Democratic Reform.

"By their fruits," is the character index proposed in the Book of Wisdom. As the tree is known by its fruit, the man is known by his works. It is the fruit that we seek for—the work, that which in fact has been accomplished. From this we learn the man—who it is we deal with—and we also may reasonably expect, given the man, to know the course of his work. For as the tree is known by its fruit, so may we, knowing our tree, expect a given character or quality of fruit. Figs from figs, and thistles from thistles; thorns from themselves, and a vintage only from the vine. Applying an analogous rule to the present political condition, can we fall to expect from a tried Reform leader anything in the future other than in the past, true and thorough Reform? In what other way can we reach reliable conclusions as to the future? Nothing can enable us to arrive at so satisfactory and assuring results. We can trust those who have been truly tried. Have we a leader who has safely conducted us through the din of conflict and planted our banner on the "outer wall," and shall we not expect him to enter with us into perfect victory and a triumph that shall raise our colors on the citadel itself? And then what? Will the rank and file desert their leader when they have reasons to trust him best of all? Has he fought at their head? His sword has been drawn with theirs and for them, and in their cause he has led to a triumph that is yet to widen its sphere until the glad shout ascends throughout the entire ranks. At such a time is the leadership to be changed? Is the victory half won, to be thrown away? Can we expect this course to be pursued by citizens at the polls any more than by soldiers in the field?

But do we really want Reform—are the people decided in this? The Prophet, readest thou the signs of the times? What mean those low rumblings, like the distant rumble of thunder? What that gathering in the distance of dark and angry clouds? Is a storm arising? Look well then to your shelters. Make sure the roof is tight. The old roof-tree has protected you thro' many a howling blast and beating storm; desert it not for an untried and uncertain shelter. The Democratic party has afforded them some years a safe retreat and welcome shelter; seek not its destruction for frivolous and trifling reasons. Are some of its passages infested with the dust and cobwebs of time and neglect? Are some of its apartments foul or uncleanly? Let the timely operation of a thorough house-cleaning be set on foot, and let the dirt and rubbish and all fifth and uncleanisms be swept to the winds. Make the operation thorough as could be desired. Scour each corner and crevice until the most complaining are satisfied. After all we cannot make our home too clean. Let the great broom of Reform be used most liberally. Let it sweep each apartment from garret to cellar. Make a genuine and faithful sweep of it. Sweep out the chronic office-seeker. Sweep off the old corner spiders that are webbing up our fair and noble edifice and disfiguring it with their loathsome booty!

Surely the people of Maryland do want reform; do they not? Do they not want the masses of the Democratic party wifed? Do they not want their grand old party home destroyed—brought to wreck and ruin about their heads, and all because of the cobwebs that hang in dusty festoons upon its walls—or for the reason that its corners are closed and dingy chambers and foul odors have arisen. Throw open its windows, let the pure air sweep through its compartments, and the sunlight, before which the flitting bat and wild spider and all that is noxious and loathsome must retreat, will bring with it a healthier atmosphere and a better home. Surely the people who were led by Jefferson and wherein the great and trustworthiness of the olden time have gathered—surely here, we the sons, aspiring to no higher pinnacle of fame or truth or grander achievement than these won and represented, here we may now assemble and give help to each other's heads and hope to each other's hearts.

Let severe silence hush those bickering. Let honest shame make void and the heart that cherishes its burning discord. Yes, let us agree—let us harmonize—let us be as one. The fact is acknowledged that the Democratic party has declared for Reform, and a hopeless task; away with the thought! Awake and to the front, ye legions! Make up for lost time. Sooner or later the great issue must bear you on, either buoyant on the crest of the wave or drowned beneath it. The great surge shall surely sweep your triumph or sign your repulse! Which shall it be?

A NOVELTY in Methodist worship was introduced Sunday at the Mount Vernon Place Methodist Episcopal Church in Baltimore, of which the Rev. C. E. Feltton is pastor. During the morning services responses were recited by the congregation, who also recited the Psalter and Apostles' Creed. The congregation and trustees of the church, it is said, alike favor the change.

There will be service in the Reformed Church at Ridgely to-morrow at the usual hour.

Governor Hamilton.

