THE OPENING GUN

Fired in Chestertown Tuesday Night by A. S. Goldsborough, Esq., an Orator of Great Eloquence—An Enthusiastic Audience —Other Clubs Organized.

About two hundred Democrats of Chestertown and vicinity met in Stam's Hall Tuesday evening and listened to an eloquent address delivered by A. S. Goldsborough, Esq, of Baltimore. Mr. Goldsborough took up this issue of the campaign as outlined by Parker in his letter of acceptance and discussed them in a most interesting, intelligent and comprehensive manner. He is the peer of any of the young speakers in the State and has but few rivals. His delivery is easy, his voice resonant and strong while his ready mind gives him a flow of language that is hard to excel.

The meeting was opened by Mr. Wm S. Culp, president of the Fourth District club, who presided and introduced the speaker. Vice-president, Charles L. Dodd, was also upon the stage. The meeting was the first of the campaign and its success is good men.

SIXTH DISTRICT LEAGUE.

The Parker, Davis and Smith League of the Sixth Election District, of Kent county has been formed at Fairlee with the following officers: Presideht, I. C. Taylor; 1st Vice-President, Jesse H. Usilton; Secretary, T. E. W. Crew; Asst. Secretary, Howard Reese; Treasurer, Thomas Skirven; Vice-Presidents, Walter Stokes, John Morris, Will Jewell, Charlie Adkinson, B. I. Taylor, John Fowler, Tom Fowler, W. E. Loud, H. C. Willis, Robt. Morgan, Harry Rash, Arthur Loller, Vincent Lee, W. T. Brice, Sutton Tarbutton, Walter Barnes, Archer Ramage, Snowden Thomas, A Foscett, Jas. Lecates, Fris. Ward, Samuel Gears, Charlie Gibson. Messrs. John P. Nicholson, R. C. Morgan and E. J. Watson were appointed as a committee to secure a speaker.

The Third District Parker, Davis and Smith Democratic League has been organized at Worton. On motion Mr. Samuel Mann was elected president. H. W. Anderson and J. W. Carter were elected secretaries. Vice-Presidents: Thos. J. Willis, Romie Skirven, Jas. M. Sutton, Arthur Harris, Noble B. Gears, John H. Crew, George N. Cooper, J. W. Ivens, J. H. O. Stokes, George W. Rasb, W. H. Minner, Jas. S. Matthews, Romie McCauley, Joseph L. Fowler, Jas. N. Sheats.

Motion made, seconded and carried that Guy Turner be Corresponding Secretary and Noble Gears Treasurer. Motion made that each member bring all possible information regarding who should be stricken from registration books, also persons who shall be entitled to register in order that proper measures can be taken to attend registration.

PRISONER ESCAPES!

Constable John Duyer's Prisoner Jumps from Car Window And Took Manacle With Him.

Deputy Sheriff John Duyer, of Kent county, called at police headquarters in Baltimore Tuesday and stated that a prisoner named Richard Hoffman, aged 19 years, had escaped from him Monday afternoon by jumping from a window of a Baltimore and Ohio accomadation train near Mount Winan's Station. The officer stated that he was taking the boy to the Maryland House of Correction, at Jessups, he having been committed to that institution from Worton.

Dwyer and his prisoner arrived at Light Street Wharf from Kent county about noon, and they took the 3:10 o'clock train from Camden Station. The prisoner behaved himself so well that Dwyer did not watch him closely, and when the train was approaching Mount Winans Hoffman broke his handcuffs over the top of the seat in front of him and jumped from the window before the deputy sheriff, who was examining the scenery from the front part of the coach, could stop him. The train was moving along slowly at the time, but when the officer tried to alight he found that it was most too fast for him to take the risk.

Hoffman had been sentenced to serve six months for being drunk and disorderly and threatening his employer, a farmer residing near Worton, in Kent county. Marshall Farnan promised to endeavor to apprehend the fugitive.

When the train was stopped and the officer ran back to the spot where his prisoner had escaped no sign of Hoffman could be seen.

The train was moving very slowly at the time Hoffman jumped and it is supposed that he escaped uninjured. Hoffman had a manacle on his right wrist.

KENT CANNING HOUSES PUTTING UP FINE PACK.

The Yield in Kent Larger Than Any County in the State—The Pack Elsewhere Small—Several Farmers Get Over Ten Tons Per Acre!

A well-known packer of Baltimore in talking with a Kent county farmer remarked that "outside of Kent county and a small spot in New Jersey there were very few tomatoes being shipped to market this year." Many of the canning houses down the Shore have closed while those in this county are running at full capacity.

