The Baltimore Sun says that Walter Sorrell and three other colored men are preparing themselves to stump Southern Maryland in the interest of the Democrats, and address themselves to the large colored element in that congressional district.

The new comet and the bench afford excellent fields for contemplation by some of the would be judges in this circuit. The comet and the judgeship are equally distant from them, but people will gaze at long range at objects they hardly hope ever to know much about from a close inspection.

It is said that in two districts in Pennsylvania, Republicans have decided to support Democratic candidates for Judges of the courts, and in one district the Democrats have decided to support a Republican for the same office. This looks as if honesty and fitness were to be regarded by the people.

The convention which assembled in Denton last Tuesday was a representative body of Democrats, who did creditable work. Their selections of the Congressional and judicial delegations are gentlemen known for their honesty and integrity, and that is the only guarantee worth any thing to those who are sent to speak for.

The Congressional convention which met at Easton re-nominated by acclamation, on motion Thos. K. Robson, Hon. George W. Covington. The proceedings of the convention were marked by entire unanimity. Afterwards the delegates were invited to the residence of Mr. J. Frank Turner, where a bountiful collation was served.

If the "little election" in Delaware, which generally forecasts the result at the succeeding election in November, points as a true index this year, the Democrats bid fair to hold the State. While New Castle county, which blows first one way then the other, showed considerable Republican strength, both Kent and Sussex elected Democratic assessors and inspectors. A slight advantage for the November contest was gained by the Republicans in securing a majority of inspectors in Wilmington.

HERBERT the comets have been very considerate. Knowing how they were with themselves when they were young, they have been in the habit of being visible at such hours of the night as midnight, or thereabouts—as to give good excuse for sweatshirts, to keep late hours for the purpose of studying astronomy, &c., &c. But the new comet which is now converting towards the earth is a totally different sort of fellow. He is such a curdumson as to care nothing for young lovers and their courtships. For he persists in not putting in his appearance until about half an hour before sunrise; and it is manifestly impossible for even the lovingest of lovers to sit up that late—or even to get up that early.

Business men will be interested in a decision by the New York Court of Appeals relative to certified checks. Suit was brought by a broker against a bank to enforce the payment of a certified check of $2,540, which had been "raised" from a check of $254 of the proper certification. The bank officials assumed the position that though the certification was confessedly genuine they were not responsible for more than the amount lawfully and actually due on the check. The court sustained this view, holding that a certification means simply that the signature of the check is genuine, that the money is in the bank to meet it, and that the bank will not pay out money on other checks, but it is not a guarantee that the check has not been "raised."

The Voice of the People. A deep and intense interest is felt in the judicial nominations to be made at Chestertown on Wednesday next.

In the nomination and election of judges for this circuit our people are more interested now than in any other political question. The rights of property, our political, not partisan, rights are centered and fixed on our judges or courts. The delegates elect to the convention, the most of them, are well known, true, and honorable and capable men, and we may confidently expect good work at their hands—nominations of that character. The people are in earnest, and expect and demand for these high, important and responsible positions the very best material obtainable. These questions are now uppermost in their minds and hearts: Is he honest? Is he capable? Has he been tried? When these are answered, all are answered, if answered affirmatively.

It is not a party that is asking these questions; it is the people of both parties, and all classes, for all are alike interested. These questions have been asked and definitely, positively and affirmatively answered in the election of delegates in Talbot, Caroline, Queen Anne and Kent counties, four out of the five in the circuit. In Cecil it is contended how the people have spoken, as the battle at the primaries was a hotly contested one and fought on a side issue. At present we learn both sides claim the victory. However that may be, the people of this judicial circuit beyond all doubt have spoken unmistakably and with singular unanimity, in four counties of the five, all for the old bench.

Judge Stump's Position.

