Culp, of Chestertown, president of the Tri-State Lumberman's Association at the annual meeting and banquet of the organization held in Betterton Saturday at the Hotel Rigbie.

Over one hundred members, representing large lumber factories and wholesale and retail business houses in Pennsylvania, Maryland and Delaware, attended the meeting which was addressed by Theodore R. McKeldin, of Baltimore.

The welcoming address was delivered by Howard Turner, of Betterton, secretary of the Association and President Alwn M. Culp acted as toastmaster. The dinner followed a business session in the morning.

Ellsworth Leary, of Rock Hall, Howard Turner, of Betterton, and James Woodall, of Georgetown, this county are all conducting as managing ownership of lumber concerns founded by their grandfathers and which have been successfully conducted for nearly a century, the presiding officer stated.

A musical program arranged by Mrs. James T. Eliason, Jr., of New Castle, Del., and Mrs. Samuel Dillon, of Wilmington, was a feature of the program. Representatives of the Association from Kennett Square, West Chester, Chester, Philadelphia, Wilmington, New Castle, Middletown, Dover, Chestertown and other cities of the Delmarvia Peninsula were present.

Miss Justine Woodall, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James E. Woodall, Jr., of Georgetown, Md., who was recently graduated from St. Mary's Hall-on-the-Delaware, Burlington, N. J., was awarded the prize which was given to the girl who has best represented by her life in school the ideals of good citizenship.

The Chestertown Volunteer Fire Company Band of 41 pieces has accepted an invitation from the management of station WFBP, Baltimore, to broadcast a concert on June 29, from 2 to 3, daylight saving time. The first appearance of this band on the air was on May 23, when they broadcast a concert from WDEL, Wilmington. The organization will go to Baltimore on Sunday morning, under the direction of Bandmaster C. Arthur Bacon, and following the concert will return by the late evening ferry.

LIGHTNING STRIKES BARN

The storm which visited this section Thursday evening was accompanied by terrific wind and lightning. The rain was badly needed and came at the close of a long drought and terminated a heat wave which sent the mercury up close to 100.

Lightning struck a building on James P. Brown's farm in Queen Anne's and it with two other structures were burned. This farm is tenanted by Ernest Brown. The loss is partially covered by $850 insurance. The loss includes cow stable, horse stable, shed, calf and hog.

The Board of County Commissioners will shortly award a contract for building a slag road from the village of Sassafras in the upper section of the county to Coldwell, a distance of two miles.