There are canneries in operation at Rock Hall, Chestertown, Worton Station, Lynch's, Still Pond, Kennedyville, Millington and elsewhere and they have been of untold benefit to the farmers and all who wanted work. Indeed, the canning industry has grown to large proportions and with the improved facilities for handling the crop, the demand on our farmers is one that gives them plenty to do while the season lasts. The Numsen Canning Company, the only industry that employs all home labor, is a veritable beehive of activity during these days and with the latest improved machinery they have introduced, they are turning out thousands of cans a day.

A new feature has been added to factories, viz, a machine for the making of "tomato paste," a preparation entering into the manufacture of Italian Chees, a delicate dish. This paste is made from the peeling tables through sluices and carried to a pulp mill constructed at the rear of the factory, where it undergoes a process and thence to the vats by means of long troughs. The watery substance is drained off through the sewer.

The Robinson Cannery at the depot closed last Saturday. This house and several others employ only Bohemians who live in colonies and save their money for winter.

The farmers who failed to contract missed it this year because the market price has been low, but the contractors have realized good pay. We have heard of a number of farmers who raised more than ten tons per acre, one man claiming to have picked 125 tons from 8½ acres. We have the half promise of this gentleman for an article on "how to grow tomatoes" but when it was suggested that he also give his experience of last year he became embarrassed! A farmer near Chestertown planted bad seed and has not been able to get tomatoes for home use. Others saved their seed from last year and found it was a good idea.

Miss Nora Boston has been appointed teacher of Broad Neck School.

DEATH'S DOINGS.

Alonza Vandyke Drowned In Delaware River —Funeral Of The Late C. H. B. Massey Esq.—Death Of Mr. Senart.

The following item appeared in the Philadelphia papers of September 10th. "The body of a man, which is supposed to be that of Alonza Vandyke, of Eighth and Vine streets, who formerly lived at Chestertown, Md., was found floating in the Delaware River yesterday at arch street wharf. The body was taken to the Morgue." Mr. Vandyke went to Wilmington from here and for months could not be located but recently had been to work for Mr. Alwyn M. Culp at Middletown. The deceased was a carpenter by trade.

The funeral of the late Charles H. B. Massey, Esq., was held Monday at the home of his mother on Maple Avenue. Rev. Albert Ware, of Masseys, officiated. The interment took place at St. Clements Church in the family lot, the body being conveyed thence on private car. A large number of friends attended the sad rites. The bearers were: Messrs. James G. Beck, Curtis E. Crane, Thos. W. Perkins, Dr. G. A. Jarman, Prof. E. J. Clarke, Prof. A. B. Burris, Chestertown; Richard Wallace, of Galena, and Isaac Gibbs, of Sassafras. Some appropriate selections were rendered by Mrs. Allan A. Harris, Miss Isabel Beck, Mrs. Lucy Stavely, Prof. E. J. Clarke, and Mr. Thomas W. Perkins; J. E. Ferguson, of Chestertown, Undertaker.

Mr. Charles B. Senart died at his home on High street Wednesday after a long illness, aged 77. The deceased came to this county from France and engaged in raising vegetables, flowers and conducting a hot house. For several years he lived at Chesterville but most of his life he has spent in Chestertown. He leaves a widow, two sons and a daughter. The funeral took place yesterday morning, Father McKenna officiating. The pall bearers were J. T. Dixon, H. L. Boyd, Wm. McKee, Alexander Gray, Fred. Humbert, Chas. W. Copper; Undertaker, J. E. Ferguson.

MONEY PLENTIFUL!

Fine Showing Made By Eastern Shore Banks —Statements Show Over A Million Dollars In Chestertown Banks.

The NEWS last week published statements of Chestertown banks which showed that Kent county is the financial centre of the Eastern Shore. There is more money deposited here than any other town in this section of the State or in Delaware. The total amount on deposit foots up to nearly a million and a half! The following figures prove interesting.

GEORGE HARRIS the seventeen-year-old son of Capt George Harris, of the schooner Corsica, broke his left arm Monday afternoon while playing on his father's boat, which was tied up to the wharf at Centreville Landing. The lad was climbing the rigging when he slipped and fell heavily upon the deck of the boat.

THE public sales held this week have been largely attended and good prices have been realized. Mr. W. B. Wilmer got from $50 to $140 for horses; cows from $20 to $40. Mr. W. Walter Gale's horses brought from $75 to $135; cows averaged $30 each; sheep sold for $5.70 each.