An editorial article appears in the last issue of the DENTON JOURNAL which awards high praise to Governor Hamilton for his retirement and reform accomplished during his administration, and plainly indicates a desire for his re-nomination. He is regarded by the writer as a man of strong individuality; truthful, vigorous and determined, and utterly indifferent to popularity and success. In fact, the JOURNAL declares such tactics are unknown to him, and it says, "we might say that he is a man of high character, and that he has stung many people; but insists that he has no sting." Such advocacy as this has at least the merit of seeming frankness, and if all the JOYFUL claims for the Governor is true we can readily comprehend why honest men might desire a continuance of his administration, though, even at that event, we should be loath to understand why certain dishonest men are trying to bring it about by treacherous and intriguing means. Though we do not regard a human hand as exactly the thing necessary to the bringing together in common of the various factions of Maryland politicians, or to the promotion of that unity of sentiment amongst the masses of the party that will assure the success of the present leaders of the latter still choose to quarrel, we nevertheless do appreciate the truthfulness and integrity are qualities so essential to a candidate that we can understand a willingness, such as that indicated by the JOURNAL, to forgive defects of temper for the sake of securing the more important qualities, and we therefore re-echo its advocacy of Governor Hamilton's nomination as an entirely proper thing for a Democratic Journal to do which believes that course best for the interests of the party of the State. If enough people share this view, the Governor's nomination will be the party's choice, and will, as its candidate, receive the support of every man and woman who is a Democrat in principle. The JOURNAL advocates him, however, without attempting to strike down every Democrat who has taken office since the Democratic principle confessed—Baltimore.

Our esteemed contemporary, "The Day," of Baltimore city, has favored THE JOURNAL with so flattering an editorial complimenting the conservative position we have assumed on State politics, that we feel compelled to make our best bow of thanks. City and country in general disposed to be very attentive to their country cousins; so we feel disposed to credit "The Day" with a laudable disposition to recognize the fact that "blood is thicker than water" in the Democratic family. We trust that the good feeling will hereafter manifest itself in hearty co-operation on the part of the Democratic press in maintaining fraternal feeling and harmony throughout. This is what, most of all, the Democratic press needs at this time. Let bickering cease. Let us cease, too, to be the organs of any man or set of men, to the exclusion of principles, and henceforth heartily endeavor to do our duty by speaking an honest word to the entire household of our Maryland Democracy. We want a unity of purpose in conducting the opening campaign. Let us get right and keep so. It is most important.

We may differ in our views as to the selection of the individual who shall most thoroughly voice the wishes of the people, and many of them may be the best and other may find cause to espouse the cause of another. We have the right to differ, but let us do so in wisdom; and, as the time draws near for us to take the more accurate and final observation of our course and the compass needle which has been agitated so long, as it is so unsettled by the presence of some unseen loadstone, some powerful but undetermined disturbance, finally settles upon the bearing that we must register as the one proper to be taken, then let us to a man direct our course along the line ascertained to be correct; thereafter without a variation of compass from the finally corrected line of direction, or a lagging or a struggle in pursuit of the common object—success!

The publisher of the Beaver Falls, Pa., Courier, Mr. Jno. F. Porter, sends us a copy of a severe cold. He says: "I tried several different remedies ineffectually and upon recommendation of a physician I gave up. But I met your advertisement, and it relieved me immediately and cured my cold and catarrh entirely. It is a remedy that should be used in every household."

—Now for the Maying parties.

ADVICE TO MOTHERS.
Are you disturbed at night and broken of your rest by a sick child suffering and crying with pain of cutting teeth? It is so sad and one gets a bottle of Mrs. WINSLOW'S SOOTHING SYRUP FOR CHILDREN'S TEETHING. It will relieve the poor little sufferer immediately. Depend upon it, mothers, there is no mistake about it. It cures dysentery and diarrhoea, regulates the stomach and bowels, cures colic, softens the gums, reduces inflammation, and gives tone and energy to the system. Mrs. WINSLOW'S SOOTHING SYRUP FOR CHILDREN'S TEETHING is pleasant to the taste, and is the prescription of one of the oldest and best female physicians and nurses in the United States, and is used by all druggists throughout the world. Price 25 cents. 42-lyr

If disease has entered the system the only way to drive it out is to purify the blood. This can be done as is known by all medical men, nothing is better adapted than iron. The fault hereof has been that iron could not be so prepared as to be absolutely harmless to the teeth. This difficulty has been overcome by the Brown's Chemical Co. of Baltimore, Md., who offer their Brown's Iron Bitters as a faultless iron preparation and a positive cure for dyspepsia, indigestion, kidney troubles, etc.

