LOOKS LIKE 90 CENT WHEAT

It is discouraging to growers of wheat to learn that experts in the Chicago market see not only one dollar wheat, but read the present bearish movement in the grain pit of the mid-west to mean 90-cent wheat before the new crop is harvested. It can only be hoped these prophets may be discredited by the market of the next few weeks, but there seems little ground for such optimism. The Grain Stabilizing Corporation is paying $1 a bushel, or at best an inconsiderable fraction more for wheat but it sees no chance of maintaining the price above that sum while the situation points to the liklihood of grain dropping to 90 cents a bushel in Chicago or 82 or 83 cents net for Eastern Shore farmers.

Evidently our government's effort to steady the price of grain has fallen flat, a fact that is now conceded despite the sincerity of Congress to assists our tiller of the soil. It is recorded that our foreign market is almost closed to our grain because of the large crops in the wheat areas of the old world, and there seems little that the American farmer can do about it. He is admonished to plant only half the usual acreage, but even then he sends his products to an over-stocked market.

Members of the Chestertown Volunteer Fire Company Band are enthusiastic over the reception accorded them in Wilmington over radio station WDEL last Friday evening. The band was under the direction of Professor C. Arthur Bacon.

The "Joy Boat" now at Georgetown, Md., is probably the largest boat ever to dock in the Sassafras river. Every man, woman and child is astonished and amazed at the magnitude of it. Going through the craft is an education in itself, and in order to form some idea we quote a few figures supplied by Captain Leyare: Length 285 feet, width 45 feet, and 11 feet draft. The ship is constructed of Oregon pine and has five decks (originally eight) and contains 5000 square feet of floor space. The "Joy Boat" was formerly the steamship "Manhanna" and was launched in the Spring of 1919 at Portland, Oregon. As the Armistice was signed November 11, 1918, the "Mahanna" became a ship of peace and was taken to Baltimore and laid up at Crooks ship yard. There Capt. Leyare first saw and inspected her in the summer of 1925, shortly thereafter purchasing the boat. It is gradually being converted and when completed will be known as the largest floating chautauqua, "Glad Way," theatre, restaurant, club house and billboard. The boat is open to the public.

A committee of local citizens under the direction of Miss Zella Newcomb, representative of the New York Herald Tribune, have organized for the purpose of finding hospital homes in Chestertown, Fairlee, Rock Hall and Worton, for children who are sent out from New York City.

These children of the tenements are the future citizens of this country; they will help make or break its laws. Our own children, and these children face the problem of living together. The local organization feels sure Kent county will do its part to help them become better citizens and to give them better health and a royal good time as well.

Mrs. Thomas Massey who has been active in public health and social service work in Kent for a number of years, has accepted the chairmanchip of the orgonization with Mrs. Barclay Kilbourne as vice-chairman and Mrs. Nell C. Westcott, secretary.

"Taylor's Ranch" which was recently purchased by Eugene duPont, has been completely renovated and remodeled. Mr. duPont had more than fifty men working there for several weeks. Frank Duyer was the contracting carpenter. Wm. L. Fowler and force did the painting and Leonard C. Needles had charge of the wall decorations.

If you care for fine movies the New Lyceum is showing first class pictures.

Thanksgiving Day For Roads of Kent

The above title is that given Monday to the celebration of the completion of good roads in Kent county by Dr. Paul E. Titsworth, President of the Chamber of Commerce. It is indeed a time for thanksgiving and hundreds join in giving expression to this thought.

The celebration marked the climax of one of the most pretentious schemes of road building ever undertaken by way of the Maryland counties, and officials from other States were given an opportunity to inspect at least a part of the one hundred miles of new roads which have been completed.

Marion deK. Smith was chairman of the committee from the Kent County Chaber of Commerce and the other committee chairman in charge of the affair were Dr. Paul E. Titsworth, program; A. S. Turner, Jr., touring; H. C. Willis, reception; Jesse D. Maxwell and Mrs. William L. Fowler, entertainment; Mrs Nell C. Westcott, publicity; Conlyn E Noland, grounds, and S. L. Dorf decoration. The Chestertown Volunteer Fire Company Band furnished good music for the occasion.

Kent county was held up as a model for other counties of the State because of the scheme by which it had put its road system ten years ahead of other sections, in the address by Governor Ritchie.

To achieve this, the county underwrote a $1,000,000 bond issue, authorized by the last Legislature, with arrangements to meet the retirement of the principle by the allotments to come to Kent from the State roads funds in the future, while the county tax funds will care for the interest.

It was this plan to which the Governor alluded in his address of congratulation, after a tour in which the guests inspected each type of road constructed.

The tour, covering about fifteen miles, included some of the 16-foot concrete roads built within the last years, others now having 9-foot concrete surfaces which will be widened as funds become available to be 17-foot roads in the future, and also some of the slag roads 20 feet wide.

Of the million-dollar total, $900,000 wasdevoted to hard -surface construcion, while the remainder $100,000 was used for building the slag roads. By this division it was possible to carry out the 100-mile program, which virtually completed the lateral-road system within the county borders.