We believe it to be the wisest thing the convention which comes together next Wednesday can do to renominate the old bench entire. Since it has become known that there is a hitch, real or fancied, in the placing of Judge Stump on the ticket, there has been a rush for the judicial race course, and some men of vast judicial requirements and others of doubtful fitness have entered themselves in a regular go-as-you-please. When it was thought there was no doubt about the nomination of the present judges, all parties seemed satisfied, and we were spared the fear of any small man getting on the bench; but now the hope of personal benefit has begun to show itself in the appearance of a number of men who argue against the propriety of taking up Judge Stump. There is no stronger argument than the fact why Judge Stump should be placed on the ticket along with Judges Robinson and Wickes. His nomination will complete a ticket that stands so high in the estimation of the people that nothing can defeat it.

Judge Stump's affirmative strength, his personal popularity, rank and reputation for integrity, point to him as the right man. In saying this we are mindful that he will stand before the convention in a peculiar position. In his own county he was beaten, his rival, Mr. Cruikshank, having carried five out of the nine districts. The Judge had, however, a large popular majority in his county. It is well understood that the contest in Cecil was not over the judgeship so much as for the advantage other parties should obtain for their future aspirations. While this is a fact, Judge Stump's friends claim to have fought his battle only on the fitness of his going on the bench. His popularity in Cecil is strongly attested when this is remembered.

Four Million Dollar Steal.

Attorney General Brewster, in a recent address before the State Bar Association of New York, said that the Star Route stealer amounted to not less than four million dollars. All this was under fraudulent Hayes, and known to him and his advisers. A good portion was diverted to electing Garfield and Arthur. The Attorney General said there were still twenty-three indictments undisposed of. Alluding to the divided jury in the recent case, he said:

"Many men declare that if such things could be done they had better have no jury at all, but he did not agree with them. He believed it only a demerit of the usefulness of juries, for from the evil consequence here exposed there is a moral reaction and a moral judgment that those who undertook the corrupting process, will never escape from them. The liberties of this people were secured by themselves, but they had been maintained and declared by the lawyers, and they would be to an end. The liberties of the people would pass away when courts of justice ceased to be places where men go to have their rights and duties determined. The day they allowed party feeling or personal interest to enter the Court house, would be the only day when the liberties of the people would perish. It is to such men as compose the State Bar Association that they must look for the maintenance and perpetuity of American institutions. As long as there were lawyers in America there was no danger of these liberties perishing."

That Obituary Again.

Some of the Republican papers are weak enough to suppose "the Republican victory in Maine has so demoralized the Democrats that they will never recover." How many times since 1860 has the Democratic party been advertised as "hopelessly demoralized," only to come up in the next campaign stronger and more vigorous than before? How many times has the Democratic party been reported "dead," only to reappear in the next struggle a more formidable opponent than it was before it died? How often and how deep has the old party been "buried," "buried" only to rise before its adversary at the next call a stronger, healthier, braver and more aggressive foe than it was before the burying took place? How many times has the Democratic party listened to its own funeral sermons preached from Republican pulpits, and laughed at the weak credulity of the preachers and their flocks? As the years go on and the Democratic party continues to decline to stay "dead," it may possibly occur to the front-bench brethren on the other side to inquire what is the secret of this incomparable vitality, this unparalleled tenacity of life. Should they enter on this line of inquiry, and prosecute their investigation in good faith, with an honest desire for truth, they will learn that what is sustained by principle, cannot be destroyed by one, that, having survived the inspirations of its earlier years, is subsisting on and living for itself. And when the investigators have taken their time for study and reflection will be compelled to respect the party that, for more than twenty years, has stood firm and grown stronger all the time while all that tempts men to be false to their convictions has been on the other side of the fence; while honors and emoluments have utterly failed to lure them from the way in which their convictions of duty commanded them to walk.—W. Post.

A DISINTERESTED OPINION.

Views of Col. Clement Sullivan as to the Judiciary Candidates.

