Keep the Roads Drained. Water, not cold, is the cause of the deterioration of roads in winter, according to the road specialist of the department. Cold weather does not in itself injure roads, no matter whether they are earth, gravel, or macadam. In fact, an earth road will stand more traffic when it is solidly frozen than at any other time. Excess water, however, is always detrimental to a highway. When cold weathoccupies considerably more space than

Ice the water from which it is formed, and every person who has lived in a cold climate is familiar with the powerful freeze in a confined vessel. The same action takes place when a wet road freezes to any considerable depth. It simply bursts, or, as we generally term it in road parlance, the road heaves. Later when the frost leaves, the road is disintegrated and ruts badly. If this process is repeated a number of times. during the winter, a gravel or macadam road may be practically destroyed, while