The observance began in the morning with reception of former residents of Kent county, now living in Baltimore, and other places, who returned to Chestertown for the occasion, and other guests. The general reception was held in the court house yard, and among the guests were representatibes of Eastern Shore counties.

State officials accompanied Governor Ritchie from Annapolis on the State steamer Governor McLane, which took them to Rock Hall, and from there they came to Chestertown by automobile.

With the Governor were E. Brooke Lee, Speaker of the House of Delegates; Ambrose J. Kennedy, State Senator and State Parole Commissioner; Brig.-Gen. Milton A. Reckord, odjutant-general of Maryland; Clinton G. Uhl, chairman of the State Roads Commission, and Harry D. Williar, chief engineer for the commission.

After the arrival of the Governor and his party the inspection tour started and upon its completion the special guests were entertained at an informal luncheon in the Washington College gymnasium, which was served by the women of the By-Kota Club of the M. E. Church.

More than 1,000 Kent county residents and guests attended the final ceremony, at which addresses by some of the visitors were interspersed with music by the Chestertown Volunteer Fire Department Gand.

Paul E. Titsworth, president, of Washington College and president of the Kent County Chamber of Commerce, which was instrumental in bringing about the road program, presided. He introduced Senator S. Scott Beck as toastmatser and Senator Beck did the honors in his usual fine manner.

Governor Ritchie also alluded to the proposed Chesapeake Bay Bridge, which would have its Eastern Shore terminus in this county, as a "boon to the community."

Mr. Williar, who congratulated the countians on their initiative, recalled that as a district supervisor he had helped lay out the road between Chestertown and Kennedyville, the first to be built in Kent county under the first good roads bill of the State, passed during the administration of Governor Crothers.

All along the Good Roads Tour the residents warmly greeted the visitors. This was especially noticeable at the schools and at Worton Station where a large banner was stretched across the road with "Welcome" on it. The school at Worton also had an original song which they sung in fine gusto.

Among the newspaper visitors were Henry Wilkinson and wife of the Caroline Sun, Ridgely; Dr. E. J. Clarke, Pocomoke, Worcester Demacrat; S. Charles Walls, Centreville Observer; Col. James C. Wickes, of Dover State News; Gen. James Taylor, correspondent Morning News, Wilmington.

Visitors from Cecil were Senator Cecil Clyde Squier, J. Wilson Squier. Frank Harris, Albert C. Winchester, John H. Terrell, Murray, J. Ewing, James T. McCoy, Wm. D. Ewing, J. Wesley McAllister and Wallace Williams.

On Tuesday, April 30th, 1929, the citizens committee, appointed at the first general road meeting, composed of Messrs. H. C. Willis, Chairman; Leonard Wilson, Jesse D. Maxwell, G. E. Leary, Wm. T. Brown, Harry Hill and M. deK. Smith, Jr., met with the County Commissioners, Messrs. Johnson, Jones and Wood, in the court house to decide on what roads should be improved in the county as outlined in the two Bond bills.

The concrete roads will be immediately taken over by the State for maintenance. The slag roads will be maintained by the county.

ROBT. R. AYRES CONVICTED

The case of Robert R. Ayres, on trial in Circuit Court on an indictment charging him with the larceny of more than $5,800 from the University of Maryland School of Medicine, [illegible] went to the jury yesterday in Baltimore and he was convicted on 5 of the 7 charges.

After calling two witnesses to the stand Thursday the State rested and the defense swung into action.

The money was discovered to be missing April 28, when Ayres reported the safe had been robbed. At the time he was chief clerk in the office of the medical school.

Detective George W. Bryan, the first State witness, testified that when he went to the school in response to the robbery alarm, he found everything intact.

John A. Strong, watchman at the institution, testified that Ayres worked late the night of April 7, and that after the clerk had left, he tried all doors leading in and found them locked.

Harry Price, Assistant State's Attorney, called by the defense, said that on October 1, 1929, he went over Ayres' books and found they tallied with the cash he had deposited.

CHESTERTOWN ROTARY CLUB

At the regular meeting Monday night of the Chestertown Rotary Club at Maryland Inn the speaker of the evening was Rev. E. A. Sexsmith. He gave a fine talk. Several visitors were present.

Arrangements have about been completed for the annual inter-city meeting of the Rotary Clubs of Chestertown, Chesterville, Elkton and Denton which will be held this year on Friday evening, June 6th, at the Hotel Tolchester, Tolchester Beach. The program is in charge of the Centreville Rotarians.

Governor Albert C. Ritchie has been announced as the principal speaker of the gathering of the Rotarians from four counties.

Under auspices of the Betterton Troop of Boy Scouts a Chestertown Troop has been organized under direction of the Wilmington Council and sponsored by the local American Legion post. Elmer Thomas, Betterton scoutmaster, directed the initiation. The troop committee has been named as follows: J. T. Kibler, C. Lee Gill, Brown Betcalfe, Philip G. Vollmer, Graham Nelson and CommanderRolph Townsend of the Legion post.