Having been interviewed by a reporter of the JOURNAL, as to his views on the recent political events in this judicial circuit, as they affect the whole judiciary for the next fifteen years, Col. Clement Sullivan, editor of the Cambridge Chronicle and a prominent member of the Dorchester bar, had no hesitation in expressing a most decided opinion. "It is an opinion," modestly began the Colonel, "I am well aware, that is entitled to no weight in your circuit, and the further fact that it has been the unanimous opinion of all men with whom I have conversed on both sides of the bay in reference to your judiciary election, does not entitle the same to much more weight, because every organized community has, under our democratic system, the exclusive right to judge for itself what is best for its own local affairs."

"But being asked, I will answer, and with absolute disclaimer, as I said, I will say that, in my judgment, and looking to the real interests of your bench and to the interests of the Democratic party in Maryland (second only to the former), your delegates from Kent to Caroline should vote for Robinson, Wickes, and Stump as democratic nominees for your next judges. My reasons I will with entire frankness state, in answer to your questions. "First, I have learned, not only from conversation with various gentlemen from Kent down to Caroline inclusive, but from the expressions of newspapers (supposed to speak the public mind), and further still from the expression of the popular will at the polls, that four of the five counties are a unit in their desire to retain the present judiciary system of which they have made a fifteen years' trial, and at least a popular majority has been expressed in the fifth county. "Second, that notwithstanding the fact that Mr. Cruikshank carried Cecil county against Judge Stump, and against not only him, but the almost universal sentiment of the circuit, as evinced in a hundred forms, it is generally believed, justly or unjustly, that the election in Cecil was a faction fight between Mr. Constable for Congress and his enemies for that position, and the outside counties in the judicial circuit are not locally interested in a side issue to that county, but of the very greatest interest to the other counties of the circuit. "Third, the unanimous voice of four of five counties as to their judges should be conclusive, even as to the dissenting fifth, under any democratic or republican system. "Fourth, it is threatened, I understand, that if the four counties undertake to express their views and the views of their constituents, in convention assembled at Chestertown, that Mr. Constable will, with his friends, undertake to elect divers Republicans as judges of the Second Circuit against the nominees of their choice. This last reason would, if true, be with me controlling to resist. I do not believe it. I have too much respect for Mr. Constable (whom I know but slightly, but whose general character I greatly admire), and too much sincere and personal regard and esteem for Mr. Cruikshank (whom I have known long and well, and consider the equal of any man in this peninsula in all that goes to make up a scholar and a gentleman), to believe any such calumny. They are both Maryland gentlemen. They are both as bound by honor when they go into a convention. They both have a bright political future before them. Mr. Albert Constable is a present and formidable competitor for a Democratic nomination to Congress in the Second District (equivalent to an election), and a prospective formidable candidate against all comers for the next U. S. Senator. He is not even worthy of consideration as either, if he is capable of even thinking of such folly and vice. He stultifies himself at once on both sides of the Chesapeake. Mr. Cruikshank I know personally to be incapable of either vice or folly, and that is the end of my opinion. Those gentlemen named in Cecil carried their point and with it named delegates to both Congressional and judicial conventions. They have both kept perfect faith with each other and their respective friends. They have done all they could. The result is that Mr. Constable may or may not with his Cecil delegation go to Congress (and I earnestly hope he will if Talbot can't go back, but I hope the latter for this one time more), but must take his chances; and Mr. Cruikshank with his Cecil delegation will with absolute certainty get a vote in the circuit, and the sole question is the nomination of Stump versus some third man from Talbot—Gibson, Bateman, Seth—leaves or imposes, and probably the devil will finally take them all, including my friends, Mr. Cruikshank and Mr. Constable, without their very speedily reform their respective careers in life; unless they propose to link their political fortunes with the Republican party, and as matters stand the same is about a half way station to the above's place of business. "I mean to say, that as an original Sacksoonian Democrat, I would rather than yield to threat, actual, personal, political, direct or implied, suffer defeat at the polls at the hands of an enemy who threatened me, as readily as three thousand years ago your and my and their ancestors fought with bloody hand for the same political control. Stamp on the earth and let Cadmus and his band arise! We Democrats have a popular control in this country, State, district and judicial circuit. Let us maintain it, and if individuals have other thoughts, let them go. We present the best, as against the ephemeral, triumphs of all time."