Birmingham, one of the three prisoners that escaped from Queen Anne county jail on April 13th, was recaptured at Middletown on Wednesday night. He says that he has been at his home in Centerville ever since he broke jail.

There has been an abundance of fly-bait, rock, &c., in the Choptank this season, and large quantities of rock are yet being caught. The opinion is almost unanimous that this return of this fish to our waters is the result of our fish commission.

The Crime of a Crank.

BOSTON, May 1.—The law machinery of Massachusetts seems unable to grapple with and dispose of so novel a case as that of Freeman of Chelsea. There was an eager crowd in the little court room at Barnstable this morning when Justice Colburn took his seat upon the bench. Upon the front bench of the seats usually allotted to spectators sat the Pocsasset zealot, pale, calm, and dignified, seemingly undisturbed by the frightful metamorphosis the anniversary must have called up. He sat for fully two hours with his eyes fixed on the Judge and around him, and in the meantime he uttered the most extraordinary remarks in the history of the court. His keeper remained at his side and his wife occupied a seat some distance away.

Chas. A. Tabor, Freeman's counsel, rose to ask for the discharge of his client "four years ago," he said, "an event happened in the little village of Pocsasset which has brought us here to-day. At that time living together with two small children, who had within a few years moved there from Lynn. This couple had for some time been interested in religious matters, and during the winter and spring of 1879 they became so intensely interested that in April, 1879, they became insane. On the night of April 29, under attack of insanity produced by an intense excitement upon religious matters, they went to the room where the two children were sleeping. After kneeling down by the bedside in prayer, the mother took the child of the father, and in a delirious condition which was laboring, raised a knife, which he buried in the heart of the other child. The legal history of the case was reviewed, and expert testimony offered in regard to the insanity of the mother. Dr. N. B. Goldsmith, Superintendent of the Lunatic Asylum, described Freeman's delusion. When he was brought to the institution he believed that he was specially favored by God, and that from him he had had a direct revelation. He regarded himself as the Christ of his age, and regarded his appearance at this epoch as an important event in religious history, and sometimes doubted whether he had not been inspired by the devil instead of by a beneficent deity. Later on he began to doubt whether he was really insane or the victim of demonic delusion. About a year ago he came to the conclusion that he was or had been insane. Gradually all his delusions left him, and for ten months he had his full liberty on the hospital grounds on parole. There was no need to watch him, as an insane man, for he was now fully recovered. We say whether there was any danger of a relapse would be purely guess work. Apparently there was not. But he has now the same mental constitution as he had previously, and he is not liable to insanity. He did not believe there would be any danger in allowing him to go free.

Several letters from medical experts on mental diseases were presented, in which various views of Freeman's case were outlined. All the writers agreed that by keeping clear of revival meetings and other excitements he would probably remain free from the malady.

Mr. Tabor then asked Freeman to take the stand and tell his story. He began: "Four years ago I was insane. I cannot go into the details, for it would involve me in a great deal of my own error." Here his lip trembled, his eyes filled with tears, and for a time he buried his face in his hands and sobbed. He soon recovered, and without excitement answered the sharp questions of the Attorney-General.

He said he experienced religion at 21 years of age. He was connected with the church in Lynn for two years. I noticed when I was in Pocsasset that the work of the church, my religious zeal increased. At the time I killed my child I fully believed I was doing God's will. It occurred to me that it was an insane act about two years afterward. I have not, in my estimation, been insane for about 11 or 12 months at least. I have had grief and sorrow in relation to that act, and as I know the results, I would never again associate with persons who hold such religious views as I did. I was very much overworked prior to that time. I hardly slept, and had no appetite for four weeks before the deed. I could converse on any subject rationally, except religion.

The case was submitted to the finally corrected line of direction, or a lagging or a struggle in pursuit of the common object—success!

