Not Selling Cider.—Mr. Abe Cohen, the hustling Sandy Bottom merchant, advertises bargains in this issue. Last week the NEWS made his adv. read "good cider" when it should have read "good cider vinegar." Mr. Cohen does not sell cider and we take pleasure in correcting this mistake.

SLUMP IN TOMATOES!

Chestertown has been a good market for tomatoes this season, three buyers, Messrs. Lambert, Dunbracco and Tolls, bidding freely for the vegetable. Over 1600 packages were shipped from this wharf Tuesday and about 1400 Wednesday, the highest price being 29 cents per basket. One buyer bought 1100 baskets at 28 cents and when they reached Baltimore the city market was glutted and he lost just $80 on the shipment.

Thursday local buyers paid 15 and 16 cents and at Buck Neck only 13 cents per basket were paid. It is said that truckers and farmers of New Jersey and Delaware and elsewhere rushed the tomatoes to Baltimore this week and caused the big slump.

SALE OF STOCK.

Half a Thousand Head of Horses, Mules and Colts Sold in Kent County This Year.

There were 182 head of horses, mules and colts advertised in the KENT NEWS last week. The sale of fillies and mule colts by Mr. J. B. Richardson last Saturday was well attended. FIRST OYSTER ARRIVALS.

The Gasoline Bugeye Emma Arrives With Two Cargoes in 27 Hours.

To the gasoline bugeye Emma, owned by Messrs. William C. Watkins and W. B. Tilyard, belongs the honor of having brought the first legitimate cargo of oysters to Baltimore this season. The Emma, in charge of Capt. Samuel E. Coleman, arrived from Swan Point before sunset on Monday. The Emma soon sold out and sailed for Swan Point again, arriving back Tuesday night with 250 bushels of oysters, two-thirds of which were caught Tuesday. Ten or fifteen oyster vessels arrived Wednesday. The tug Mohawk towed in four boats, one of which discharged and sailed again inside of two hours.

A well-known oysterman says Tuesday was a good day for oystering, but that he and his culler only caught 3½ bushels. "I found dead oysters on the ridges and in shoals on Swan Point bar. Last season we caught from 7 to 10 bushels at this time of the year."

Capt. Geo. F. Satterfield, of the police schooner Anna B. Smith, was in town Tuesday. Capt. Satterfield says that many large oysters have died and that the growth of young ones has not been great. He thinks the cull law is admirable and without it very little increase at all would be made.

Charged with Selling Liquor.—Mrs. Tobe Joiner, of Worton Station, was arrested Tuesday by Officer Duyer and held in $200 bail for a hearing on a charge of selling liquor. Constable Duyer says Mrs. Joiner was approached by a Bohemian and asked for liquor which she gave him and he in return paid her in canning house checks and money. The checks and money are in the possession of Mr. Dwyer! When the Bohemian was confronted with the charge he said "I paid Mrs. Joiner for my washing and she gave me the whiskey!" Justice Moffett will conduct the hearing.

TOLCHESTER PLANTATION SOLD !

A Valuable Tract of Land in Possession of Chestertown Citizens—Bought at Private Sale.

John W. Woodside, Esq., of Philadelphia, through Messrs. Cosgriff & Beck agents, have sold the Tolchester Plantation to Messrs. Wm. B. Usilton & Sons for $25,000. This tract of land comprises 1,000 acres adjoining the Tolchester resort, has a frontage of a mile on Chesapeake Bay, elegant buildings and the land is under a high state of cultivation. The sale includes not only the 1,000 acres of land, but also the present crops. The new owners take charge of the property at once.

Mr. Charles S. Smith has purchased the Chambers farm in Queen Anne's, near Rolph's Wharf, for $4,000. This farm contains about 180 acres.

Mrs. Sallie Ivens has purchased of Mr. L. B. Russell the Blackway property on High street for $1200 and will remove to Chestertown and occupy same.

Mr. George H. Snitcher has sold to Mr. Wm. Cosden, of Dover, Del., the property at McGinness, known as the Hopper Smith property for $2,250. It consists of dwelling house, store and 17 acres of land.

Mr. George V. Peverley has sold his large dwelling in Middletown to Mr. Marcellus Jones, who is farming near town, the price being $3,200.

Mr. N. H. Clark has purchased of F. G. Usilton the home occupied by the former in Millington.

DEATH'S DOINGS • • •

Mr Charles Erdman, one of the oldest inhabitants of Centreville, died at the residence of his son-in-law, Mr. James Bramble, Wednesday afternoon, at 5.15 o'clock. Mr. Erdman was apparently as well all the morning as ever, but about half past one o'clock was taken with a conjestive chill, the fourth attack, from which he never recovered. Mr. Erdman would have been 88 years old next November. He was a consistent member of the M. E. Church. Eight children, four daughters and four sons, survive him. One of his daughters is Mrs. Wm. B. Coleman, of Chestertown.

Capt. Perry Biggs, a former resident of Worton, this county, died at his home in Baltimore last Thursday, aged 67 years. The remains were brought over via Buck Neck, Saturday, and interred in Chester cemetery, funeral services being conducted by Rev. E. C. Makoskey. The deceased leaves a widow and one son. Undertaker Dodd had charge of funeral arrangements.

Ex-Justice August G. Mathiot, aged 74, died in Baltimore Thursday after a long illness. A widow, Mrs. Rachel Mathiot, and a daughter, Mrs. George Gibson, of Philadelphia, survive.

ROOSEVELT IN WRECK !

Secret Service Agent Dies Trying to Save President—Reckless Motorman.

President Theodore Roosevelt was painfully injured, but not disabled, by an electric car crashing into his carriage Wednesday morning at Pittsfield, Mass. The President's injuries consist of severe bruises to his right cheek and a general shock. His cheek is swollen and black and his right eye is almost closed. Wm. Craig, a Secret Service detective, who was riding in the carriage with the President, was instantly killed while trying to save Mr. Roosevelt's life by warning the motorman to stop the car David J. Pratt, driver of the carriage, had his shoulder dislocated and was bruised all over the body.

The other occupants of the carriage were George B. Cortelvou, secretary to the President, whose face and body were bruised; Gov. W. Murray Crane, of Massachusetts, and Representative Geo. P. Lawrence, of the First Massachusetts district, who escaped with a slight shaking up. Euclid Madden, motorman, and James Kelly, conductor of the car which ran into the President's carriage, were arrested. When the President asked Madden why he was running the car in such a manner, the motorman answered :

"Because I had the right of way."

The President called for the conductor of the car and said :

"This is the most damnable outrage I ever knew."

Mr. Roosevelt was brave and refused assistance, asking that those who needed help worse be looked after. He continued his trip, though he made no set speeches, but briefly announced to the waiting crowds the accident that had occurred. After a quick journey by rail through Western Massachusetts and Connecticut he arrived at Bridgeport, where he boarded the United States yacht Sylph and sailed to his home at Oyster Bay, Long Island.

A Washington dispatch states that the President will be asked to curtail the future trips he has planned. The view will be presented to him that he must be careful of his life for the sake of the nation, though personally he is averse to restrictions of this kind.

In Wall street there was a brief shock to the market, but normal conditions were easily restored.

WE are sorry to report that Rev. J. D. Kemp has been compelled to resign his charge at Millington on account of ill health. He and his family removed to the Bordley house, Main and Cross streets, Chestertown, yesterday. He has the heartfelt sympathy of a host of friends.
