CHURCH DOINGS.

Presiding Elder Corkran Writes of His Visit to Kent.

In my "going to and fro on the earth" I came on May 20th to Millington, where Dr. Waddell has charge. I found the work in good condition. All the departments are well manned. As in some other places greater diligence should be given to the finances early in the year and thus be able to defy blizzards or anything else that may come later in the year. The pastor is planning to raise the Benevolences early and seeking to direct all the activities of the churches toward a great revival. The old Mallalieu Mills have been restored much to the gratification and financial interest of the whole community. The purpose is to operate abour 200 looms, employing some 80 men and women.

From Millington I drove to Crumpton, down the river six miles. Here I found a good Quarterly Conference. The spirit of the officials and the outlook for the work are very gratifying. After investigating the matter to the best of my ability I was fully convinced that both Chestertown and Union were at a disadvantage because of their relation, so Union was set over to Crumpton in order that certain needs might be met, and Chesterville was also detached from Worton because of its great distance from that point and united with Crumpton, thus making Crumpton a four appointment circuit with preaching every Sunday morning at Union and every Sunday evening at Crumpton. The salary was estimated at $700. Union generously taking more than she has formerly paid and giving assurance to better things as she develops. Bro. Bloxton, the new pastor, a man of native force, splendid acquirements, good sense, unusual knowledge of human nature, intense industry and consecration, is consentrating all his forces on his work and there is a very hearty response all around. Three of the churches have adopted the Reynolds system of finance with the endorsement of the people. Union Church is being repapered, repainted and recarpeted with other minor improvements. It is expected that the work of a similar kind will begin on the Crumpton Church very soon, and Double Creek will make considerable improvement a little later. With such a leader and such co-operation as these people will give, Crumpton begins her new life with splendid promise.

NON-CHURCH-GOING MEN.

They are Living in Their Lower Natures; Probably Immoral and Corrupt Lives.

Rev. Edward McGlynn, D. D., writing on "What is the Good of Going to Church?" in the June Ladies' Home Journal, says "it is a good thing to go to church, because religion is a good thing—in fact, the best and greatest thing in the world; and the church is peculiarly the home of religion and of its expression in worship. The men who do not go to church need most the good thing the church would give them. They are living in their lower natures—lives, at best, of refined or aesthetic animalism, but more probably immoral, corrupt and sensual. Loss of religion, or lukewarmness in it, results commonly from violations of the moral law—from the loss of honesty, chastity or sobriety. Honest, not hypocritical, church-going would bring men back to virtue and piety through instruction, prayer and worship, through purifying sacraments, and strengthening sacraments, and through sympathy, good example and mutual help. Right reason teaches the imortality of the soul, the existence of God, the filial relation of man to God, and the moral law graven on men's hearts by the Creator. Right reason also teaches that obedience to the moral law is necessary for man's happiness here and hereafter, and for the best good of human society. Therefore if there were no Christian revelation nor Christian church at all, wise and true men would form ethical and religious societies, to have the aid of associations in the greatest of all concerns."

MARRIED, NOT BURIED.

Mistake in Wording a Telegram Plunged Groom's Family Into Grief.

POUGHKEEPSIE, N. Y., May 24.—The home of John McIntyre was plunged into grief on Tuesday evening upon the receipt of a telegram from Wallaceburg, Canada, which read:

"Edmond McIntyre will be buried Thursday. Come as many as possible."

The telegram was signed by a person whom the parents thought must be an undertaker, the news spread rapidly and the local newspapers published long obituaries.

McIntyre's father and two brothers started for Canada to bring home the body. An undertaker was engaged. Mrs. McIntyre and her daughter purchased mourning apparel.

Another telegram was received today from the father, who had reached Wallaceburg and found his son alive and well. The father's message said:

"Telegram wrong. Edmond will be married Thursday. Stop crying and be happy.

The first telegram was sent by the best man.