Life Insurance.
The Sun Mutual Aid Society of Baltimore City, whose advertisement appears in our columns, is a Co-operative Association, for Mutual Benefit, in case of Permanent Disability, Death or Maturity of Certificates. It has steadily grown in numbers, and in the favor of the public. It has not aimed to grow rapidly, so much as to grow healthily and strong that it may be a permanent institution reliable for pecuniary benefits, to its members, their widows and orphans. Incorporated in February, 1880, it has now entered on its fourth year, and has issued over One Thousand certificates in sums of $25 to $5,000, amounting to near Three Millions of Dollars. It has had but Eleven death assessments and one of Permanent Disability, which have been paid except No. 11 now in course of collection. During last year the Society paid nearly $6,000 benefits for deceased members, who had paid into the Society, for membership fees, dues, and assessments, all told, less than ($200) Two Hundred Dollars. The plan of its workings is plain and easily understood. The members pay an admission fee, and quarterly dues, for expenses for deceased members, and the benefit of its members who may become disabled by accident or disease, or who may live to mature their certificates, and who may die during their lifetime, or for their heirs in case of death. Thus benefits are assured at the lowest possible cost, and the amount of its certificates is called for only as needed when losses occur. The value of a certificate is the amount that may be realized from an assessment on all its members, not exceeding the sum mentioned in the certificate. The members cannot be assessed more than their specified rates but are assessed less for certificates of less amount than those held by themselves. The Sun Mutual Aid Society is an institution under the direction of well-known business men of Baltimore city, and its members and references are of all parts of the State. The membership is not confined to males; both sexes are admitted on equal terms. The Society conforms strictly to the laws of the State, and the requirements of the Insurance Department. We can recommend the Baltimore Sun Mutual as the best and cheapest insurance company obtainable. For further information inquire of some of its members, Mr. O. E. Rochester, Col. J. W. Bryant, Mr. Thos. C. West, Teller Denton National Bank, L. H. Gadd, J. H. Vangness, Thos. M. Cooper, Myrdell, etc., or of Melvin Bros., this office.

Three Strong Points.

Point One:
Men's Spring Overcoats; a big stock that takes in everything from the very plain low priced to the finest, from the lightest fancy color to the plain black, from the smallest youths' to the largest of large men's sizes. A commanding stock that every light overcoat buyer must see—if he cares to know the market.

Point Two:
Fifteen Lines of Men's Business Suits. A little money is a powerful thing in Oak Hall. Witness the following:
Fancy Cassimere Sack Suits at $8.50, and the same goods in walking coat style, at $9.00. Our only boast on them is that they are good for the money. Manhattan Cheviots in six full lines, both sacks and walking coats, at $10.00. The buttons and trimmings of these suits are very special attention. Plain Cassimeres; three varieties, in sack style, at $10.00. Very reliable.

Five styles of Harris Cassimere Suits, of quiet styles, and in both Sack and Walking Coats, at $16.00. The well-known reputation of these goods speak for themselves.

These fifteen lines are not fragments pulled together for an advertisement. They represent two thousand suits, and goods to make more. There is business, in them.

Point Three:
Custom Made Clothing. A large display of piece goods to order. There are very great bargains in all the following lines:

Class A, in any ordinary business style, $18.00
Class B, " " " " 20.00
Class C, " " " " 22.50
Class D, " " " " 25.00
Our "points" are made short and sharp for practical people.

Invitation.
Strangers are invited to visit our store, when in Philadelphia, to leave packages there, and to make a convenience of it generally. It is a handy place, right by the new City Hall, at the very center of the city. It answers our purpose to welcome you, and to provide for such of your wants as we can.

The store is about twice as large as it was two or three years ago; made so by digging under ground and building overhead, and by extension on Chestnut street. Parts of the store are about as comfortable as any place can be; and one of the most comfortable parts is now being got ready for the rest and refreshment of strangers.

One of the pleasant things about the store always has been the fact that you can walk all over it, either alone or with a guide, without ever being asked to buy a thing. We know very well that most of you come to us for a good share of your supplies; why should we spoil your visit by intruding goods upon your attention, when you come to see the place?

But perhaps you are not coming to Philadelphia just now. Very well; take a cooler time. It's cool enough in the store, when you get here. You can write for any goods that you may happen to want; and get them, probably, just as well as if you were on the spot. Any how, you know, you can return whatever you get that you don't like.

We sell more sorts of things than we can put into an advertisement. So, whatever you want, suppose you drop us a line. We'll help you if we can.
